INTRODUCTION

THE life of Euripides coincides with the most strenuous and most triumphant period of Athenian history, strenuous and triumphant not only in action, but in thought, a period of daring enterprise, alike in material conquest and development, and in art, poetry, and philosophic speculation He was born in 480 B C, the year of Thermopylae and Salamis Athens was at the height of her glory and power, and was year by year becoming more and more the City Beautiful, when his genius was in its first flush of creation He had been writing for more than forty years before the tragedy of the Sicilian Expedition was enacted, and, felix opportunitate mortis, he was spared the knowledge of the shameful sequel of Arginusae, the miserable disaster of Aegospotami, the last lingering agony of famished Athens He died more than a year before these calamities befell

His father was named Mnesarchides, his mother Kleito They must have been wealthy, for their son possessed not only considerable property (he had at least once to discharge a "liturgy," [1] and was "proxenus," or consul, for Magnesia, costly duties both), but also, what was especially rare then, a valuable library His family must have been well-born, for it is on record that he took part as a boy in certain festivals of Apollo, for which any one of mean birth would have been ineligible

He appeared in the dramatic arena at a time when it was thronged with competitors, and when it must have been most difficult for a new writer to achieve a position Aeschylus had just died, after being before the public for 45 years Sophocles had been for ten years in the front rank, and was to write for fifty years longer, while there were others, forgotten now, but good enough to wrest the victory from these at half the annual dramatic competitions at least. Moreover, the new poet was not content to achieve excellence along the lines laid down by his predecessors and already marked with the stamp of public approval His genius was original, and he followed it fearlessly, and so became an innovator in his handling of the religious and ethical problems presented by the old legends, in the literary setting he gave to these, and even in the technicalities of stage-presentation As originality makes conquest of the official judges of literature last, and as his work ran counter to a host of prejudices, honest and otherwise,[1] it is hardly surprising that his plays gained the first prize only five times in fifty years

But the number of these official recognitions is no index of his real popularity, of his hold on the hearts, not only of his countrymen, but of all who spoke his mother-tongue. It is told how on two occasions the bitterest enemies of Athens so far yielded to his spell, that for his sake they spared to his conquered countrymen, to captured Athens, the last horrors of war, the last humiliation of the vanquished After death he became, and remained, so long as Greek was a living language, the most popular and the most influential of the three great masters of the drama His nineteenth-century eclipse has been followed by a reaction in which he is recognised as

[1] "He was baited incessantly by a rabble of comic writers, and of course by the great pack of the orthodox and the vulgar"—MURRAY

presenting one of the most interesting studies in all literature

In his seventy-third year he left Athens and his clamorous enemies, to be an honoured guest at the court of the king of Macedon There, unharassed by the malicious vexations, the political unrest, and the now imminent perils of Athens, he wrote with a freedom, a rapidity, a depth and fervour of thought, and a splendour of diction, which even he had scarcely attained before

He died in 406 B C , and, in a revulsion of repentant admiration and love, all Athens, following Sophocles' example, put on mourning for him Four plays, which were part of the fruits of his Macedonian leisure, were represented at Athens shortly after his death, and were crowned by acclamation with the first prize, in spite of the attempt of Aristophanes, in his comedy of The Frogs, a few months before, to belittle his genius

His characteristics, as compared with those of his two great brother-dramatists, may be concisely stated thus —

Aeschylus sets forth the operation of great principles, especially of the certainty of divine retribution, and of the persistence of sin as an ineradicable plague-

taint He believes and trembles Sophocles depicts great characters he ignores the malevolence of destiny and the persistent power of evil to him "man is man, and master of his fate" He believes with unquestioning faith Euripides propounds great moral problems· he analyses human nature, its instincts, its passions, its motives, he voices the cry of the human soul against the tyranny of the supernatural, the selfishness and cruelty of man, the crushing weight of environment He questions "he will not make his judgment blind"

Of more than 90 plays which Euripides wrote, the names of 81 have been preserved, of which 19 are extant—18 tragedies, and one satyric drama, the Cyclops His first play, The Daughters of Pelias (lost) was represented in 455 B C The extant plays may be arranged, according to the latest authorities, in the following chronological order of representation, the dates in brackets being conjectural (1) Rhesus (probably the earliest), (2) Cyclops, (3) Alcestis, 438; (4) Medea, 431; (5) Children of Hercules, (429–427); (6) Hippolytus, 428, (7) Andromache, (430–424), (8) Hecuba, (425), (9) Suppliants, (421), (10) Madness of Hercules, (423–420); (11) Ion, (419–416); (12) Daughters of Troy, 415, (13) Electra, (413);

(14) Iphigeneia in Taurica, (414–412), (15) Helen, 412, (16) Phoenician Maidens, (411–409), (17) Orestes, 408, (18) Bacchanals, 405, (19) Iphigeneia in Aulis, 405

In this edition the plays are arranged in three main groups, based on their connexion with (1) the Story of the Trojan War, (2) the Legends of Thebes, (3) the Legends of Athens The Alcestis is a story of old Thessaly The reader must, however, be prepared to find that the Trojan War series does not present a continuously connected story, nor, in some details, a consistent one These plays, produced at times widely apart, and not in the order of the story, sometimes present situations (as in Hecuba, Daughters of Troy, and Helen) mutually exclusive, the poet not having followed the same legend throughout the series.

The Greek text of this edition may be called eclectic, being based upon what appeared, after careful consideration, to be the soundest conclusions of previous editors and critics. In only a few instances, and for special reasons, have foot-notes on readings been admitted Nauck's arrangement of the choruses has been followed, with few exceptions

The translation (first published 1894–1898) has been revised throughout, with two especial aims, closer fidelity to the original, and greater lucidity in expression It is hoped that the many hundreds of corrections will be found to bring it nearer to the attainment of these objects The version of the Cyclops, which was not included in the author's translation of the Tragedies, has been made for this edition This play has been generally neglected by English translators, the only existing renderings in verse being those of Shelley (1819), and Wodhull (1782)

IPHIGENEIA AT AULIS

ARGUMENT

WHEN the hosts of Hellas were mustered at Aulis beside the narrow sea, with purpose to sail against Troy, they were hindered from departing thence by the wrath of Artemis, who suffered no favouring wind to blow Then, when they enquired concerning this, Calchas the prophet proclaimed that the anger of the Goddess would not be appeased save by the sacrifice of Iphigeneia, eldest daughter of Agamemnon, captain of the host Now she abode yet with her mother in Mycenae, but the king wrote a lying letter to her mother, bidding her send her daughter to Aulis, there to be wedded to Achilles All this did Odysseus devise, but Achilles knew nothing thereof When the time drew near that she should come, Agamemnon repented him sorely And herein is told how he sought to undo the evil, and of the maiden's coming, and how Achilles essayed to save her, and how she willingly offered herself for Hellas' sake, and of the marvel that befell at the sacrifice

I come What purpose hast thou in hand,
Agamemnon, my king?

AGAMEMNON

And wilt thou not hasten?

Of bird, nor whisper of sea, and deep
Is the hush of the winds on Euripus that sleep

OLD SERVANT

Yet without thy tent, Agamemnon my lord,
Why dost thou pace thus feverishly?
Over Aulis yonder is night's peace poured
They are hushed which along the walls keep ward Come, pass we within

AGAMEMNON

I envy thee,
Ancient, and whoso unperilled may pace
Life's pathway unheeded and unenowned
But little I envy the high in place

OLD SERVANT

Yet the life of these is glory-crowned

AGAMEMNON

Ah, still with the glory is peril bound
Sweetly ambition tempteth, I trow,
Yet is it neighbour to sore disquiet
For the Gods' will clasheth with man's will now, Wrecking his life by men that riot
With divers desires, whom one cannot content,
Now is the web of a life's work rent

OLD SERVANT

Nay, in a king I love not this repining Atreus begat thee, Agamemnon, not Only to bask in days all cloudless-shining
Needs must be joy and sorrow in thy lot
Mortal thou art though marred be thy designing, Still to fulfilment is the Gods' will brought

Thou the star-glimmer of thy lamp hast litten, Wrotest a letter—in thine hand yet grasped,—
Then thou erasest that which thou hast written,
Sealest, and breakest bands as soon as clasped,

Castest to earth the pine-slip, ever streaming
 Tears from thine eyes, nor lacketh anything
Of madness in thy mien despairful-seeming
 What is thy grief, thy strange affliction, king?

Come, let me share thy story to the loyal Thou wilt reveal it, to the true and tried,
Whom, at thy bridal, with the dower royal Tyndareus sent to wait upon thy bride

AGAMEMNON

Three daughters Leda, child of Thestius, bare,
Phoebe, and Clytemnestra mine own wife,
And Helen Wooing this last, princes came In fortune foremost in all Hellas-land
With fearful threatenings breathed they murder, each Against his rivals, if he won her not

Then sore perplexed was Tyndareus her sire,
How, giving or refusing, he should 'scape
Shipwreck and this thing came into his mind,
That each to each the suitors should make oath,
And clasp right hands, and with burnt sacrifice Should pour drink-offerings, and swear to this — Whose wife soever Tyndareus' child should be,
Him to defend if any from her home
Stole her and fled, and thrust her lord aside,
To march against him, and to raze his town,
Hellene or alien, with their mailed array
So when they had pledged them thus, and cunningly Old Tyndareus had by craft outwitted them,
He let his daughter midst the suitors choose Him unto whom Love's sweet winds wafted her

She chose—O had she never chosen him!—
Menelaus Then from Phrygia he who judged
The Goddesses, as Argive legend tells,
To Sparta came, his vesture flower-bestarred Gleaming with gold, barbaric bravery,
Loved Helen, and was loved, stole her and fled
To Ida's steadings, when from home afar
Menelaus was Through Hellas frenzy-stung
He sped, invoking Tyndareus' ancient oath, Claiming of all their bond to help the wronged.

Thereat up sprang the Hellenes spear in hand,
Donned mail of fight, and to this narrow gorge
Of Aulis came, with galleys and with shields,
And many a horse and chariots many arrayed
And me for Menelaus' sake they chose
For chief, his brother Would some other man Might but have won the honour in my stead!

Now when the gathered host together came,
At Aulis did we tarry weather-bound
Then the seer Calchas bade in our despair
Slay Iphigeneia, her whom I begat,
To Artemis who dwelleth in this land,
So should we voyage, and so Phrygia smite,
But if we slew her not, it should not be
I, when I heard this, bade Talthybius
Dismiss the host with proclamation loud,
Since I would never brook to slay my child
Whereat my brother, pleading manifold pleas,
To the horror thrust me In a tablet's folds
I wrote, and bade therein my wife to send Our daughter, as to be Achilles' bride,
Extolled therein the hero's high repute,

Then turn them aback, grasp, shake the rein
To the walls Cyclopean speed them again

OLD SERVANT

Yea, this will I do

AGAMEMNON

From the gates forth go—

OLD SERVANT

Yet how shall thy wife and thy daughter know
My faith herein, that the thing is so?

AGAMEMNON

Keep thou this seal, whose impress lies
On the letter thou bearest Away!—the skies
Already are grey, and they kindle afar
With the dawn's first flush, and the Sun-god's car
Now help thou my start!

No man to the end is fortunate,
Happy is none
For a lot unvexed never man yet won [Exit

I have come to the Aulian sea-gulf's verge, (Str 1)
To her gleaming sands
I have voyaged Euripus' rushing surge
From the city that stands
Queen of the Sea-gate, Chalcis mine,
On whose bosom-fold
Arethusa gleameth, the fountain divine,—
Have come to behold
The Achaean array, and the heroes' oars
That shall onward speed
A thousand galleys to Troyland's shores
These two kings lead
Yea, with prince Menelaus the golden-haired,
As our own lords say, ἐνέπουσ' Ἀγαμέμνονά τ' εὐπατρίδαν στέλλειν ἐπὶ τὰν Ἑλέναν, ἀπ' Εὐρώτα δονακοτρόφου Πάρις ὁ βουκόλος ἂν ἔλαβε, δῶρον τᾶς Ἀφροδίτας, ὅτ' ἐπὶ κρηναίαισι δρόσοις Ἥρᾳ Παλλάδι τ' ἔριν ἔριν μορφᾶς ἁ Κύπρις ἔσχεν πολύθυτον δὲ δι ἄλσος Ἀρ- ἀντ α' τέμιδος ἤλυθον ὀρομένα, φοινίσσουσα παρῇδ' ἐμὰν αἰσχύνᾳ νεοθαλεῖ, ἀσπίδος ἔρυμα καὶ κλισίας ὁπλοφόρους Δαναῶν θέλουσ' ἵππων τ' ὄχλον ἰδέσθαι κατεῖδον δὲ δύ' Αἴαντε συνέδρω τὸν Οἰλέως Τελαμῶνός τε γόνον, τὸν Σαλαμῖνος στέφανον, Πρωτεσίλαόν τ' ἐπὶ θάκοις φαῖσι πολυπλόκοις, Παλαμήδεά θ', ὃν τέκε παῖς ὁ Ποσειδᾶνος, Διομήδεά θ' ἡδο-ναῖς δίσκου κεχαρημένον, παρὰ δὲ Μηριόνην, Ἄρεος ὄζον, θαῦμα βροτοῖσι,

And with King Agamemnon all these fared
On the vengeance-way,
On the quest of her whom the herdman drew
From beside the river
Of whispering reeds, his sin-wage due,— Aphrodite the giver,—
Promised, when into the fountain down
Spray-veiled she descended,[1]
When with Hera and Pallas for beauty's crown
The Cyprian contended
And through Artemis' grove of sacrifice (Ant 1) Hasting I came,
While swift in my cheeks did the crimson rise,
The roses of shame
For to look on the shields, on the tents agleam
With arms, was I fain,
And on thronging team upon chariot-team
There marked I twain,
The Oilid Aias and Telamon's child,
Salamis' pride
By the shifting maze of the draughts beguiled
Sat side by side
Protesilaus and he that was sprung
Of Poseidon's seed,
Palamedes · and there, by the strong arm flung
Of Diomede,
Did the discus leap, and he joyed therein,
And hard beside him
Was Meriones of the War-god's kin—
Men wondering eyed him

[1] In Andromache, 284–5, the rival Goddesses are described as bathing in a forest-fountain before coming before Paris for judgment.

There was Achilles, whose feet are as winds for the storm-rush unreined Him I beheld who of Thetis was born, who of Cheiron was trained,
Clad in his aimour he raced, over sand, over shingle he stiained, Matching in contest of swiftness his feet with a [chariot of four,
Rounding the sweep of the course for the victory — rang evermore
Shouts from Pheretid Eumelus, and aye with the goad [that he bore Smote he his horses most goodly—I saw them, saw gold-glitter deck Richly then bits, and the midmost, the car-yoke who bore on their neck, Dappled were they, with a hair here and there like a snow-smitten fleck
They that in traces without iound the perilous [turning-post swept, Bays were they, spotted their fetlocks · Peleides beside them on-leapt Sheathed in his hainess, unflagging by car-iail and axle he kept

And I came where the host of the war-ships lies,— A marvel past telling,—
To fill with the vision a woman's eyes
And a heart joy-swelling

Now would I in turn upbraid thee, briefly, not exalting high Shameless brows of haughty scorning, nay, but ever soberly,
As becomes a brother, for the noble hold by chivalry
Answer, why this breath tempestuous, why these bloodshot eyes of strife?
Who doth wrong thee? What dost crave? Dost yearn to win a virtuous wife?
This I cannot find thee her thou gainedst, vilely ruledst thou
What?—must I, who have not erred, for thy transgression suffer now?
Or doth mine advancement gall thee?—nay, but one desire thou hast, [thou cast,
In thine arms to clasp a lovely woman!—reason dost Yea, and honour to the winds!—the pleasures of the vile are base [place,

MESSENGER

O King of Hellas' host,
Agamemnon, lo, thy child I bring to thee,
Named of thee Iphigeneia in thine halls
Her mother Clytemnestia comes with hei, Orestes, too, the babe, to glad thine eyes
Who from thine home long time hast sojourned far
But, after weaiy journeying, at a spring
Fair-flowing now the women bathe their feet,
They and their steeds—for midst the meadow-giass
We turned them loose, that they might browse therein
I, to prepare thee, their forerunner come
For the host knoweth it, so swiftly spread
The rumour of the coming of thy child
And to the sight runs all the multitude
To see thy child, foi folk in high estate Famed and observed of all obseivers aie
"A bridal is it?"—they ask—"or what is toward?
Oi hath the King, of yeaining for his child, Sent for his daughter?" Otheis might'st thou hear—
"To Artemis, to Aulis' Queen, they pay[1]
The maiden's spousal-rites! The bridegroom who?"
Up then, prepaie the maunds foi sacrifice,
Garland youi heads —thou too, prince Menelaus,
Strike up the bridal hymn, and through the tents
Let the flute ring, with sound of dancing feet,
For gladsome dawns this day upon the maid.

AGAMEMNON

'Tis well—I thank thee pass thou now within Well shall the rest speed as Fate marcheth on ἀδελφέ, δός μοι δεξιᾶς τῆς σῆς θιγεῖν

Woe's me! What can I say, or where begin?
Into what bonds of doom have I been cast!
Me Fortune hath outwitted she hath proved Too cunning far for all my stratagems!
Lo now, what vantage cleaves to lowly birth!
For such may lightly ease their hearts with tears,
And tell out all their grief The same pangs touch
The high-born, but our life is tyrannized
By dignity we are the people's thralls.
So is it with me, for I shame to weep,
And yet shame not to weep, wretch that I am,
Who am fallen into deepest misery!
Lo now, what shall I say unto my wife,
Or how receive her?—with what countenance meet?
She hath undone me, coming midst mine ills Unbidden! Yet 'twas reason she should come
With her own child, to render to the bride Love's service—where I shall be villain found!
And the unhappy maid—why name her maid?
Hades meseems shall take her soon for bride
O me, the pity of it! I hear her pray—
"Ah, father, wilt thou slay me! Now such bridal Mayst thou too find, and all whom thou dost love!"
Orestes at her side shall wail the grief
Unmeaning, deep with meaning, of the babe
Alas, how Priam's son hath ruined me,
Paris, whose sin with Helen wrought all this

I also—far as alien woman may Mourn for the griefs of princes—pity thee

I give it Thine the triumph, mine the pang

MENELAUS

I swear by Pelops, of my sire and thine
Named father, and by Atreus our own sire,
That from mine heart's core I will speak to thee,
To serve no end, but all mine inmost thought
I, seeing how thine eyes are streaming tears,
Pity thee, and the answering tear I shed,
And from the words erst uttered I draw back,
Thy foe no more Lo, in thy place I stand,
And I exhort thee, neither slay thy child, Nor choose my good for thine Unjust it were
That thou shouldst groan, and all my cup be sweet,
That thy seed die, and mine behold the light
For, what would I? Can I not find a bride Peerless elsewhere, if I for marriage yearn?
How, should I lose—whom least I ought to lose—
A brother, win a Helen, bad for good?
Mad was I and raw-witted, till I viewed Things near, and saw what slaying children means Yea also, pity for the hapless maid
Doomed to be slaughtered for my bridal's sake, Stole o'er me, on our kinship when I thought
For what with Helen hath thy child to do?
From Aulis let the host disbanded go!
But thou forbear to drown thine eyes with tears,
O brother mine, nor challenge me to weep
If thou hast part in oracles touching her,
No part be mine!—my share I yield to thee
"Swift change is here," thou'lt say, "from those grim words!"
Nay, but most meet · for love of him who sprang

AGAMEMNON

Will he not rise, think'st thou, in the Argive midst,
And tell the oracles that Calchas spake,
And how I promised Artemis her victim,
And now play false? And, rousing so the host,
Shall bid them slay thee, me, and sacrifice
The maiden? Though to Argos I escape,
Yet will they come, destroy it, to the ground
Raze it with all its Cyclopean walls
Even this is mine affliction, woe is me!
How by the Gods I am whelmed amidst despair!
Take heed for one thing, brother, through the host Passing, that Clytemnestra hear this not,
Till I to Hades shall have sealed my child,
That mine affliction be with fewest tears
And, stranger damsels, hold your peace thereof.

O well for them for whom the Queen (Str)
Of Love shall temper passion's fire,
And bring fruition of desire
With gentle pace and sober mien,
Whose souls are seas at rest, are spared
The frenzy-thrill, the fever-pain,
The spells that charm the arrows twain,
The shafts of Love the golden-haired,
Whereof one flieth tipt with bliss,
And one with ruin of unrest —
O Queen of Beauty, from my breast,
My bridal bower, avert thou this!
Let love's sweet spells in measure meet
Rest on me, pure desires be mine
May Aphrodite's dayspring shine
On me—avaunt her midnoon heat!
The hearts of men be diverse-wrought, (Ant)
Diverse their lives but, ever clear
Through all, true goodness shall appear,
And each high lesson throughly taught Lends wings to soar to virtue's heaven
For in self-reverence wisdom is,
And to discern the right—to this An all-transforming charm is given Fadeless renown is shed thereby On life by Fame Ah, glorious
The quest of virtue is!—for us
The cloistered virtue, chastity,
But, for the man—his inborn grace
Of law and order maketh great,
By service of her sons, the state
His virtue works by thousand ways

Down the Queen shall step, nor fear Shall the princess know, upstayed, Agamemnon's child renowned Strangers we, no tumult here
Make we entrance undismayed
Be of Argos' strangers found

CLYTEMNESTRA

An omen of good fortune count I this,
Thy kindness and fair greeting of thy speech
Good hope have I that I am come to lead
The bride to happy bridal From the car
Take ye the dower that for the maid I bring,
And bear to the pavilion with good heed
And thou, my daughter, from the horse-wain step, Daintily setting down thy tender feet,
And ye receive her, damsels, in your arms,
And from the chariot help her safely forth
And let one lend to me a propping hand,
That I may leave the wain-seat gracefully
Some, pray you, stand before the horses' yoke,
For timorous is the horse's restive eye
And this child take ye, Agamemnon's boy,
Orestes, who is yet a wordless babe
How?—lulled to sleep, child, by the swaying car?
Wake for thy sister's bridal smilingly,
For thine heroic strain shall get for kin
A hero, even the Nereid's godlike child
Hither, my daughter, seat thee at my side.
Hard by thy mother, Iphigeneia, take Thy place, and to these strangers show my bliss
Lo, thy beloved father!—welcome him

O mother, I outrun thee—be not wroth—
And heart to heart I clasp my father close

CLYTEMNESTRA
O most of me revered, Agamemnon King,
We come, obedient unto thy behest

IPHIGENEIA
Fain am I, father, on thy breast to fall,
After so long! Though others I outrun,—
For O, I yearn for thy face!—be not wroth

CLYTEMNESTRA
Child, this thou mayst yea, ever, most of all
The children I have borne, thou lov'st thy sire

IPHIGENEIA
Father, so long it was—so glad am I! 640

AGAMEMNON

One sad kiss first, one clasp of thy right hand, Ere thy long sojourn from thy father fall
O bosom, O ye cheeks, O golden hair!
On you what burden Phrygia's town hath laid
And Helen! But no more—the sudden flood Bursts o'er me from mine eyes as I touch thee!
Pass into the pavilion (Exit IPH.) Pardon me,
O Leda's child, it well-nigh breaks my heart
To yield to Achilles' hand my daughter, mine
Such partings make for bliss, but none the less
They wring the heart, when fathers to strange homes Yield children for whose sake they have laboured long.

CLYTEMNESTRA

CHORUS

(Str)

Unto Simois, unto the silver-swirling
Eddies, shall come the Hellene host,
With galleys, with battle-gear onward hurling
To the plain of Phoebus, the Troyland coast, Where tosseth Cassandra her tresses golden
With their garlands of green-leaved bay enfolden,
As they tell, when by mighty compulsion holden
Her soul is on storm-winds of prophecy tost

(Ant)

On the heights of their towers shall the Trojans, enringing
The ramparts of Troy, in their harness stand,
When over the waters the War-god, bringing The stately galleys with oars, to the strand
Draweth near, where the runnels of Simois are sliding,
To hale her, in Priam's halls who is hiding—
Sister of Zeus' Sons heaven-abiding—
With buckler and spear unto Hellas-land

(Epode)

And the War-fiend shall girdle with slaughter
Pergamus' towers of stone,
And the captive's head back bend
That the throat-shearing blade may descend,
When low in the dust he hath brought her,
Troy, from her height overthrown
He shall make for her maids a lamenting,
And the queen of Priam shall moan,

Never such shadow of doom
As shall haunt each gold-decked dame
Of the Lydian, the Phrygian, nation,
As beside the weaving-frame
They shall wail to each other in fear, in despair
"Ah, who on the braids of my shining hair
Clenching his grip till my tears down shower,
Me from my perishing country shall tear
As one plucketh a flower?—
For thy sake, child of the swan arch-necked,
If credence-worthy the story be
That Leda bare to a winged bird thee, When Zeus with its plumes had his changed form decked,
Or whether in scrolls of minstrelsy
Such tales unto mortals hath Fable brought, Told out of season, and all for nought"

Where is Achaea's battle-chief hereby?
What henchman will bear word that Peleus' son,
Achilles, at his gates is seeking him?
This tarrying here falls not alike on all,
For some there are of us who, yet unwed,
Have left their dwellings maidenless, and here
Sit idle on the shore, some that have wives
And children such strange longing for this war Hath upon Hellas fallen by heaven's will Mine own, my righteous grievance, must I speak,—

Yet must the Troyward-bound array wait on?
Act, if thou canst, else lead thy war-host home,
Waiting no more on Atreus' sons' delays"

Behold I crowned with peerless loveliness?

CLYTEMNESTRA

No marvel thou shouldst know me not, unseen
Ere this —thy shrinking modesty I praise

ACHILLES

Who art thou? Why cam'st thou to Achaea's host—
A woman unto men with bucklers fenced?

CLYTEMNESTRA

I am Leda's daughter, Clytemnestra named
Am I King Agamemnon is my lord

ACHILLES

Well hast thou said in brief what most imports —
Yet shame were this, that I with women talk!

Stay—wherefore flee? Nay, give me thy right hand
To clasp, the prelude to espousals blest

ACHILLES

My whole soul's chivalry is to action stirred:—
Yet hath my soul learnt temperance in grief
For troubles, and in joy for triumphs won
For such men are by reason schooled to pass Through life well, in cool judgment self-reliant,— True, pain sometimes rewards the over-wise, Yet oft of self-reliance profit comes Fostered by Cheiron, one that feared God most,
Was I, and learned to tread no tortuous ways
And Atreus' sons, if righteously they lead,
Will I obey, else will I not obey
Here, as in Troy, I'll keep me free man still,
And, as I may, will grace a hero's part
Thee, lady, outraged by thy nearest kin,
Will I, so far as such young champion can,
Right; so shall my compassion buckler thee

Ne'er by her father slain shall be thy child,
Once called my bride I will not lend myself
To be thy lord's tool in his subtle plots,
Else my mere name, though it have drawn no sword,
Shall slay thy daughter —and the cause thereof
Thy lord! My very blood were murder-tainted,
If this maid, suffering wrongs intolerable,
For my sake and my marriage be destroyed,
With outrage past belief unmerited
So were I basest among Argive men,
A thing of nought,—and Menelaus a man!—
Sprung of no Peleus, but some vengeance-fiend,
If my name shall do butchery for thy lord!
No, by the foster-son of Ocean's waves, Nereus, the sire of Thetis who bare me, οὐχ ἅψεται σῆς θυγατρὸς Ἀγαμέμνων ἄναξ,

ΧΟΡΟΣ

ἔλεξας, ὦ παῖ Πηλέως, σοῦ τ' ἄξια καὶ τῆς ἐναλίας δαίμονος, σεμνῆς θεοῦ.

King Agamemnon shall not touch thy child—
Not on her robe to lay a finger-tip!
Else half-barbaric Sipylus[1] were a city,
Whence sprang the line of yonder war-chiefs' house,
And Phthia's name were nowhere named of men
His meal, his laver-drops of sacrifice, Calchas the seer shall rue! What is a seer?
A man who speaks few truths, but many lies,
When his shafts hit, who is ruined if he miss
It is not for the bride's sake—brides untold
Are eager for mine hand—that this I say
But King Agamemnon hath insulted me
He ought to have asked my name's use first of me
To trap his child Chiefly through trust in me
Did Clytemnestra yield her lord her daughter.
I had granted this to Greece, if only so
The voyage to Troy might be,—had not refused
To aid their cause with whom I marched to war
But now in yon chief's eyes I am as nought
To honour me or shame me is all one!
Soon shall my sword know—ere it go to Troy
I will distain it with death-dews of blood—
If any man shall wrest from me thy daughter
Calm thee as some God strong to save I come, Though I be none; yet will I prove me such

CHORUS

Thou speakest, son of Peleus, worthily
Of thee, and of the sea-born Goddess dread ὅμως δ' ὅσον γε δυνατὸν αἰδεῖσθαι χρεών

ΑΧΙΛΛΕΥΣ

σὺ μήτε σὴν παῖδ' ἔξαγ' ὄψιν εἰς ἐμήν, μήτ' εἰς ὄνειδος ἀμαθὲς ἔλθωμεν, γύναι· στρατὸς γὰρ ἀθρόος ἀργὸς ὢν τῶν οἴκοθεν λέσχας πονηρὰς καὶ κακοστόμους φιλεῖ.
πάντως δέ μ' ἱκετεύοντες ἥξετ' εἰς ἴσον, εἴ τ' ἀνικετεύτως εἶς ἐμοὶ γάρ ἐστ' ἀγὼν

CLYTEMNESTRA

How can I praise thee, and not overpraise,
And yet not mar the grace by stint thereof?
For good men praised do in a manner hate
The praiser if he praiseth overmuch [1]
I blush to thrust on thee my piteous tale
My pain is mine, mine anguish wrings not thee
Yet is it nobly done, when from his height
The good man stoops to help the stricken ones
Pity me, for in piteous case am I,
Who, first, had dreamed that thou shouldst wed my child,— Vain hope was mine!—next, haply unto thee
Ill omen for thy bridal yet to come
Should be my child's death take thou heed thereof
Well spakest thou, the first things as the last
For, if thou will it, shall my child be saved
Wouldst thou she clasped thy knees, a suppliant?
No maiden's part this—yet, if thou think well,
She shall come, lifting innocent frank eyes
But if without her I may win my suit,
In maiden pride let her abide within Yet modesty bows to hard necessity

ACHILLES

Nay, bring not forth thy daughter in my sight,
Nor, lady, risk we the reproach of fools
For this thronged host, of all home-trammels free, Loves evil babble of malicious tongues
In any wise the same end shall ye gain Praying or prayerless, for one mighty strife

[1] Excessive praise was believed to provoke the Gods' jealousy Hence no true friend would indulge in it μέγιστος ὑμᾶς ἐξαπαλλάξαι κακῶν ὡς ἕν γ' ἀκούσασ' ἴσθι, μὴ ψευδῶς μ' ἐρεῖν ψευδῆ λέγων δὲ καὶ μάτην ἐγκερτομῶν θάνοιμι μὴ θάνοιμι δ', ἣν σώσω κόρην

ΚΛΥΤΑΙΜΝΗΣΤΡΑ

ὄναιο συνεχῶς δυστυχοῦντας ὠφελῶν.

ΑΧΙΛΛΕΥΣ

ἄκουε δή νυν, ἵνα τὸ πρᾶγμ' ἔχῃ καλῶς

ΚΛΥΤΑΙΜΝΗΣΤΡΑ

τί τοῦτ' ἔλεξας, ὡς ἀκουστέον γέ σου

ΑΧΙΛΛΕΥΣ

πείθωμεν αὖθις πατέρα βέλτιον φρονεῖν

ΚΛΥΤΑΙΜΝΗΣΤΡΑ

κακός τίς ἐστι καὶ λίαν ταρβεῖ στρατόν.

ΑΧΙΛΛΕΥΣ

ἀλλ' οἱ λογοι γε καταπαλαίουσιν φόβους.[1]

ΚΛΥΤΑΙΜΝΗΣΤΡΑ

ψυχρὰ μὲν ἐλπίς ὅ τι δὲ χρή με δρᾶν φράσον.

ΑΧΙΛΛΕΥΣ

ἱκέτευ' ἐκεῖνον πρῶτα μὴ κτείνειν τέκνα ἢν δ' ἀντιβαίνῃ, πρὸς ἐμέ σοι πορευτέον.
εἰ γὰρ τὸ χρῄζον ἐπίθετ', οὐ τοὐμὸν χρεὼν χωρεῖν ἔχει γὰρ τοῦτο τὴν σωτηρίαν κἀγώ τ' ἀμείνων πρὸς φίλον γενήσομαι, στρατός τ' ἂν οὐ μέμψαιτό μ', εἰ τὰ πράγματα λελογισμένως πράσσοιμι μᾶλλον ἢ σθένει.
καλῶς δὲ κρανθέντων πρὸς ἡδονὴν φίλοις σοί τ' ἂν γένοιτο κἂν ἐμοῦ χωρὶς τάδε.

[1] Musgrave for λόγους of MSS

Waits me,—from evil to deliver you
One thing be sure thou hast heard—I will not lie
If lie I do, or mock you, may I die,
And only die not, if I save the maid

CLYTEMNESTRA

Heaven bless thee, who still succourest the distressed!

ACHILLES

Now hear me, that the matter well may speed

CLYTEMNESTRA

What meanest thou? I needs must list to thee

ACHILLES

Let us to a better mood persuade her sire

CLYTEMNESTRA

He is something craven—fears o'ermuch the host

ACHILLES

Yet mightier wrestler reason is than fear

CLYTEMNESTRA

Cold hope is this. yet say what I must do

ACHILLES

Beseech him first to murder not his child
If he withstand thee, come thou unto me
For, if he heed thy prayer, I need not stir,
Since in this very yielding is her life;
And friendlier so to a friend shall I appear Nor shall the army blame me, if I bring This thing to pass by reason, not by force
If all go well, upon thy friends and thee
Shall gladness dawn, and that without mine aid

ΚΛΥΤΑΙΜΝΗΣΤΡΑ

ὡς σώφρον' εἶπας. δραστέον δ' ἅ σοι δοκεῖ ἦν δ' αὖ τι μὴ πράσσωμεν ὧν ἐγὼ θέλω, ποῦ σ' αὖθις ὀψόμεσθα, ποῖ χρή μ' ἀθλίαν ἐλθοῦσαν εὑρεῖν σὴν χέρ' ἐπίκουρον κακῶν;

ΑΧΙΛΛΕΥΣ

ἡμεῖς σε φύλακες οὗ χρεὼν φυλάξομεν, μή τίς σ' ἴδῃ στείχουσαν ἐπτοημένην Δαναῶν δι' ὄχλου μηδὲ πατρῷον δόμον αἴσχυν'· ὁ γάρ τοι Τυνδάρεως οὐκ ἄξιος κακῶς ἀκούειν· ἐν γὰρ Ἕλλησιν μέγας

ΚΛΥΤΑΙΜΝΗΣΤΡΑ

ἔσται τάδ' ἄρχε σοί με δουλεύειν χρεών εἰ δ' εἰσὶ θεοί, δίκαιος ὢν ἀνήρ, θεῶν ἐσθλῶν κυρήσεις εἰ δὲ μή, τί δεῖ πονεῖν, μελῳδοῖς Θέτιν ἀχήμασι τόν τ' Αἰακίδαν Κενταύρων ἀν' ὄρος κλέουσαι Πηλιάδα καθ' ὕλαν.

CLYTEMNESTRA

Ah wise words! I must act as seems thee best
But, if we shall not gain mine heart's desire,
Where shall I see thee?—whither shall I go
In misery, to find thy champion hand?

ACHILLES

Where best befits will I keep watch for thee,
That none behold thee traversing wild-eyed
The Danaan host Shame not thy father's house,
For Tyndareus deserves not to be made
A mock, for great is he midst Hellene men

CLYTEMNESTRA

This shall be Rule thou—I must be thy thrall
If there be Gods, thy righteousness shall earn Their favour, if not, wherefore should men toil?

[Exeunt severally ACHILLES and CLYTEMNESTRA

CHORUS

O what bridal-chant rang with the crying (Str)
Of the Libyan flute,
With the footfall of dancers replying
To the voice of the lute,
With the thrill of the reeds' glad greeting,
In the day when o'er Pelion fleeting Unto Peleus' espousals, with beating
Of golden-shod foot,
The beautiful-tressèd Song-maidens
To the Gods' feast came,
And their bridal-hymn's ravishing cadence
Bore Thetis's fame
O'er the hills of the Centaurs far-pealing,
Through the woodlands of Pelion soft-stealing,
The new-born splendour revealing
Of the Aeacid's name!

ὁ δὲ Δαρδανίδας, Διὸς λέκτρων τρύφημα φίλον, χρυσέοισιν ἄφυσσε λοιβὰν ἐν κρατήρων γυάλοις, ὁ Φρύγιος Γανυμήδης παρὰ δὲ λευκοφαῆ ψάμαθον εἱλισσόμεναι κύκλια πεντήκοντα κόραι γάμους Νηρέως ἐχόρευσαν

ἀνὰ δ' ἐλάταισι στεφανώδει τε χλόᾳ ἀντ θίασος ἔμολεν ἱπποβάτας Κενταύρων ἐπὶ δαῖτα τὰν θεῶν κρατῆρά τε Βάκχου μέγα δ' ἀνέκλαγον ὦ Νηρηὶ κόρα, παῖδα σὲ Θεσσαλίᾳ μέγα φῶς μάντις ὁ φοιβάδα μοῦσαν εἰδὼς γεννάσειν Χείρων ἐξονόμαζεν, ὃς ἦξει χθόνα λογχήρεσι σὺν Μυρμιδόνων ἀσπισταῖς Πριάμοιο κλεινὰν γαῖαν ἐκπυρώσων, περὶ σώματι χρυσέων ὅπλων Ἡφαιστοπόνων κεκορυθμένος ἔνδυτ', ἐκ θεᾶς ματρὸς δωρήματ' ἔχων Θέτιδος, ἃ νιν ἔτικτε.

μακάριον τότε δαίμονες τᾶς εὐπάτριδος γάμον Νηρῇδων ἔθεσαν πρώτας
Πηλέως θ' ὑμεναίους

And Dardanus' child, whom the pinion
Of the eagle bore
From Phrygia, Ganymede, minion
Of Zeus, did pour
From the gold's depths nectar, while dancing
Feet of the Sea-maids were glancing Through circles, through mazes entrancing
The white sands o'er

Leaf-crowned came the Centaur riders (Ant)
With their lances of pine
To the feast of the Heaven-abiders,
And the bowls of their wine
"Hail, Sea-queen!"—so rang their acclaiming—
"A light over Thessaly flaming"— Sang Cheiron, the unborn naming—
"Achilles shall shine"
And, as Phoebus made clearer the vision,
"He shall pass," sang the seer,
"Unto Priam's proud land on a mission
Of fire, with the spear
And the shield of the Myrmidons, clashing
In gold, for the Fire-king's crashing Forges shall clothe him with flashing
Warrior-gear
Of his mother the gift shall be given,
Of Thetis brought down"
So did the Dwellers in Heaven
With happiness crown
The espousals of Nereus's Daughter,
When a bride unto Peleus they brought her
Of the seed of the Lords of the Water
Chief in renown

But men shall wreathe thine head (Epode)
For death, thy golden hair,—
As heifer white and red Down from the hill-caves led,
A victim pure,—shall stain
With blood thy throat snow-fair,
Though never thou wert bred
Where with the herdmen's strain
The reed-pipes thrill the air
But at thy mother's side
Wast nursed, wast decked a bride
For a king's heir
What might hath now
Modesty's maiden face
Or Virtue's brow?—
When godlessness bears sway,
And mortals thrust away
Virtue, and cry "Give place!"
When lawlessness hath law down-trod,
And none will to his brother say
"Let us beware the jealousy of God!"

Enter CLYTEMNESTRA

Forth of the tent to seek my lord I come,
Who is from his pavilion absent long,
And drowned in tears mine hapless daughter is,
With wails now ringing high, now moaning low,
Since she hath heard what death her father plots
Lo, of one even now drawn nigh I spake, Yon Agamemnon, who shall straightway stand Convict of sin against his very child

Enter AGAMEMNON

O Leda's child, well met without the tent
I would speak with thee, ere our daughter come,
Of that which fits not brides to be should hear

ΚΛΥΤΑΙΜΝΗΣΤΡΑ

τί δ' ἔστιν, οὗ σοι καιρὸς ἀντιλάζυται,

ΑΓΑΜΕΜΝΩΝ

ἔκπεμπε παῖδα δωμάτων πατρὸς μέτα

ΑΓΑΜΕΜΝΩΝ

οὐδὲν κελευσμοῦ δεῖ μ' ἐρωτᾶσθαι θέλω

CLYTEMNESTRA

And what is this that fits the time so well?

AGAMEMNON

Send forth the tent the maid to join her sire
For here the lustral waters stand prepared,
And meal for hands to cast on cleansing flame,
And victims that ere bridals must be slain
To Artemis with spirtings of dark blood

CLYTEMNESTRA

Fair sound the things thou nam'st but to thy deeds
I know not how to give fair-sounding names
Daughter, come forth to the uttermost thou know'st Thy sire's design The babe Orestes take,
And bring thy brother folded in thy robes,

Enter IPHIGENEIA

Lo, she is here, obedient unto thee
The rest, for her, for me, myself will speak

AGAMEMNON

Child, wherefore weep, and blithely look no more,
But earthward bend thy vesture-shrouded eyes?

CLYTEMNESTRA

Ah me!
How shall I make beginning of my woes?
For well may I account each one the first,
Midmost, or last, in misery's tangled web

AGAMEMNON

How now? How find I each and all conspired
To show me looks of trouble and amaze?

CLYTEMNESTRA

Answer my question, husband, like a man

AGAMEMNON

No need to bid me I would fain be asked

ΚΛΥΤΑΙΜΝΗΣΤΡΑ

τὴν παῖδα τὴν σὴν τήν τ' ἐμὴν μέλλεις κτανεῖν,

ΚΛΥΤΑΙΜΝΗΣΤΡΑ

πάντ' οἶδα καὶ πεπύσμεθ' ἃ σὺ μέλλεις με δρᾶν· αὐτὸ δὲ τὸ σιγᾶν ὁμολογοῦντός ἐστί σου καὶ τὸ στενάζειν πολλὰ μὴ κάμῃς λέγων

[1] Hermann and Paley, but reading much disputed England retains τί μ' ἠδίκησας of MSS "Wherefore so wrong me?" Nauck reads τίς σ' ἠδίκησε, "Now who hath wronged thee?"

CLYTEMNESTRA

Thy child and mine—mean'st thou to murder her?

AGAMEMNON

Ha!—
A hideous question!—foul suspicion this!

CLYTEMNESTRA

Peace!
Render me answer first as touching this

AGAMEMNON

To question fair fair answer shalt thou hear.

CLYTEMNESTRA

Nought else I ask, thou answer me nought else.

AGAMEMNON

O mighty Doom, O Fate, O fortune mine!

CLYTEMNESTRA

And mine, and hers! One fate for wretched three

AGAMEMNON

Whom have I wronged?

CLYTEMNESTRA

Thou—and of me—ask this?
This wit of thine is utter witlessness!

AGAMEMNON (aside)

Undone am I! My secret is betrayed 1140

CLYTEMNESTRA

I know all—yea, thy purposed crime have learnt
Thy very silence and thy groan on groan
Are thy confession Labour not with speech

ΑΓΑΜΕΜΝΩΝ

[1] England, Nauck and Paley retain σῷ προσούρισας πάλῳ of MSS

AGAMEMNON

Lo, I am silent Wherefore utter lies,
And add unto misfortune shamelessness?

CLYTEMNESTRA

Give ear now, for I will unfold my pleas, Nor use half-hinting riddles any more
First,—that with this I may reproach thee first—
By force, not of my will, didst thou wed me
Thou slewest Tantalus my sometime lord,
Didst dash my living babe against the stones,
Even from my breast with violence tearing him
Then did the Sons of Zeus, my brethren twain,
Flashing on white steeds come to war with thee
But mine old father Tyndareus begged thy life,
Who cam'st his suppliant, and thou keptest me
So reconciled to thee and to thine house,
A blameless wife was I,—be witness thou,— Chaste in desires, increasing in thine halls Thy substance still, so that thine enterings-in Were joy, and thine outgoings happiness
Rare spoil is this for man to win such spouse
Of getting worthless wives there is no lack
This son, with daughters three, to thee I bare,
And of one wilt thou rob me ruthlessly!
Now, if one ask thee wherefore thou wilt slay her,
Speak, what wilt say?—or must I speak for thee?—
That Helen's lord may win her! Glorious this,
To pay a wanton's price in children's lives!
So shall we buy things loathed with things most loved Come, if thou go to war, and leave me here

οὕπερ τὸ πρᾶγμ' ἦν νῦν δ' ἐγὼ μὲν ἡ τὸ σὸν

At home, and through long absence tarry there,
With what heart, think'st thou, shall I keep thine halls,
When vacant of her I behold each chair,
Vacant each maiden-bower, and sit me down
In loneliness of tears, and mourn her ever?
"O child, he which begat thee murdered thee
Himself, none other, by none other hand,
Leaving unto this house such vengeance-debt!"
Seeing there needeth but faint pretext now
Whereon both I and thy seed left to thee
Shall greet thee with such greeting—as befits!
Nay, by the Gods, constrain not me to turn Traitress to thee, nor such be thou to me

Lo now—
Thy daughter slain, what prayer wilt thou pray then,
Implore what blessing—murderer of thy child?
An ill home-coming, since in shame thou goest!
Were't just that I pray any good for thee?
O surely must we deem the Gods be fools,
If we wish blessings upon murderers!
Wilt thou return to Argos, clasp thy babes?
Oh impious thought! What child shall meet thy look,
If thou have given up one of them to death?
Hast ta'en account of this? Or is it thine
Only to flaunt a sceptre, lead a host?
This righteous proffer shouldest thou have made—
"Well ye, Achaeans, sail to Phrygia-land?
E'en then cast lots whose daughter needs must die"
This had been fair—not that thou choose thine own
The Danaans' victim, rather than that he

IPHIGENEIA

Had I the tongue of Oipheus, O my sire,
To chaim with song the rocks to follow me,
And witch with eloquence whomsoe'er I would,
I had essayed it Now—mine only cunning—
Tears will I bring, for this is all I can
And suppliant will I twine about thy knees
My body, which this mother bare to thee
Ah, slay me not untimely! Sweet is light.
Constrain me not to see the nether gloom!
'Twas I first called thee fathei, thou me child
'Twas I first throned my body on thy knees,
And gave thee sweet caresses and received
And this thy word was "Ah, my little maid, Blest shall I see thee in a husband's halls
Living and blooming worthily of me?"
And, as I twined my fingers in thy beard, Whereto I now cling, thus I answered thee·
"And what of thee? Shall I greet thy grey hairs, Father, with loving welcome in mine halls,

ΑΓΑΜΕΜΝΩΝ

Repaying all thy fostering toil for me?"
I keep remembrance of that converse yet
Thou hast forgotten, thou wouldst murder me
Ah no!—by Pelops, by thy father Atreus,
And by this mother, whose first travail-pangs
Now in this second anguish are renewed!
What part have I in Paris' rape of Helen?
Why, father, should he for my ruin have come?
Look on me—give me one glance—oh, one kiss,
That I may keep in death from thee but this Memorial, if thou heed my pleading not Brother, small help canst thou be to thy friends,
Yet weep with me, yet supplicate thy sire
To slay thy sister not!—some sense of ill
Even in wordless infants is inborn
Lo, by his silence he implores thee, father—
Have mercy, have compassion on my youth!
Yea, by thy beard we pray thee, loved ones twain,
A nestling one, and one a daughter grown
In one cry summing all, I must prevail!
Sweet, passing sweet, is light for men to see,
Death is but nothingness! Who prays to die
Is mad. Ill life o'erpasseth glorious death.

CHORUS

O thou wretch Helen! Through thee and thy sin Comes agony on the Atreids and their seed.

AGAMEMNON

I know what asketh pity, what doth not,
Who love mine own babes I were madman else
Awful it is, my wife, to dare this deed,
Yet awful to forbear I must do this!

And all the brazen-harnessed Hellene kings,
Who cannot voyage unto Ilium's towers,
Who cannot raze Troy's citadel renowned,
But by thy blood, as Calchas saith, the seer
A fiery passion maddeneth Hellas' host
To sail in all haste to the aliens' land,
And put an end to rapes of Hellene wives
My daughters will they slay in Argos—you
And me,—if I annul the Goddess' hest
Not Menelaus hath enslaved me, child, Nor yet to serve his pleasure have I come
'Tis Hellas for whom—will I, will I not—
I must slay thee this cannot we withstand Free must she be, so far as in thee lies,
And me, child, nor by aliens' violence
Must sons of Hellas of their wives be spoiled

O child! O stranger damsels, see!
Woe for thy death! Alas for me!
Thy father flees, to Hades yielding thee!

IPHIGENEIA

Alas for me, mother!
One song for us twain
Fate finds us—none other
But this sad strain
Upon me shall the light and the beams of the sun shine never again
O Phrygian glade
Overgloomed by the crest
Of Ida, where laid
In a snow-heapen nest
Was the suckling by Priam cast forth, which he tore from the mother's breast,

Yea, left him to lie
Till the death-doom should claim Paris, whereby
Throughout Troy was his name
Paris of Ida, where fostered a herdman mid kine he became

Would God amid fountains
Of foam-silvered sheen
Of the nymphs of the mountains
His home had not been,
Not where roses and bluebells for Goddesses bloomed amid watermeads green!

Came the Queen of Beguiling
With love-litten eye
Passion-kindling, and smiling
As for victory nigh;
Came Pallas in pride of her prowess, and Hera the Queen of the Sky

And Hermes was there,
The Herald of Heaven
So the Strife of Most Fair,
Loathed contest, was striven,
Whereof to me death, but to Danaans glory, O damsels, was given

Me the Huntress receiveth
For her firstfruits of prey,
And mine own sire leaveth
His child—doth betray
A daughter most wretched, O mother, my mother, and fleeth away

Than words may frame!
She is made to me slaughter and doom, and a father's deed of shame
Oh had Aulis received not Bronze prows long embayed!
O had Troy been reprieved not While their pine-wings delayed!
O had Zeus never breathed on Euripus the breath that our voyaging stayed!—
He who tempers his gales Unto men as he will,
Some shake out glad sails,
Some in sorrow sit still Fate-fetterered these speed from the haven, the white wings of those never fill O travail-worn seed
Of the sons of a day!
How Fate hath decreed Disaster alway!
What burden of anguish did Tyndareus' child on the Danaans lay!

For the good of Hellenes didst thou bear me, not for thine alone [bosom thrown,— Lo, how countless warriors with the shield before the Myriads, now the fatherland is wronged, with strenuous oar in hand,— [land
All will fear not to encounter foes, to die for Hellas-
And shall all be thwarted, baffled by the life of one— of me? [for answering plea?
Where were justice here?—and what can I set forth
Turn we now to this thing also —never ought this man to make [sake!
War on all the Argives, no, nor perish—for a woman's Worthier than ten thousand women one man is to look on light
Lo, if Artemis hath willed to claim my body as her right,
What, shall I, a helpless mortal woman, thwart the will divine?
Nay, it cannot be My body unto Hellas I resign Sacrifice me, raze ye Troy, for this through all the ages is [in this!
My memorial children, marriage, glory—all are mine Right it is that Hellenes rule barbarians, not that alien yoke [freeborn folk Rest on Hellenes, mother. They be bondmen, we be

CHORUS

Noble the part thou playest, maiden, is But Fate and Artemis—ill part is theirs!

ACHILLES

Agamemnon's child, a God came near to bless Me, could I but have won thee for my bride
Happy in thee is Hellas, thou in Hellas!
Well saidst thou this, and worthily of our land
Thou hast turned away from strife with Gods—a thing
Too hard for thee—hast weighed the good Fate spares
Yet love for thee now thrills me through the more
That I have seen thy nature, noble heart
Wherefore look to it thee I fain would serve,
And bear thee home I chafe, be Thetis witness,
That I should save thee not in battle-shock
With Danaans Think—a fearful thing is death

IPHIGENEIA

I say this,—as one past all hope and fear —
Suffice that through her beauty Tyndareus' child Stirs strife and slaughter Thou, O stranger-prince, Die not for me, nor slay thou any man
Let me be Hellas' saviour, if I may

ACHILLES

O soul heroic!—nought can I say more
Hereto, since fixed thine heart is Thy resolve
Is noble—why should one say not the truth?
But yet,—for haply yet thy mood may change,—
That thou mayst know the proffer that I make,
I go, to place my weapons nigh the altar,
Ready to suffer not, but bar, thy death
Thou mayst, even thou, unto mine offer turn,
When thou beholdest at thy throat the knife

CLYTEMNESTRA

Hold !—O forsake me not !

IPHIGENEIA

Nay, shed no tear

(CLYTEMNESTRA enters the tent)

Ye damsels, raise all-hails of happy speed—
The paean for my lot—to Zeus's child Artemis. Bid the host keep reverent hush
Bring maunds of sacrifice, let blaze the flame
With purifying meal, and let my sire
Compass the altar rightward Lo, I come
To give to Hellas safety victory-crowned

Raises the processional chant

Lead me for Ilium's, Phrygia's, overthrowing,
Give to me garlands, bring festooning flowers
Lo, my locks wait the blossoms overstrowing,
The lustral laver-showers.

To Artemis the Queen, blest Goddess, treading
A measure, fane and altar compass ye
I wash the curse out with the hallowed shedding
Of blood, if this must be

Mother, for thee my fount of pity streameth
Now—for I may not at the altar weep
Sing, maidens, Artemis, whose temple gleameth Toward Chalcis, o'er the deep,

From where, in Aulis' straitened havens, shaken
In fury, spears are at my name uptossed Hail, mother-land Pelasgia! Hail, forsaken Mycenae—home—home lost!

CHORUS

Dost thou on the city of Perseus cry,
By the toil of the Cyclopes builded high?

IPHIGENEIA

For a light unto Hellas thou fosteredst me,
And I die—O freely I die for thee!

CHORUS

Yea, for thy glory shall never die

IPHIGENEIA

Hail, Light divine!
Hail, Day in whose hands doth the World's Torch shine!
In a strange new life must I dwell,
And a strange new lot must be mine
Farewell, dear light, farewell! [Exit

CHORUS

See who, for Ilium's, Phrygia's, overthrowing,
With her fair hair for death bestarred with flowers,
Is to the sacrificial altar going Besprent with laver-showers—

Yea, to the altar of the murder-lover,
To sprinkle it with thine outrushing life,
Whose crimson all thy shapely neck shall cover
Gashed by the fearful knife

For thee the lustral dews of thy sire's pouring Wait the Achaean thousands Troyward strain Chant we Zeus' Child, the Huntress-queen adoring,
For O, thy loss is gain!

Joyer in human blood, to Phrygia's far land
Speed thou the host, to Troy the treason-shore, So crown the King, crown Hellas with a garland
Of glory evermore

MESSENGER

Nay, but fain am I to tell,
Touching thy child, a strange and awesome thing

CLYTEMNESTRA

Linger not then, but tell it with all speed

MESSENGER

Yea, all, dear mistress, clearly shalt thou learn,
From the beginning told, except my tongue
Through my mind's turmoil falter in the tale
When to the grove we came of Artemis,
Zeus' child, and to her meadows flower-bestarred,
The place of muster for Achaea's host,
Leading thy child, straightway the Argive throng Gathered But when King Agamemnon saw
The maid for slaughter entering the grove,
He heaved a groan, he turned his head away
Weeping, and drew his robe before his eyes

But to her father's side she came, and stood,
And said "My father, at thine hest I come,
And for my country's sake my body give,
And for all Hellas, to be led of you
Unto the Goddess' altar, willingly,
And sacrificed, if this is Heaven's decree Prosper, so far as rests with me, and win
Victory, and return to fatherland
Then let no Argive lay a hand on me Silent, unflinching, will I yield my neck"

So spake she, and all marvelled when they heard
The maiden's courage and her heroism Forth stood Talthybius then, whose part it was, Proclaiming silence and a reverent hush
And the seer Calchas in a golden maund

Laid down a keen knife which his hand had drawn
Out of its sheath, then crowned the maiden's head
Then Peleus' son took maund and lustral bowl,
And round the altar of the Goddess ran,
And cried "Zeus' Daughter, slayer of wild beasts,
Whose wheels of light roll splendours through the gloom,
Accept this offering which we render thee,
Achaea's host, with Agamemnon King,
The unsullied blood from a fair maiden's neck,
And grant the galleys voyaging unvexed,
And grant our spears may spoil the towers of Troy"
With bowed heads Atreus' sons and all the host Stood The priest took the knife, he spake the prayer,
He scanned her throat for fittest place to strike—
Then through my soul exceeding anguish thrilled Mine head drooped —lo, a sudden miracle!
For each man plainly heard the blow strike home,
But the maid—none knew whither she had vanished

Loud cried the priest all echoed back the cry,
Seeing a portent by some God sent down
Unlooked-for, past belief, albeit seen
For gasping on the ground there lay a hind
Most huge to see, and passing fair to view,
With whose blood all the Goddess' altar ran Then Calchas cried—how gladly ye may guess —
"O chieftains of this leagued Achaean host,
See ye this victim by the Goddess laid Before her altar, even a mountain hind?
This holds she more acceptable than the maid,
That she stain not with noble blood her altar
Gladly she hath accepted this, and grants
To us fair voyage and onset upon Troy

Be of good cheer then every mariner!
Hence to the galleys, for this day must we Fleet out of Aulis' hollow bays, and cross
The Aegean surge" So when the victim all
Was burnt to ashes in the Fire-god's flame,
Meet prayer he offered for the host's return
Me Agamemnon sped to tell thee this,
And say what heaven-sent fortune fair he hath What deathless fame through Hellas he hath won Lo, I was there, and speak as one who saw Doubtless thy child was wafted to the Gods
Forbear grief, cease from wrath against thy lord
Of mortals unforeseen the Gods' ways are,
And whom they love they save for this same day
Dying and living hath beheld thy child

CHORUS

How glad I hear the messenger's report!
He saith thy child bides living midst the Gods

CLYTEMNESTRA

O daughter, of what God stolen art thou?
How shall I bid farewell to thee?—how Know this for aught but a sweet lie, spoken
To heal the heart that for thee is broken?

CHORUS

Lo there King Agamemnon draweth nigh
Bearing the selfsame tale to tell to thee

Enter AGAMEMNON

AGAMEMNON

Wife, for our child's fate happy may we be,
For she in truth hath fellowship with Gods
Now must thou take this weanling little one, στείχειν πρὸς οἴκους ὡς στρατὸς πρὸς πλοῦν ὁρᾷ

And journey home, for seaward looks the host Farewell —it shall be long ere thee I greet,
From Troy returning Be it well with thee

CHORUS

Pass, Atreus' scion, to Phrygia's land with joy,
And with joy from the battle-toil come, bearing the glorious spoil
Of Troy

ARGUMENT

When Hector and the Trojans, as Homer telleth in the Eighth Book of his Iliad, had driven the Greeks from before Troy back to their camp beside the sea, the host of Troy lay for that night in the plain overagainst them And the Trojans sent forth Dolon a spy to know what the Greeks were minded to do But there went forth also two spies from the camp of the Greeks, even Odysseus and Diomedes, and these met Dolon and slew him, after that he had told them in his fear all that they would know of the array of the Trojans, and of the coming of their great ally, Rhesus the Thracian, the son of a Goddess And herein is told of the coming of the Thracian king, and of all that befell that night in the camp of the Trojans.

Ye watchful henchmen that guard his sleep,
If perchance he will hearken our tidings, the word
Of them through the night's fourth watch that keep The wide war-host safe-fenced with the spear
Ho! raise thine head on thine arm upstaying, Unseal thine eyes, the battle-dismaying
Leap from thine earth-strewn leaf-bed sere,

HECTOR

Why then hast forsaken thus Thy watch, and uprousest the host, if thou bring No tidings? Knowest thou not how nigh
To the Argive spears lie slumbering
Our ranks in their battle-panoply?

CHORUS

Nay, but with armed hand, Hector, speed (Str)
Hence to thine allies' resting-place
Rouse them from slumber, and bid upraise
Spears: let a friend to thy war-band run
Bit ye and bridle the chariot-steed
Who will go for us to Panthous' son,
Or Europa's, the chief of the Lycian array?
Where be the choosers of victims to bleed?
And the captains of dartmen, where be they?
Archers of Phrygia, let sinews be slipped O'er the notches, to strain the bows horn-tipt!

HECTOR

In part of good cheer, nought plainly is said
Hath Zeus' son Pan with the Scourge of Quaking

Thou startlest the host? What meaneth thy clamour?

CHORUS

Argos' array is with bale-fires aglow, (Ant)
Hector, enkindled the livelong night,
And the lines of their galleys with torches are bright
And with tumult to King Agamemnon's tent
Streaming their warrior-thousands go
"Thy behest?" they cry they are vehement
Never in such wise heretofore
Scared was the sea-borne host of the foe
So—for I doubted what time hath in store—
Bearing my tidings to thee I came,
That with thee I be henceforth clear of blame

HECTOR

Timely thou com'st, though thou dost herald fear
Yon men are minded to flee forth the land
With darkling oar, escaping so my ken
Their beacons of the night flash this to me
Ah Fortune, that thou shouldst in triumph's hour
Rob of his prey the lion, ere my spear
With one swoop make an end of Argos' host!
For, had the sun's bright torches not been quenched,
I had not stayed the triumph of my spear Ere I had burnt their ships, swept through their tents,
Slaying Achaeans with this death-fraught hand
Afire was I to press on with the spear
By night, take heaven-sent fortune at the flood,
But your wise seers, which know the mind of God,
Persuaded me to wait the dawn of day,
And leave then no Achaean on dry land
But the foe—they for my soothsayers' rede Wait not. in darkness runaways wax in might!
Swift must we speed our summons through the host

What meaneth this? Is stealthy ambuscade
Of foes 'neath darkness' screen announced afoot?

HECTOR

Our enemies flee even now they board their ships

AENEAS

What certain proof hereof hast thou to tell?

HECTOR

All through the night they kindle flaming brands
Yea, and methinks they will not wait the morn,
But, burning torches on the fair-benched ships,
In homeward flight will get them from this land

AENEAS

And thou, with what intent dost aim thine hand?

HECTOR

Even as they flee, and leap upon their decks,
My spear shall stay them and mine onset crush
Shameful it were, and dastardly withal,
When God to us gives unresisting foes,
After such mischiefs wrought to let them flee

AENEAS

Would that thy prudence matched thy might of hand!
So is it one man cannot be all-wise,
But diverse gifts to diverse men belong—
Prowess to thee, to others prudent counsel

The Achaeans flee, dost pant to lead thine host Over the trenches in the hush of night
Yet if, the foss's yawning chasm crossed,

The land, but set to face thy spear, beware
Lest, vanquished, thou return not unto Troy

Nay, leave we sleeping under shield in peace
Our host, at rest from travail of the strife
I counsel, send to spy upon the foe
Whoso will go, and, if they purpose flight,
Forth let us charge, and fall on Argos' host.

I thank thee: so I win them, goodliest prize
Mid Phrygia's thousands is my valour's guerdon Be thou not envious countless things beside Shall make thee glad, the ruler of the land

CHORUS

(Ant)

Great thine emprise is, and great the reward thou dost claim, [shalt thou know
So thou may'st but attain thereunto, high bliss
Verily this thine adventure is fraught with fame
Yet, to wed with a princess!—glory had this been, I trow
For the God's part, even let Justice look to the same·
But for men—never guerdon more perfect may man bestow

DOLON

Now will I go to mine own halls I pass,
To clothe me in such garb as best befits
Thence will I speed my feet to Argos' ships

Behoves that from the crafty craft we learn Say, what shall be the vesture of thy limbs?

DOLON

Over my back a wolfskin will I draw,
And the brute's gaping jaws shall frame mine head
Its forefeet will I fasten to mine hands,
Its legs to mine the wolf's four-footed gait
I'll mimic, baffling so our enemies,
While near the trench and pale of ships I am:
But whenso to a lone spot come my feet,
Two-footed will I walk my ruse is this

CHORUS

Now kindly speed thee Hermes, Maia's son,
Prince of the guileful, going and returning Thou know'st thy work thou needest but good speed

DOLON

Return I shall, with slain Odysseus' head
To show thee,—when thou hast this token sure,
"Dolon," shalt thou say, "reached the Argive ships,"—
Or Tydeus' son's head Not with bloodless hand
Will I win home ere dawn rise o'er the earth

King, still through days to come be it mine to bear
Such tidings to my lords as now I bring!

Dull-witted oft the spirits are of clowns
Thou com'st, meseems, to place that ill befits,
With tidings of thy flocks to warring lords
Know'st not my mansion, nor my father's throne?
Thither shouldst thou bear word of flocks' increase

SHEPHERD

Dull-witted are we clowns, I gainsay not· Yet none the less I bring thee welcome news

HECTOR

Forbear to tell me how the sheep-pens thrive
Battles have we in hand, and brandish spears

SHEPHERD

Even such the tidings are wherewith I come
A warrior captaining a countless host
Draws nigh,—thy friend, and this land's war-ally

Leaving what country's plains untenanted?

SHEPHERD

Thrace: and he bears the name of Strymon's son

HECTOR

Rhesus! Doth he set foot in Troy, say'st thou?

SHEPHERD

Even so: thou lightenest half my speech's load

Why journeyeth he to Ida's pasture-lands, Swerving from yon broad highway o'er the plain?

SHEPHERD

I know not certainly one may divine
Wise strategy was his to march by night,
Hearing how foeman-bands beset the plains
Yet us, the hinds who dwell on Ida's slopes,
The immemorial cradle of your race,
His night-faring through woods beast-haunted scared
For with loud shouts the on-surging Thracian host Marched, and in panic-struck amaze we drove Our flocks to ridges, lest of the Argives some Were drawing nigh, to harry and to spoil
Thy folds, till accents fell upon our ears
Of no Greek tongue, and so we ceased from dread
Then, drawing nigh, their chieftain's vanward scouts
I questioned in the Thracian speech, and asked
Who and whose son their captain was, that marched Troyward, as war-ally to Priam's sons
And, having heard whate'er I craved to know,
I stood still, and saw Rhesus, like a God,
Towering upon his Thracian battle-wain.
Golden the yoke-beam was that linked the necks
Of car-steeds gleaming whiter than the snow.
Upon his shoulders his gold-blazoned targe
Flashed · a bronze Gorgon, as on Pallas' shield, Upon the frontlet of his horses bound,
Clanging with many a bell clashed forth dismay
The number of his host thou couldst not sum
In strict account—eye could not measure it
Many a knight, long lines of targeteers,
And archers multitudinous, and a swarm
Of dartmen passed, accoutred Thracian-wise
Such warrior is at hand for Troy's ally

HECTOR

Ha, many a friend shall I find, now my spear
Is triumphing, and Zeus is on our side!
But need we have none of such as in days past Shared not our toil, when Ares buffeting
With mighty blast was rending this land's sails
Then Rhesus showed what friend he was to Troy
To the feast he comes, who came not to the hunters
With help of spear, what time they took the prey

CHORUS

Rightly dost thou contemn and blame such friends
Yet welcome them that fain would help our Troy.

Upon Argive lawn unto Hera dancing
Shall stand, but here shall the corpse of him slain
Lie, by the Thracians' doom of bane,
To cumber the soil of its load full fain

Enter RHESUS in his chariot, with Thracian guard

Hail, great King, hail!—O Thrace, of thy scions
The glory is this—true prince to behold!
Mark ye the strong limbs lapped in gold
Heard ye the bells clash proud defiance,
As their tongues from his buckler-handles tolled?
'Tis a God, Troy! Ares' self is there,
This Strymon's son, whom the Song-queen bare!
Bringing times of refreshing to thee doth he fare

RHESUS

Brave son of brave sire, prince of this land, hail, Hector! I greet thee after many days
I joy in thy good speed, who see thee camped
Nigh the foes' towers I come to help thee raze
Their ramparts, and to fire their galleys' hulls

HECTOR

Son of the Songful Mother, of the Muse,
And Thracian Strymon's flood, I love to speak
The truth no man am I of double tongue
Long, long since shouldest thou have come to aid
This land, nor suffered, for all help of thine,
That Troy should stoop 'neath spears of Argive foes
Thou canst not say thou cam'st not to thy friends, Nor visitedst for their help, for lack of bidding
What Phrygian herald, or what ambassage,
Came not with instant prayer for help to Troy?
What splendour of gifts did we not send to thee?
Alien from Greece as we, our countryman,
To Greeks didst thou betray us, all thou couldst Yet thee from petty lordship made I great,
Yea, king of all the Thracians, with this arm,
When round Pangaeus and Paeonia's land
In battle-brunt on Thracian chiefs I fell, Shattered their shield, and gave their folk to thee
In thrall This grace thou hast trodden under foot,
And laggard com'st to help afflicted friends,
While they that are in no wise kin to us
Have long been here, and some in grave-mounds lie Slain,—no mean loyalty to our city this,— Some yet in arms beside their battle-cars
Abide, enduring hardness—chilly blast
And the sun's glare throat-parching, not on beds,
Like thee, with pledge of many a long deep draught.
Thus, that thou may'st know Hector's plain blunt mood,
I blame thee and I speak it to thy face κοὐδὲν περαίνεις, ἡμέραν δ' ἐξ ἡμέρας ῥίπτεις κυβεύων τὸν πρὸς Ἀργείους Ἄρην· ἐμοὶ δὲ φῶς ἓν ἡλίου καταρκέσει πέρσαντι πύργους ναυστάθμοις ἐπεισπεσεῖν κτεῖναί τ' Ἀχαιούς· θατέρᾳ δ' ἀπ' Ἰλίου πρὸς οἶκον εἶμι, συντεμὼν τοὺς σοὺς πόνους.

ὑμῶν δὲ μή τις ἀσπίδ' ἄρηται χερί·

Even such am I no devious track of words
I follow no man I of double tongue
I for my absence from this land was vexed, Chafing with grief of heart, far more than thou
But Scythia's folk, whose frontiers march with mine, Even as I set forward, Troyward bound,
Fell on me, even as I reached the shores
Of Euxine, with my Thracian host to cross
There upon Scythia's soil great blood-gouts dripped
From spears, of Thracian slaughter blent with Scythian

Such was the chance that barred my journeying
To Troyland's plains to be thy battle-aid
I smote them, took their sons for hostages,
Set them a yearly tribute to my house,
Straight sailed across the sea-gorge, and am here
I passed afoot the borders of thy land,
Not, as thou proudly tauntest, with deep draughts
Of wine, nor lying soft in golden halls
But what the icy storm-blasts are that sweep
Paeonian steppes and Thracian sea, I learnt
By sleepless suffering, wrapped but in this cloak

Late is my coming, timely none the less,
For ten full years hast thou been warring now,
Yet hast achieved nought, dost from day to day
Against the Argives cast the dice of war
But for me one sun's dawning shall suffice
To storm their towers, to fall upon their fleet,
And slay the Achaeans So, thy toils cut short,
From Ilium on the morrow home I pass,
Of you let no man lift in hand a shield.

Of yon Achaeans, howso late I come

CHORUS

(Str to Ant 820-832)

Hail to thee! welcome thy shout is, our champion from Zeus and our friend!
Only may Zeus the most highest forgive thee thy vaunt, and defend Thee from the malice of Jealousy, her with whom none may contend! [land Never the galleys of Argos, aforetime nor late, to our Brought mid the hosts of their heroes a champion so mighty of hand [withstand?
How shall Achilles or Aias thy battle-spear's lightning
O that I also may live to behold it, the on-coming day!
O to behold it, thy vengeance triumphant, when lifted to slay [through Hellas' array!
Flasheth the lance in thine hand, spreading havoc

RHESUS

Such deeds will I, for my long absence' sake,
Perform for thee So Nemesis say not nay,
When we have freed this city of foes, and thou Hast chosen triumph's firstfruits for the Gods,
Then will I march with thee to Argive land,
Swoop down, and waste all Hellas with the spear,
That they in turn may learn what suffering means

HECTOR

If I, delivered from this imminent curse, Might sway a city as of old secure,
Then were my soul all thankfulness to heaven
But, for thy talk of Argos and the meads
Of Hellas, these shall no spear lightly waste.

But thou—upon the left wing or the right,
Or centre of our allies, mayst thou plant
Thy buckler, and array thy battle-line

Yet, if thou think shame not to help to fire

Post me to face Achilles and his host

'Gainst him one cannot lift the eager spear

RHESUS

Yet rumour ran that he too sailed to Troy

HECTOR

He sailed, and he is here, but, being wroth
With fellow-chieftains, lifteth not the spear

RHESUS

Odysseus—yet, for courage, brave enow,
And chief of mischief-workers to this land,
Who came by night unto Athena's fane,
Her image stole, and bare to Argos' ships
In vile attire but now, in beggar's guise,
He passed our gate-towers loudly did he curse
The Argives—he, their spy to Ilium sent!
He slew the guards, the warders of the gates,
And stole forth Aye in ambush is he found
By the Thymbraean altars nigh the town Lurking—a foul pest he to wrestle with!

RHESUS

No man of knightly soul would deign by stealth
To slay his foe, he meets him face to face
This man who skulks, thou sayest, like a thief,
And weaves his plots, him will I take alive,
And at your gates' outgoings set him up
Impaled, a feast for vultures heavy-winged.
Robber and rifler of the shrines of Gods,
Meet is it that he die by such a doom!

HECTOR

Encamp ye now and rest, for it is night
A spot myself will show thee, where thine host Must pass the night, apart from our array
"Phoebus" the watchword is, if need arise·
Remember it, and tell thy Thracian host (To the Chorus) Ye must go forth in front of all our lines:
Watch keenly, and our spy upon the ships,
Dolon, receive, for, if he be unharmed,
By this he draweth nigh the camp of Troy

Unpeirilled wilt thou search, and slay these twain?

DIOMEDES

Yet base it were to hie to Argos' ships
With nought of mischief to the foe achieved.

ODYSSEUS

Nothing achieved? Have we not slain the spy Upon the galleys, Dolon? Have we not His spoils? Look'st thou to ravage all their camp?
Hear me—return we, so good speed be ours

ATHENA appears above the stage

Ho! whither go ye, from the lines of Troy
Fleeing, with sorrow rankling in your hearts
That Fortune grants you not the life of Hector, Nor Paris? Know ye not of this ally, Rhesus, to Troy magnificently come?
If he live through this night until the dawn,
Him neither Aias' nor Achilles' spear
Shall stay from wasting all the Argive fleet, Razing your ramparts, and within your gates
Making broad havoc of onslaught with his lance Slay him, and all is thine But Hector's couch
Let be spare thou to smite his head from him.
To him shall death come from another hand.

ODYSSEUS

Here is he, nigh, not quartered with the host
Hector to him assigned a resting-place
Without his lines, till night give place to day
Hard by, his white steeds to his Thracian car
Are tethered clear they gleam athwart the dark
As gleams the white wing of a river-swan
These lead ye hence when ye have slain their lord, Proud trophy for your halls there is no land
That holdeth such a team of chariot-steeds

Draw nigh us From some watchman hath he heard
A doubtful rumour of the approach of foes

War-chief and brother, ho, to thee I call, Hector! Dost sleep? Behoves thee not to watch?
Some foe to us is nigh unto the host—Marauders they, or peradventure spies

ATHENA

Fear not I, Cypris, ward thee graciously
I take thought for thy warfare, nor forget Thine honour done me, and thy service thank
And now, when triumpheth the host of Troy,
Leading to thee a mighty friend I come,
The Thracian scion of the Muse, the Queen
Of Song he bears the name of Strymon's son

PARIS

Gracious art thou unto my city still,
And unto me, I trow I won for Troy
Life's goodliest treasure, judging thee most fair
Vague rumour brought me hither some report
Amongst the guard had risen of Argive spies
Even now at hand One saith it that saw nought
One saw them come, yet nothing more can tell Wherefore to Hector's resting-place I came

Ho ye! I bid you, over-eager twain—
Laertes' son!—let sleep the whetted swords,
For at our feet dead lies the Thracian chief,
Our prize his steeds are But the foe have heard,
And close on you Now must ye with all speed
To yon ship-channels flee Why linger ye,
When bursts the storm of foes, to save your lives?

He came in the days overpast (Ant)
Unto Troy —from his eyes rheum poured Rags round his body were cast
'Neath his cloak was a hidden sword
Like a vagabond varlet he prowled, begging crumbs from the feastful board,
With head overgrimed with foulness, and hair
All filth-defiled
As though the war-chiefs' foe he were,
The house he reviled—
The house of the Atreid kings.—O meet,

Befalls—if this man's words mean aught for me

CHARIOTEER

Undone is our host, laid low is our king
By a deadly stab, by a stroke of guile!
Alas and alas! woe worth the while!
Ah, how am I inly racked by the sting [die! 750
Of my gory wound! Would God I might straightway
Was it meet that so soon as he came, your Troy's ally, Rhesus and I should perish by end so vile?

CHORUS

Lo, not in riddles doth he publish this Nay, plainly of allies destroyed he tells

CHARIOTEER

Ill hath been wrought us—shame, to crown that "ill,"
The foulest shame! Yea, double ill is this!
To die with fame, if one must die, I trow,
Is bitterness to him who dies—how not?
Yet fame and honour crown his living kin 760
But, as a fool dies, fameless we have died
For, soon as Hector pointed us our quarters,
And told the watchword, couched on earth we slept, Outworn with toil our host no watchmen set
For nightlong guard, nor rank by rank were laid
Our arms, nor from the horses' yokes were hung
The car-whips, since our king had word that ye
Were camped triumphant nigh the galley-sterns
So, careless all, we flung us down and slept
Now I with heedful heart from slumber rose, 770
And dealt the steeds their corn with stintless hand, Looking to yoke them with the dawn for fight

Then spied I twain that prowled around our host Through the thick gloom, but, soon as I bestirred me,
They cowered low, and straight drew back again
I cried to them to come not near our host,— Deeming some thieves from our allies drew nigh — Nought said they, neither added I thereto,
But to my couch went back and slept again
And in my sleep a vision nightmared me —
The steeds I tended, and at Rhesus' side
Drave in the car, I saw as in a dream
Mounted of wolves that rode upon their backs,
And with their tails these lashed the horses' flanks, Scourging them on They snorted, and outbreathed Rage from their nostrils, tossing high their manes
I, even in act to save from those fierce things
The steeds, woke. the night-horror smote me awake
Then death-moans, as I raised my head, I heard,
And new-shed blood hot-welling plashed on me
As by my murdered lord's death-thrones I lay Upright I leapt, with never a spear in hand
But, as I peered and groped to find my lance,
From hard by came a sword-thrust 'neath my ribs
From some strong man—strong, for I felt the blade Strike home, felt that deep furrow of the gash
Face-down I fell the chariot and the steeds
The robbers took, and fled into the night
Ah me! Ah me!
Pain racketh me—O wretch! I cannot stand
What ill befell I know—I saw it How
The slain men perished, this I cannot tell,
Nor by what hand, but this do I divine—
Foully have they been dealt with by allies

O charioteer of Thracia's lord ill-starred,
Never suspect of this deed thine allies
Lo, Hector's self, who hath heard of your mischance, Comes: in thine ills he sorroweth, as beseems

Enter HECTOR

How passed the men who wrought this direst scathe—
Spies from the foemen—passed unmarked of you,
For your shame, and for slaughter of the host,
Nor ye withstood them entering the camp,
Nor going forth? Shall any smart for this Save thee?—for thou wast warder of the host
They are gone, unsmitten!—gone, with many a scoff
At Phrygian cowardice and me, your chief!
Now know this well—by father Zeus 'tis sworn—Surely the scourge, or doom of headsman's axe Awaits thee for this work else reckon thou Hector a thing of nought, a craven wretch

CHORUS

(Ant to Str 454–466)

Woe for me! terrible evil, ah terrible, lighted on me
When with my tidings I came, O thou warder of Troy, unto thee,— Tidings of beacon-fires lit through the Argive array by the sea

Yet have I suffered the night not to drop from her slumberous wing Sleep on mine eyelids—I swear it by holiest Simois' spring!
Let not thine anger against me be hot, who am guiltless, O King!

Me,—yea, alive to go down to the pit; not for mercy

CHARIOTEER

Why threaten these, and strive, barbarian thou,
To cozen barbarian wit with glozing speech?
Thine was this murder! None save thee the dead,
Or wounded living, shall account thereof
Guilty! Long speech and subtle shalt thou need To make me think thou murderedst not thy friends,
As coveting the steeds, for which thou slayest Allies whose coming was so straitly urged They came—they are dead! More seemly Paris shamed
Guest-faith, than thou, who murderedst thine allies!
Nay, never tell me 'twas some Argive came And slew us! Who could through the Trojan lines
Have passed, and won to us, unmarked of them?
Before us camped were thou and Phrygia's host —
Of thy friends who was wounded then, who slain,
When came the foes whereof thou tellest us?
We—some are wounded, some have suffered scathe
More deadly, and the sun's light see no more
In plain words, no Achaean we accuse
Who of the foe had come, and in the night
Found 'Rhesus' couch—except a very God Guided the slayers? They not even knew
That he had come! O nay, this plot is thine

With thee should I begin? May no such lust
For steeds take me, that I should slay my friends!
This is Odysseus' work—for who beside Of Argives had devised or wrought such deed?
I fear him, and my mind misgives me sore
Lest he have met our Dolon too, and slain Long time hath he been gone, nor yet appears

CHARIOTEER

I know not thine Odysseus, whom thou nam'st
I have been smitten by no alien foe

HECTOR

Then think thou so, if this to thee seem good

CHARIOTEER

Land of my fathers, O to die in thee!

HECTOR

Die not suffice this multitude of dead

CHARIOTEER

Ah, whither turn me, of my lord bereft?

HECTOR

Shelter and healing shall mine own house give thee

CHARIOTEER

How shall the hands of murderers tend mine hurts?

HECTOR

This man will cease not telling the same tale

CHARIOTEER

Perish the doer! Not at thee my tongue
Hurls this, as plains thy pride —but Justice knows.

HECTOR (to attendants)

Ye, take him up and bear him to mine house
So tend him that he shall not slander us
And ye must go to those upon the wall,
To Priam and our elders, bidding them
Bury the slain beside the public way.

Curse ye, Odysseus and Oineus' scion, (Ant) Through whom I cry on My noble dead!
Curse her, who voyaged from Hellas over
To a Phrygian lover,
A wanton's bed,
Who for Troy's sake hath widowed homes without number,
And bowed thee in slumber
Of death, dear head!

Sore hast thou wrung mine heart, Philammon's son,
In life, and since to Hades thou hast passed Thine overweening, ruinous rivalry
With Muses, made me bear this hapless child
For, as I waded through the river's flow,
Lo, I was clasped in Strymon's fruitful couch,
What time we came unto Pangaeus' ridge,
Whose dust is gold, with flute and lyre arrayed,
We Muses, for great strife of minstrelsy
With Thracia's cunning bard, and we made blind
Thamyris, who full oft had mocked our skill
And, when I bare thee, shamed before my sisters,
And for my maidenhead, down thy sire's fair swirls
I cast thee, and to nurse thee Strymon chose Arms of no mortal, but the Fountain-maids
There reared in glorious fashion by the Nymphs, Thou ruledst Thrace, a king of men, my child.
While through thy native land thou didst achieve
Great deeds of war, I feared not for thy life,
But still I warned thee never to fare to Troy,
Knowing thy doom, but Hector's embassies,

Wrought on thee to set forth to aid thy friends
Athena, thou art cause of all this doom!
Nought did Odysseus, neither Tydeus' son,
With all their doings —think not I am blind! 940
And yet thine Athens we with honour crown
My sister Song-queens chiefly haunt thy land,
And the torch-march of those veiled Mysteries
Did Orpheus teach her, cousin of the dead—
This dead, whom thou hast slain! Musaeus too, Thy citizen revered, the chiefest bard
Of men, him Phoebus and the Muses trained —
And this my meed!—with arms clasped round my son
I wail! No new sage will I bring to thee.

CHORUS

Falsely then Thracia's charioteer reviled 950
Us, Hector, as the plotters of his death

HECTOR

I knew it need was none of seers to tell
That this man perished by Odysseus' craft
And how could I, beholding Hellas' host
Camped on this soil, but send mine heralds forth
To friends, to bid them come and help our land?
I sent them, and he came, who owed me aid.
Ah, little joy have I to see him dead!
Ready am I to rear him now a tomb,
And to burn with him splendour of countless robes 960
A friend he came, in sorrow goeth hence

To show that yet she honours Orpheus' friends
Yet to me as one dead, that sees not light, Henceforth shall he be never shall he come
To meet me more, nor see his mother's form
In caverns of the silver-veinèd land
A god-man shall he lie, beholding light,
As Bacchus' prophet 'neath Pangaeus' rock
Dwelt, god revered of them that knew the truth
More lightly now the grief of that Sea-queen
Shall fall on me for her son too must die
Thee first we Sisters will with dirges hymn, Achilles then, in Thetis' hour of grief
Not him shall Pallas save, who murdered thee,
Such shaft doth Loxias' quiver keep for him
Ah, woes of mothers! Miseries of men!
Yea, whoso taketh true account of you
Childless will live, nor bear sons for the grave

And lay the yokes upon the car-steeds' necks
Then torch in hand must ye await the blast

ARGUMENT

WHEN Troy was taken by the Greeks, Hecuba, the wife of Priam, and her daughters, Cassandra the prophetess, and Polyxena, with the other women of Troy, were made slaves, being portioned among the victors, so that Cassandra became the concubine of Agamemnon But Polydorus, the youngest of Priam's sons, had long ere this been sent, with much treasure of gold, for safe keeping to his father's friend, Polymestor king of Thrace, so that his mother had one consolation of hope amidst her afflictions Now the host of Greece could not straightway sail home, because to the spirit of their dead hero Achilles was given power to hold the winds from blowing, till meet sacrifice were rendered to him, even a maiden of Troy, most beautiful of the seed royal, and for this they chose Polyxena And now king Polymestor, lusting for the gold, and fearing no vengeance of man, slew his ward, the lad Polydorus, and flung his body into the sea, so that it was in process of time cast up by the waves on the shore whereby was the camp of the Greeks, and was brought to Hecuba And herein are told the sorrow of Hecuba and her revenge

HECUBA

The phantom of POLYDORUS appears hovering over the tent of Agamemnon

POLYDORUS

I come from vaults of death, from gates of darkness,
Where from the Gods aloof doth Hades dwell,
Polydorus, born of Hecuba, Cisseus' child,
And Priam, who, when peril girt the town
Of Phrygians, by the spear of Greece to fall,
In fear from Troyland privily sent me forth
To Polymestor's halls, his Thracian friend,
Lord of the fair tilth-lands of Chersonese,
Who with the spear rules that horse-loving folk
And secretly with me my sire sent forth
Much gold, that, should the towers of Ilium fall, His sons yet living might not beggared be Youngest of Priam's house was I for this He sent me forth the land, whose youthful arm
Availed not or to sway the shield or spear
So, while unbowed the land's defences stood,
And yet unshattered were the towers of Troy,
While triumphed yet my brother Hector's spear,
Fair-nurtured by the Thracian, my sire's friend,
Like some young sapling grew I—hapless I!

ἐπεὶ δὲ Τροία θ' Ἕκτορός τ' ἀπόλλυται ψυχή, πατρῴα θ' ἑστία κατεσκάφη, αὐτὸς δὲ βωμῷ πρὸς θεοδμήτῳ πίτνει σφαγεὶς Ἀχιλλέως παιδὸς ἐκ μιαιφόνου, κτείνει με χρυσοῦ τὸν ταλαίπωρον χάριν ξένος πατρῷος καὶ κτανὼν ἐς οἶδμ' ἁλὸς μεθῆκ', ἵν' αὐτὸς χρυσὸν ἐν δόμοις ἔχῃ.
κεῖμαι δ' ἐπ' ἀκταῖς, ἄλλοτ' ἐν πόντου σάλῳ, πάντες δ' Ἀχαιοὶ ναῦς ἔχοντες ἥσυχοι θάσσουσ' ἐπ' ἀκταῖς τῆσδε Θρῃκίας χθονός· ὁ Πηλέως γὰρ παῖς ὑπὲρ τύμβου φανεὶς

But when Troy perished, perished Hector's soul,
And my sire's hearths were made a desolation,
And himself at the god-built altar fell
Slain by Achilles' son, the murder-stained,
Then me for that gold's sake my father's friend
Slew, and the slaughtered wretch mid sea-surge cast,
That in his halls himself might keep the gold
Now on the beach I welter, surf-borne now
Drift on the racing waves' recoil and rush, Tombless, unwept O'er my dear mother's head
Now flit I, leaving tenantless my body

This is the third day that I hover so,
Even all the time that in this Chersonese
My hapless mother tarrieth, haled from Troy
And all the Achaeans idle with their ships Sit on the beaches of this Thracian land
For Peleus' son above his tomb appeared,
And all the Hellenic host Achilles stayed,
Even as they homeward aimed the brine-dipt oar,
And claimed for his Polyxena my sister,
For sacrifice and honour to his tomb,
Yea, and shall win, nor of his hero-friends Giftless shall be And Fate is leading on Unto her death my sister on this day

And of two children shall my mother see
Two corpses, mine, and that her hapless daughter's
For I, to gain a tomb, will—wretch—appear Before her handmaid's feet amidst the surge
For with the Lords of Death have I prevailed
'Twixt mother-hands to fall, and win a tomb Accomplished shall be all for which I longed.

But agèd Hecuba's sight will I avoid,
For forth of Agamemnon's tent she sets
Her feet, appalled by this my ghostly phantom

HECUBA, dressed as a slave, and supported by fellow-captives, appears coming out of Agamemnon's tent

Mother, who after royal halls hast seen
The day of thraldom, how thy depth of woe Equals thine height of weal! A God bears down
The scale with olden bliss heaped, ruining thee [Exit

HECUBA

Lead forth, O my children, the stricken in years from the tent
O lead her, upbearing the steps of your fellow-thrall
Now, O ye daughters of Troy, but of old your queen Clasp me, uphold, help onward the eld-forspent, Laying hold of my wrinkled hand, lest for weakness I fall,
And, sustained by a curving arm, thereon as I lean,
I will hasten onward with tottering pace,
Speeding my feet in a laggard's race
O lightning-splendour of Zeus, O mirk of the night, Why quake I for visions in slumber that haunt me With terrors, with phantoms? O Earth's majestic might,
Mother of dreams that hover in dusk-winged flight,
I cry to the vision of darkness "Avaunt thee!"—
The dream of my son who was sent into Thrace to be saved from the slaughter,
The dream that I saw of Polyxena's doom, my dear-loved daughter,
Which I saw, which I knew, which abideth to daunt me
Gods of the Underworld, save ye my son,

Ἑκάβη, σπουδῇ πρός σ' ἐλιάσθην δοριθήρατος πρὸς Ἀχαιῶν,

Mine house's anchor, its only one,
By the friend of his father warded well
Where the snows of Thrace veil forest and fell!
But a strange new stroke draweth near,
And a strain of wailing for them that wail
Ah, never as now did the heart in me quail
With the thrilling of ceaseless fear
O that Cassandra I might but descry
To arrede me my dreams, O daughters of Troy,
Or Helenus, god-taught seer!
For a dappled fawn I beheld which a wolf's red fangs were tearing,
Which he dragged from my knees whereto she had clung in her piteous despairing
This terror withal on my spirit is come,
That the ghost of the mighty Achilles hath risen, and stood High on the crest of his earth-heaped tomb,
And he claimeth a guerdon of honour, the spilling of blood,
And a woe-stricken Trojan maiden's doom
O Gods, I am suppliant before you!—in any wise turn, I implore you,
This fate from the child of my womb!

Enter CHORUS of captive Trojan women

CHORUS

I have hasted hitherward, the pavilions of my lord,
O my queen, have I forsaken, in the which I sojourn here,
Whom the lot hath doomed to fall unto a king, a thrall
From Ilium chased, the quarry of Achaean hunters' spear,— οὐδὲν παθέων ἀποκουφίζουσ',

Not for lightening of thy pain, nay, a burden have I ta'en
Of heavy tidings, herald of sore anguish unto thee,
For that met is the array of Achaea, and they say That thy child unto Achilles a sacrifice must be
For thou knowest how in sheen of golden armour seen
He stood upon his tomb, and on the ocean-pacing ships
Laid a spell, that none hath sailed,—yea, though the halliards brailed [his lips
The sails up to the yards,—and a cry rang from "Ho, Danaans! whither now, leaving unredeemed your vow [away?"
Of honour to my tomb, and my glory spurned
Then a surge of high contention clashed the spear-host in dissension
Was cleft, some crying, "Yield his tomb the victim!"—others, "Nay!"
Now the King was fervent there that thy daughter they should spare,
For that Agamemnon loveth thy prophet-bacchanal
But the sons of Theseus twain, Athens' scions, for thy bane Pleaded both, yet for the victim did their vote at variance fall
"Ye cannot choose but crown with the life-blood streaming down
Achilles' grave!" they clamoured—"and, for this Cassandra's bed, Shall any dare prefer to Achilles' prowess her—
A concubine, a bondslave?—It shall never be!" they said.

κήρυσσε θεοὺς τούς τ' οὐρανίδας τούς θ' ὑπὸ γαῖαν.

ἦ γάρ σε λιταὶ διακωλύσουσ' ὀρφανὸν εἶναι παιδὸς μελέας,

But the vehemence of speech, each contending against each,
Was balanced, as it were, till the prater subtle-souled,
The man of horned tongue, the truckler to the throng, Laertes' spawn, 'gan fashion the host unto his mould:
"We may not thrust aside like an outcast wretch," he cried,
"The bravest Danaan heart and the stoutest Danaan hand,
All to spare our hands the stain of the blood of bondmaid slain,
Neither suffer that a voice from the ranks of them that stand
In the presence of Hell's Queen should with scoffing bitter-keen Cry, 'Thankless from the plains of Troy the Danaans have sped, Thankless unto Danaan kin whose graves are thick therein,
Who died to save their brethren—the soon-forgotten dead!'"
And Odysseus draweth near—even now shall he be here
From thy breast to rend thy darling, from thine age-enfeebled grasp Hie thee to the temples now: haste, before the altars bow
Crouch low to Agamemnon, his knees in suppliance clasp Lift up thy voice and cry to the Gods that sit on high:
Let the Nether-dwellers hear it through their darkness ringing wild
For, except they turn and spare, and thy prevalence of prayer
Redeem thee from bereavement of thy ruin-stricken child,

O mother, my mother, what meaneth thy crying?
What strange dread thing
Is this that thou heraldest
That hath scared me, like to a bird forth-flying
On startled wing
Out of the peace of her nest?

HECUBA

Alas! woe's me, my daughter! 180

POLYXENA

What word of ill-boding is thine? From thy preluding ills I divine

HECUBA

Ah me, life doomed unto slaughter!

POLYXENA

Tell it out, tell it out, neither hide o'erlong,
For mine heart, my mother, is heavy with dread
For the tidings that come in thy moan

HECUBA

O child, O child of the grief-distraught!

POLYXENA

Ah, what is the message to me thou hast brought?

HECUBA

Death for the Argive warrior-throng
Are in one mind set, that thy blood be shed
On the grave of Peleus' son. 190

POLYXENA

Ah me, my mother, how can thy tongue
Speak out the horror?—Let all be said
O mother mine, say on

HECUBA

O child, I have heard it, the shame and the wrong,
Of the Argive vote, of the doom forth sped,
Of the hope of thy life gone—gone!

POLYXENA

O stricken of anguish beyond all other!
O filled with affliction of desolate days!
What tempest, what tempest of outrage and shame,
Too loathly to look on, too awful to name,
Hath a fiend uproused, that on thee it came,
That thy woeful child by her woeful mother
Nevermore down thraldom's paths shall pace!

For me, like a youngling mountain-pastured,
Like a child of the herd, shalt thou see torn far,
In woe from thy woeful embraces torn,
And, with throat by the steel of the altar shorn,
Down to the underworld darkness borne,
In the Land Unseen to lie, overmastered
Of misery, there where the death-stricken are

For thee, for the dark days closing around thee, Mother, with uttermost wailings I cry
But for this, the life that I now must lack,
For all the ruin thereof and the wrack,
I wail not, I, as I gaze aback —
O nay, but a happier lot hath found me,
Forasmuch as to me it is given to die

CHORUS

But lo, Odysseus comes with hurrying foot,
To tell thee, Hecuba, the new decree

Enter ODYSSEUS

Me they appoint to usher thitherward
And bring the maid the president and priest

But know thy might, thine imminence of ills
Wise is it even mid ills to hearken reason

Woe! A sore trial is at hand, meseems, Burdened with groanings, and fulfilled of tears.
I died not there where well might I have died,
Nor Zeus destroyed, but holdeth me in life
To see—O wretch!—ills more than ills o'erpast
Yet, if the bond may question of the free
Things that should vex them not, nor gall the heart,
Then fits it that thou be the questioned now,
And that I ask, and hearken thy reply

Ay, and what saidst thou—thou my bondman then?

ODYSSEUS

Words—words full many I found, to escape from death.

HECUBA

I saved thee—saved thee,—sent thee forth the land?

ODYSSEUS

Ay, thanks to thee, I see the sun's light now

HECUBA

Art thou not caitiff proved then by these plots,
Who wast by me so dealt with as thou sayest,
Yet dost us nought good, but thine utmost ill?
A thankless spawn, all ye that grasp at honour
By babbling to the mob!—let me not know you,
Who injure friends, and nothing reck thereof,
So ye may something say to please the rabble!
What crafty wiliness imagined ye
This, on my child to pass your murder-vote?
Was't duty drew them on to human slaughter
Upon a grave more meet for oxen slain?
Or doth Achilles, fain to requite with death
His slayers, justly aim death's shaft at her?
Now never aught of harm wrought she to him
Helen should he demand, his tomb's fit victim·
'Twas she to Troy that drew him, and destroyed.
And if some chosen captive needs must die,
In beauty peerless, not to us points this,
For Tyndareus' daughter matchless is in form,
And was found wronging him no less than we
This plea against his "justice" I array
But what return thou ow'st me, on my claim,
Hear—thou didst touch mine hand, as thou dost own,

Lo, in my turn thine hand, thy beard, I touch,
That grace of old reclaiming, now thy suppliant
Not from mine arms tear thou my child away,
Nor slay ye her suffice the already dead.
In her I joy, in her forget my woes
For many a lost bliss she my solace is My city she, nurse, staff, guide for my feet
Not tyrannously the strong should use their strength, Nor they which prosper think to prosper aye
I too once was, but now am I no more,
And all my weal one day hath reft from me
O, by thy beard, have thou respect to me!
Pity me go thou to Achaea's host,
Persuade them how that shame it is to slay
Women, whom first ye slew not, when ye tore
These from the altars, but for pity spared
Lo, the same law is stablished among you
For free and bond as touching blood-shedding
Thine high repute, how ill soe'er thou speak,
Shall sway them for the same speech carneth not Like weight from men contemned and men revered

There is no human nature so relentless
That, hearkening to thy groanings and thy wails Long lengthened out, would not let fall the tear νύμφαι τ' ἀρίστων νυμφίων τητώμεναι, ὧν ἥδε κεύθει σώματ' Ἰδαία κόνις.

τόλμα τάδ'· ἡμεῖς δ', εἰ κακῶς νομίζομεν τιμᾶν τὸν ἐσθλόν, ἀμαθίαν ὀφλήσομεν· οἱ βάρβαροι δὲ μήτε τοὺς φίλους φίλους ἡγεῖσθε μήτε τοὺς καλῶς τεθνηκότας θαυμάζεθ', ὡς ἂν ἡ μὲν Ἑλλὰς εὐτυχῇ, ὑμεῖς δ' ἔχηθ' ὅμοια τοῖς βουλεύμασιν.

ΧΟΡΟΣ

αἰαῖ· τὸ δοῦλον ὡς κακὸν πέφυκ' ἀεὶ τολμᾷ θ' ἃ μὴ χρή, τῇ βίᾳ νικώμενον

That now, Troy taken, we should yield thy child,
At our great champion's claim, for sacrifice
For of this cometh weakness in most states,
That, though a man be brave and patriot-souled,
No guerdon gains he more than baser men
But we, we deem Achilles honour-worthy,
Who died for Hellas nobly as man may Were this not shame then, as a friend to treat
Him living, but no more when he is gone?
Yea, what will one say then, if once again
The host must gather for the strife with foes?
"Fight shall we," will they cry, "or cling to life, Beholding how unhonoured go the dead?"
Yea, for myself, how scant soe'er in life
My fare for daily need, this should suffice
Yet fain would I my tomb were reverence-crowned
In men's sight, evermore this grace abides
But, if thou plain of hardship, hear mine answer
With us there be grey matrons, aged sires,
Not any whit less wretched than art thou,
And brides of noblest bridegrooms left forlorn,
Whose corpses yonder dust of Ida shrouds
Endure this we, if err we do to honour
The brave, content will stand convict of folly
But ye barbarians, still count not as friends
Your friends, nor render your heroic dead
Homage, that prosperous so may Hellas rise,
And your reward may match your policy.

CHORUS

Woe! What a curse is thraldom's nature, aye Enduring wrong by strong constraint o'erborne!

HECUBA

My daughter, wasted are my words in air,
Flung vainly forth my pleadings for thy life
If thou canst aught prevail beyond thy mother,
Be instant, as with nightingale's sad throat
Moan, moan, that thou be not bereft of life
Fall piteously at this Odysseus' knee
Melt him A plea thou hast—he too hath babes,
Well may he so compassionate thy lot

POLYXENA

I see, Odysseus, how thou hid'st thine hand
Beneath thy vesture, how thou turn'st away Thy face, lest I should touch thy beard Fear not·
From Zeus safe art thou, from the Suppliant's Champion
I will go with thee, both for that I must,
And that I long to die And, were I loth,
A coward girl life-craving were I proved
For, wherefore should I live, whose sire was king
Of all the Phrygians? Such was my life's dawn Thereafter was I nurtured mid bright hopes,
A bride for kings, for whose hand rivalry
Ran high, whose hall and hearth should hail me queen
And I—ah me!—was Lady of the Dames
Of Ida, cynosure amidst the maidens,
Peer of the Gods—except that man must die —
And now a slave! The name alone constrains me
To long for death, so strange it is to me
More—haply upon brutal-hearted lords
I might light, such as would for silver buy me,— Sister of Hector and of many a chief!—
Force me to grind the quern his halls within,
And make me sweep his dwelling, stand before

The loom, while days of bitterness drag on
And, somewhere bought, some bondslave shall defile
My couch—accounted once a prize for princes.
Never!—free light mine eyes shall last behold
To Death my body will I dedicate
Lead on, Odysseus, lead me to my doom,
For I see no assuiance, nor in hope,
No, nor in day-dreams, of good days to be Mother, do thou in no wise hinder me
By word or deed, but thou consent with me
Unto my death, ere shame unmeet befall
For whoso is not wont to taste of ills
Chafes, while he bears upon his neck the yoke,
And death for him were happier fai than life,
For life ignoble is but crushing toil

CHORUS

Strange is the impress, clear-stamped upon men,
Of gentle birth, and aye nobility
Higher aspires in them that worthily wear it

HECUBA

My daughter, nobly said yet anguish cleaves
Unto that "nobly" But if Peleus' son
Must gain this grace, and ye must flee reproach, Odysseus, slay not her in any wise,
But me, lead me unto Achilles' pyre
Stab me, spare not 'twas I gave Paris birth
Who with his shafts smote Peleus' son and slew

ODYSSEUS

Not thee, grey mother, did Achilles' ghost
Require the Achaean men to slay, but her

Yet ye—at least me with my daughter slay·
Then twice so deep a draught of blood shall sink
To earth and to the dead who claimeth this

ODYSSEUS

Thy daughter's death sufficeth· death on death
Must not be heaped Would God we owed not this

HECUBA

I must—I must die where my daughter dies!

ODYSSEUS

Must?—I knew not that I had found a master!

HECUBA

As ivy clings to oak will I clasp her

ODYSSEUS

Not if thou heed a wiser than thyself

HECUBA

Consent I will not to let go my child

ODYSSEUS

Nor I will hence depart and leave her here

POLYXENA

Mother, heed me and thou, Laertes' son,
O bear with parents which have cause to rage
Mother, poor mother, strive not with the strong Wouldst thou be earthward hurled, and wound thy flesh, Thine aged flesh, with violence thrust away?
Be hustled shamefully, by young strong arms
Haled?—this shouldst thou Nay, 'tis not worthy thee
But mother, darling mother, give thine hand,
Thy dear, dear hand, and lay thy cheek to mine:
Since never more, but this last time of all
Shall I behold the sun's beam and his orb.

Receive of all my greetings this the last:—
O mother—breast that bear me—I pass deathward

HECUBA

O daughter, I shall yet live on in bondage

POLYXENA

Bridegroom nor bridal!—nought of all my due!

HECUBA

Piteous thy plight, my child, and wretched I

POLYXENA

There shall I lie in Hades, far from thee

HECUBA

Ah me, what shall I do?—where end my life?

POLYXENA

To die a slave, whose father was free-born! 420

HECUBA

In fifty sons nor part nor lot have I!

POLYXENA

What shall I tell to Hector and thy lord?

HECUBA

Report me of all women wretchedest

POLYXENA

O bosom, breasts that sweetly nurtured me!

HECUBA

Woe is thee, daughter, for thy fate untimely!

POLYXENA

Mother, farewell Cassandra, fare thee well.

HECUBA

HECUBA

I—I have died ere dying, through my woes

POLYXENA

Muffle mine head, Odysseus, and lead on
For, ere ye slay me, hath my mother's moan
Melted mine heart, and mine is melting hers
O light!—for yet on thy name may I call;
Yet all my share in thee is that scant space
Hence to the sword-edge and Achilles' pyre

[Exeunt ODYSSEUS and POLYXENA

HECUBA

Ah me! I swoon—beneath me fail my limbs!
O daughter, touch thy mother—reach thine hand—
Give it, nor childless leave me! Friends—undone!
Oh thus to see that sister of Zeus' Sons,
Helen the Spartan!—for by her bright eyes
In shameful fall she brought down prosperous Troy

[Swoons

O breeze, O breeze, over sea-ways racing, (Str 1)
Who onward waftest the ocean-pacing
Fleet-flying keels o'er the mere dark-swelling, Whitherward wilt thou bear me, the sorrow-laden?
From what slave-mart shall the captive maiden Pass into what strange master's dwelling?
To a Dorian haven?—or where, overstreaming
Fat Phthia-land's meads, laugh loveliest-gleaming Babe-waters from founts of Apidanus welling?

(Ant 1)

Oi, to misery borne by the oars brine-sweeping,
In the island-halls through days of weeping
Shall we dwell, where the first-born palm, ascending
From the earth, with the bay twined, glorifying
With enshrining frondage the couch where lying Dear Leto attained to her travail's ending,
There chanting of Artemis' bow all-golden,
And the brows with the frontlet of gold enfolden,
With the Delian maidens our voices blending?

(Str 2)

Or in Pallas's town to the car all-glorious Shall I yoke the steeds on the saffron-glowing[1]
Veil of Athene, where flush victorious
The garlands that cunningest fingers are throwing
In manifold hues on its folds wide-flowing,—
Or the brood of the Titans whom lightnings, that fell Flame-wrapt from Cronion, in long sleep quell?

(Ant 2)

Woe for our babes, for our fathers hoary!
Woe for our country, mid smoke and smoulder
Crashing to ruin, and all her glory
Spear-spoiled!—and an alien land shall behold her Bond who was free, for that Asia's shoulder
Is bowed under Europe's yoke, and I dwell,
An exile from home, in a dungeon of hell

Enter TALTHYBIUS

TALTHYBIUS

Where shall I find her that of late was queen
Of Ilium, Hecuba, ye maids of Troy?

CHORUS

Lo there, anigh thee, on the ground outstretched, Talthybius, lies she muffled in her robes

TALTHYBIUS

What shall I say, Zeus?—that thou look'st on men?
Or that this fancy false we vainly hold
For nought, who deem there is a race of Gods,
While chance controlleth all things among men?
This—was she not the wealthy Phrygians' queen?
This—was she not all-prosperous Priam's wife?
And now her city is all spear-o'erthrown,
Herself a slave, old, childless, on the earth
Lieth, her hapless head with dust defiled
Ah, old am I, yet be it mine to die
Ere into any shameful lot I fall!
Arise, ill-starred, and from the earth uplift
Thy body and thine head all snow-besprent

HECUBA

Ha, who art thou that lettest not my frame
Rest?—why disturb my grief, whoe'er thou be?

TALTHYBIUS

Talthybius I, the Danaans' minister,
Of Agamemnon sent, O queen, for thee

HECUBA

Friend, friend, art come because the Achaeans will To slay me too? How sweet thy tidings were!
Haste we—make speed—O ancient, lead me on.

TALTHYBIUS

Lady, that thou mayst bury thy dead child,
I come in quest of thee, and sent am I
Of Atreus' two sons and the Achaean folk

HECUBA

Woe!—what wouldst say? Not as to one death-doomed Cam'st thou to me, but heralding new woes?
Child, thou hast perished, from thy mother torn!
Childless, as touching thee, am I—ah wretch!—
How did ye slay her?—how?—with reverence meet,
Or with brute outrage, as men slay a foe,
Ancient? Tell on, though all unsweet thy tale

TALTHYBIUS

Twofold tear-tribute wouldst thou win from me
In pity for thy child Mine eyes shall weep
The tale, as by the grave when she was dying
There met was all Achaea's warrior-host Thronged at the grave to see thy daughter slain
Then took Achilles' son Polyxena's hand,
And on the mound's height set her I stood by
And followed of the Achaeans chosen youths Whose hands should curb the strugglings of thy lamb
Then taking 'twixt his hands a chalice brimmed, Pure gold, Achilles' son to his dead sire Drink-offerings poured, and signed me to proclaim Silence unto the whole Achaean host
By him I stood, and in the midst thus cried
"Silence, Achaeans! Hushed be all the host!
Peace!—not a word!"—so breathless stilled the folk Then spake he "Son of Peleus, father mine,
Accept from me these drops propitiatory,
Ghost-raising Draw thou nigh to drink pure blood

Dark-welling from a maid We give it thee,
The host and I Gracious to us be thou Vouchsafe us to cast loose the sterns and curbs
Of these ships, kindly home-return to win
From Troy, and all to reach our fatherland"
So spake he,—in that prayer joined all the host,— Then grasped his golden-plated falchion's hilt, Drew from the sheath, and to those chosen youths
Of Argos' war-host signed to seize the maid
But she, being ware thereof, spake forth this speech.
"O Argives, ye which laid my city low,
Free-willed I die on my flesh let no man
Lay hand · unflinching will I yield my neck
But, by the Gods, let me stand free, the while Ye slay, that I may die free, for I shame Slave to be called in Hades, who am royal"
"Yea!" like a great sea roared the host the King Spake to the youths to let the maiden go
And they, soon as they heard that last behest
Of him of chiefest might, drew back their hands
And she, when this she heard, her masters' word,
Her vesture grasped, and from the shoulder's height
Rent it adown her side, down to the waist,
And bosom showed and breasts, as of a statue,
Most fair, and, bowing to the earth her knee,
A word, of all words most heroic, spake
"Lo here, O youth, if thou art fain to strike
My breast, strike home but if beneath my neck
Thou wouldest, here my throat is bared to thee"
And he, loth and yet fain, for ruth of her,
Cleaves with the steel the channels of the breath Forth gushed the life-springs · but she, even in death, πολλὴν πρόνοιαν εἶχεν εὐσχήμως πεσεῖν, κρύπτουσ' ἃ κρύπτειν ὄμματ' ἀρσένων χρεών ἐπεὶ δ' ἀφῆκε πνεῦμα θανασίμῳ σφαγῇ, οὐδεὶς τὸν αὐτὸν εἶχεν Ἀργείων πόνον· ἀλλ' οἱ μὲν αὐτῶν τὴν θανοῦσαν ἐκ χερῶν

Took chiefest thought decorously to fall, Hiding what hidden from men's eyes should be.
But when she had spent her breath 'neath that death-stroke,
Each Argive 'gan his task—no man the same
But some upon the dead were strawing leaves
Out of their hands, and some heap high the pyre, Bringing pine-billets thither whoso bare not Heard such and such rebukes of him that bare
" Dost stand still, basest heart, with nought in hand—
Robe for the maiden, neither ornament?
Nought wilt thou give to one in courage matchless, Noblest of soul?"
Such is the tale I tell
Of thy dead child Most blest in motherhood
I count thee of all women, and most hapless

CHORUS

Dread bale on Priam's line and city hath poured
Its lava-flood.—'tis heaven's resistless doom.

HECUBA

Daughter, I know not on what ills to look,
So many throng me if to this I turn,
That hindereth me thence summoneth me again
Another grief, on-ushering ills on ills
And now I cannot from my soul blot out Thine agony, that I should wail it not.
Yet hast thou barred the worst, proclaimed to me
So noble Lo, how strange, that evil soil
Heaven-blest with seasons fair, bears goodly crops, While the good, if it faileth of its dues,
Gives evil fruit but always among men
The caitiff nothing else than evil is,
The noble, noble, nor 'neath fortune's stress
Marreth his nature, but is good alway

By blood, or nurture, is the difference made?
Sooth, gentle nurture bringeth lessoning
In nobleness, and whoso learns this well
By honour's touchstone knoweth baseness too —
Ah, unavailing arrows of the mind[1]!
But go thou, to the Argives this proclaim,
That none my daughter touch, but that they keep
The crowd thence in a war-array untold
I awless the mob is, and the shipmen's licence Outraveneth flame—they rail on who sins not!

[Exit TALTHYBIUS

But, ancient handmaid, take a vessel thou,
And dip, and of the sea-brine hither bring,
That with the last bath I may wash my child,—
The bride unwedded, maid a maid no more,[2]—
And lay her out—as meet is, how can I?
Yet as I may; for lo, what plight is mine!
Jewels from fellow-captives will I gather Which dwell, my neighbour-thralls, these tents within,
If haply any, to our lords unknown,
Hath any stolen treasure of her home
O stately halls, O home so happy once!
O rich in fair abundance, goodliest offspring,
Priam!—and I, a grey head crowned with sons!
How are we brought to nought, of olden pride Stripped bare! And lo, we men are puffed up,
One of us for the riches of his house,
And one for honour in the mouths of men!
These things be nought All vain the heart's devisings, The vauntings of the tongue! Most blest is he
To whom no ill befalls as days wear on

My doom of disaster was written, (Str)
The doom of mine anguish was sealed,
When of Paris the pine-shafts were smitten
Upon Ida, that earthward they reeled,
To ride over ridges surf-whitened,
Till the bride-bed of Helen was won,
Woman fairest of all that be lightened
By the gold of the sun

For battle-toils, yea, desolations (Ant)
Yet sorer around us close,
And the folly of one is the nation's Destruction, of alien foes
Cometh ruin by Simois' waters
So judged is the judgment given
When on Ida the strife of the Daughters
Of the Blessed was striven,

For battle, for murder, for ruin (Epode)
Of mine halls —by Eurotas is moan,
Where with tears for their homes' undoing
The maidens Laconian groan,
Where rendeth her tresses hoary
The mother for sons that are dead,
And her cheeks with woe-furrows are gory,
And her fingers are red

Enter HANDMAID, with bearers carrying a covered corpse

HANDMAID

Women, O where is Hecuba, sorrow's queen,
Who passeth every man, all womankind,
In woes? No man shall take away her crown

HANDMAID

To Hecuba I bring this pang mid woes
Not easily may mortal lips speak fair

CHORUS

Lo where she cometh from beneath the roofs
In season for thy tale appeareth she

HANDMAID

O all-afflicted, more than lips can say !
Queen, thou art slain—thou seest the light no more !
Unchilded, widowed, cityless—all-destroyed !

HECUBA

No news this 'tis but taunting me who knew
But wherefore com'st thou bringing me this corpse, Polyxena's, whose burial-rites, 'twas told,
By all Achaea's host were being sped ?

HANDMAID

She nothing knows Polyxena—ah me !—
Still wails she, and the new woes graspeth not

HECUBA

O hapless I !—not—not the bacchant head
Of prophetess Cassandra bring'st thou hither ?

HANDMAID

Thou nam'st the living. but the dead—this dead, Bewailest not,—look, the dead form is bared !

[Uncovers the corpse

Seems it not strange—worse than all boding fears ?

HECUBA

Ah me, my son !—I see Polydorus dead,
Whom in his halls I deemed the Thracian warded
O wretch ! it is my death—I am no more !
O my child, O my child !

HANDMAID

Didst thou then know thy son's doom, hapless one?

HECUBA

Beyond, beyond belief, new woes I see
Ills upon ills thronging one after another Never day shall pass by without tear, without sigh, nor mine anguish refrain

CHORUS

Dread, O dread evils, hapless queen, we suffer

HECUBA

O child, O child of a grief-stricken mother!
By what fate didst thou die?—in what doom dost thou lie?—of what man wast thou slain?

HANDMAID

I know not. on the sea-strand found I him

HECUBA

Cast up by the tide, or struck down by the spear in a blood-reddened hand
On the smooth-levelled sand?

HANDMAID

The outsea surge in-breaking flung him up

HECUBA

Woe's me, I discern it, the vision that blasted my sight!
Neither flitted unheeded that black-winged phantom of night,
Which I saw, which revealed that my son was no more of the light

To whose charge his grey father had given him to

CHORUS

Oh, what wouldst say?—slew him to keep the gold?

HECUBA

O horror unspeakable, nameless, beyond all wonder!— Impious, unbearable! Where are they, friendship and truth?
O accursèd of men, lo, how hast thou carved asunder
His flesh!—how thy knife, when my child's limbs quivered thereunder, [unmelted of ruth!
Hath slashed him and mangled, and thou wast

CHORUS

O hapless, how a God, whose hand on thee
Is heavy, above all mortals heaps thee pain!
But lo, I see our master towering nigh,
Agamemnon friends, henceforth hold we our peace

Enter AGAMEMNON

Why stay'st thou, Hecuba, to entomb thy child,
According to Talthybius' word to me
That of the Argives none should touch thy daughter?
Wherefore we let her be, and touch her not,
Yet loiterest thou, that wonder stirreth me
I come to speed thee hence, for all things there Are well wrought— if herein may aught be well Ha, who is this that by the tents I see?
What Trojan dead? No Argive this, the robes
That shroud the body make report to me

HECUBA (aside)

Hapless!—myself I name in naming thee—
O Hecuba, what shall I do?—or fall
At the king's feet, or silent bear mine ills?

Nor tellest what is done, and who is this?

HECUBA (aside)

But if, accounting me a slave and foe,
He thrust me from his knees, 'twere pang on pang

AGAMEMNON

No prophet born am I, to track the path
Of these thy musings, if I hear them not

HECUBA (aside)

Lo, surely am I counting this man's heart O'ermuch my foe, who is no foe at all

AGAMEMNON

Sooth, if thou wilt that nought hereof I know,
At one we are I care not, I, to hear

HECUBA (aside)

I cannot, save with help of him, avenge
My children—wherefore do I dally thus?
I must needs venture, or to win or lose:—
Agamemnon, I beseech thee by thy knees,
And by thy beard, and thy victorious hand—

AGAMEMNON

What matter seekest thou? Wouldst have thy days Free henceforth? Sooth, thy boon is lightly won

HECUBA

No—no! Avenge me of mine adversary,
And I will welcome lifelong bondage then

AGAMEMNON

But to what championship dost summon me?

HECUBA

To nought of all whereof thou dreamest, king
Seest thou this corpse, o'er which my tears rain down?

I see,—yet what shall come I cannot tell

HECUBA

Him once I bare, and carried 'neath my zone

AGAMEMNON

Who of thy sons is this, O sorrow-crushed?

HECUBA

Not one of Priam's sons by Ilium slain

AGAMEMNON

How? didst thou bear another more than these?

HECUBA

Yea—to my grief, meseems · thou seest him here

AGAMEMNON

Yet where was he what time the city fell?

HECUBA

Dreading his death his father sent him thence

AGAMEMNON

And whither drew him from the rest apart?

HECUBA

Unto this land, where dead hath he been found

AGAMEMNON

To Polymestor, ruler of the land?

HECUBA

Yea—sent in charge of thrice-accursed gold

AGAMEMNON

And of whom slain, and lighting on what doom?

HECUBA

Of whom save one?—that Thracian friend slew him

AGAMEMNON

O wretch!—for that he lusted for the gold?

HECUBA

Even so, when Phrygia's fall was known of him τιμωρὸς ἀνδρὸς ἀνοσιωτάτου ξένου, ὃς οὔτε τοὺς γῆς νέρθεν οὔτε τοὺς ἄνω δείσας δέδρακεν ἔργον ἀνοσιώτατον, κοινῆς τραπέζης πολλάκις τυχὼν ἐμοί,

AGAMEMNON

Where found'st thou him?—or who hath brought thy dead?

HECUBA

She there upon the strand she chanced on him.

AGAMEMNON

Seeking him, or on other task employed?

HECUBA

Sea-brine she sought to lave Polyxena.

AGAMEMNON

So then this guest-friend slew and cast him forth

HECUBA

Yea, on the sea to drift, his flesh thus hacked.

AGAMEMNON

O woe is thee for thine unmeasured pains!

HECUBA

'Tis death—there is no deeper depth of woe.

AGAMEMNON

Alas, was woman e'er so fortune-crost?

HECUBA

None, except thou wouldst name Misfortune's self
But for what cause I bow thy knees to clasp, Hear —if my righteous due my sufferings seem
To thee, I am content if not, do thou
Avenge me on that impious, impious friend,
Who neither feared the powers beneath the earth,
Nor those on high, but wrought most impious deed,—
Who ofttimes at my table ate and drank,
For welcome foremost in my count of friends,
And had all guest-dues Yet he watched his time,
Slew him, not in his thoughts of murder found
Room for a grave, but cast him mid the sea

And I—a slave I may be, haply weak,
Yet are the Gods strong, and their ruler strong, Even Law, for by this Law we know Gods are,
We live, we make division of wrong and right,
And if this at thy bar be disannulled,
And they shall render not account which slay
Guests, or dare rifle the Gods' holy things,
Then among men is there no righteousness
This count then shameful, have respect to me,
Pity me —like a painter so draw back,
Scan me, pore on my portraiture of woes
A queen was I, time was, but now thy slave, Crowned with fair sons once, childless now and old,
Cityless, lone, of mortals wretchedest
Woe for me!—whither wouldst withdraw thy foot?
Meseems I shall not speed—O hapless I!
Wherefore, O wherefore, at all other lore
Toil men, as needeth, and make eager quest,
Yet Suasion, the unrivalled queen of men,
Nor price we pay, nor make ado to learn her Unto perfection, so a man might sway
His fellows as he would, and win his ends?
How then shall any hope good days henceforth?
So many sons—none left me any more!
Myself mid shame a spear-thrall ruin-sped,— Yon smoke o'er Troy upsoaring in my sight!
Yet—yet—'twere unavailing plea perchance
To cast Love's shield before me—yet be it said
Lo, at thy side my child Cassandra couched Lies, the Inspired One—named of Phrygians so Those nights of love, hath their memorial perished?
Or for the lovingkindness of the couch

What thank shall my child have, or I for her?
For of the darkness and the night's love-spells Cometh on men the chiefest claim for thank Hearken now, hearken. seest thou this dead boy?
Doing him right, to thine own marriage-kin
Shalt thou do right One plea more lack I yet —
O that I had a voice in these mine arms
And hands and hair and pacings of my feet,
By art of Daedalus lent, or of a God,
That all together to thy knees might cling Weeping, and pressing home pleas manifold!
O my lord, mightiest light to Hellas' sons,
Hearken, O lend thine hand to avenge the aged,
What though a thing of nought she be, yet hear!
For 'tis the good man's part to champion right,
And everywhere and aye to smite the wrong

CHORUS

Strange, strange, how all cross-chances hap to men!
These laws shift landmarks even of friendship's ties,[1]
Turning to friends the bitterest of foes, Changing to enmity the love of old

AGAMEMNON

I am stirred to pity, Hecuba, both of thee,
Thy son, thy fortune, and thy suppliant hand,
And for the Gods' and justice' sake were fain Thine impious guest should taste for this thy vengeance,
So means were found thy cause to speed, while I Seem not unto the host to plot this death

[1] The laws of right and wrong and the obligation to avenge the blood of kin compel Hecuba to ally herself with Agamemnon, her late enemy, against Polymestor, her late friend τὰς αἰχμαλώτους εἶπας, Ἑλλήνων ἄγραν,

For Thracia's king for thy Cassandra's sake
For herein is mine heart disquieted.—
This very man the host account their friend,
The dead their foe that dear he is to thee
Is nought to them, nor part have these in him
Wherefore take thought in me thou hast one fain
To share thy toil, and swift to lend thee aid,
But slow to face the Achaeans' murmurings

HECUBA

Ah, among mortals is there no man free!
To lucre or to fortune is he slave
The city's rabble or the law's impeachment Constrains him into paths his soul abhors
But since thou fear'st, dost overrate the crowd, Even I will set thee free from this thy dread
Be privy thou, what ill soe'er I plot
For my son's slayer, but share not the deed
If tumult mid the Achaeans rise, or cry
Of rescue, when the Thracian feels my vengeance, Thou check them, not in seeming for my sake
For all else, fear not I will shape all well

AGAMEMNON

How? what wouldst do? Wouldst in thy wrinkled hand
A dagger clutch, and yon barbarian slay?—
With poisons do the deed, or with what help?
What arm shall aid thee? whence wilt win thee friends?

HECUBA

These tents a host of Trojan women hide

HECUBA

By these will I avenge me on my slayer

AGAMEMNON

How?—women gain the mastery over men?

HECUBA

Mighty are numbers—joined with craft, resistless

AGAMEMNON

Ay, mighty, yet misprise I womankind

HECUBA

What? did not women slay Aegyptus' sons,
And wholly of her males dispeople Lemnos?
Yet be it so forbear to reason thus
But to this woman give thou through the host Safe passage
(To a servant) Thou, draw nigh our Thracian guest, Say, "Hecuba, late Queen of Ilium,
Calls thee on thy behoof no less than hers,
Thy sons withal, for these must also hear
Her words" The burial of Polyxena
Late-slaughtered, Agamemnon, thou delay
So sister joined with brother in one flame,
A mother's double grief, shall be entombed

AGAMEMNON

So shall it be yet, might the host but sail,
No power had I to grant this grace to thee
But, seeing God sends no fair-following winds, Needs must we tarry watching idle sails
Now fair befall · for all men's weal is this,— Each several man's, and for the state,—that ill
Betide the bad, prosperity the good [Exit

O my fatherland, Ilium, thou art named no more Mid burgs unspoiled, (Str 1)
Such a battle-cloud lightening spears enshrouds thee o'er,
All round thee coiled!
Thou art piteously shorn of thy brows' tower-diadem,
And smirched with stain
Of the reek, and thy streetways—my feet shall not tread them, Ah me, again!

At the midnight my doom lighted on me, when sleep shed (Ant 1)
O'er eyes sweet rain, [his bed

Was the gleam from the fathomless depths of mirror-gold, Ere I sank down [blast
To my rest on the couch,—but a tumult's tempest-
Swept up the street,
And a battle-cry thundered—"Ye sons of Greeks, on fast!
Be the castles of Troy overthrown, that home at last May hail your feet!"

From my dear bed, my lost bed, I sprang, like Dorian maid (Ant 2)
But mantle-veiled,
And to Artemis' altar I clung—woe's me! I prayed
In vain, and wailed
And my lord I beheld lying dead, and I was borne O'er deep salt sea,
Looking back upon Troy, by the ship from Ilium torn As she sped on the Hellas-ward path. then woe-forlorn
I swooned,—ah me!—
(Epode)
Upon Helen, the sister of Zeus' Sons, hurling back,
And on Paris, fell shepherd of Ida, curses black,
Who from mine home
By their bridal had reft me—'twas bridal none, but wrack Devil-wrought —to her fatherland home o'er yon sea-track
Ne'er may she come!

Enter POLYMESTOR with his two little sons attended by a guard of Thracian spearmen

POLYMESTOR

Priam of men most dear!—and dearest thou,
O Hecuba, I weep beholding thee,
Thy city, and thine offspring slain so late Nought is there man may trust, nor high repute,
Nor present weal—for it may turn to woe,
All things the Gods confound, hurl this way and that,
Turmoiling all, that we, foreknowing nought,
May worship them —what skills it to make moan
For this, outrunning evils none the more?
But if mine absence thou dost chide, forbear,

For in the mid-Thrace tracts afar was I
When thou cam'st hither soon as I returned,
At point was I to hasten forth mine home,
When lo, for this same end thine handmaid came Telling a tale whose tidings winged mine haste

HECUBA

I shame to look thee in the face, who am sunk,
O Polymestor, in such depth of ills
Thou sawest me in weal shame's thrall I am,
Found in such plight wherein I am this day
I cannot face thee with unshrinking eyes
Yet count it not as evil-will to thee,
Polymestor, therebeside is custom's bar
That women look not in the eyes of men

POLYMESTOR

No marvel.—but what need hast thou of me?
For what cause from mine home hast sped my feet?

HECUBA

A secret of mine own I fain would tell
To thee and thine I pray thee, bid thy guards Aloof from these pavilions to withdraw

POLYMESTOR

Depart ye, for this solitude is safe [Exeunt guards
My friend art thou, well-willed to me this host Achaean Now behoves thee to declare Wherein the prosperous must render help
To friends afflicted lo, prepared am I

POLYMESTOR

I speak of Priam's house was one, the youngest, Polydorus, Hecuba's child, whom his sire sent From Troy to me, to nurture in mine halls, Misdoubting, ye may guess, the fall of Troy
Him slew I For what cause I slew him, hear:—
Mark how I dealt well, wisely, prudently —
I feared their son might, left alive thy foe, Gather Troy's remnant and repeople her,
And, hearing how a Priamid lived, Achaea
To Phrygia-land again should bring her host,
Then should they trample down these plains of Thrace
In foray, and the ills that wasted us
But now, O king, should on Troy's neighbours fall
And Hecuba, being ware of her son's death,
With this tale lured me, that she would reveal Hid treasuries of gold of Priam's line
In Troy Me only with my sons she leads Within the tents, that none beside might know
Bowing the knee there sat I in their midst,
While, on my left hand some, some on the right,
As by a friend, forsooth, Troy's daughters sat
Many . the web of our Edonian loom
Praised they, uplifting to the light my cloak,
And some my Thracian lance admiring took, γυμνόν μ' ἔθηκαν διπτύχου στολίσματος.

ὅσαι δὲ τοκάδες ἦσαν, ἐκπαγλούμεναι τέκν' ἐν χεροῖν ἔπαλλον, ὡς πρόσω πατρὸς

And stripped me so alike of spear and shield
As many as were mothers, loud in praise
Dandled my babes, that from their sire afar
They might be borne, from hand to hand passed on Then, after such smooth speech,—couldst thou believe?—
Suddenly snatching daggers from their robes,
They stab my sons, and others all as one
In foemen's fashion gripped mine hands and feet,
And held. and, when I fain would aid my sons,
If I essayed to raise my face, by the hair
They held me down · if I would move mine hands,
For the host of women—wretch!—I nought prevailed
And last—O outrage than all outrage worse!—
A hideous deed they wrought; their brooch-pins
They grasp, these wretched eyeballs of mine eyes They stab, they flood with gore Then through the tents
Fleeing they went Up from the earth I leapt,
And like a wild-beast chased the blood-stained hounds,
Groping o'er all the wall, like tracking huntsman, Smiting and battering All for my zeal's sake
For thee, I suffered this, who slew thy foe, Agamemnon Wherefore needeth many words?
Whoso ere now hath spoken ill of women,
Or speaketh now, or shall hereafter speak,
All this in one word will I close and say —
Nor sea nor land doth nurture such a breed
He knoweth, who hath converse with them most

CHORUS

Be nowise reckless, nor, for thine own ills,
Include in this thy curse all womankind
For some, yea many of us, deserve no blame,
Though some by vice of blood count midst the bad

HECUBA

Agamemnon, never should this thing have been,
That words with men should more avail than deeds,
But good deeds should with reasonings good be paired,
And baseless plea be ranged by caitiff deed,
And ne'er avail to gloze injustice o'er
There be whose craft such art hath perfected,
Yet cannot they be cunning to the end
Foully they perish never one hath 'scaped
Such prelude hath my speech as touching thee
Now with plea answering plea to him I turn —
To spare the Greeks, say'st thou, a twice-toiled task,
For Agamemnon's sake thou slew'st my son
Villain of villains, when, when could thy race, Thy brute race, be a friend unto the Greeks?
Never And, prithee, whence this fervent zeal
To serve his cause?—didst look to wed his daughter?
Art of his kin?—or what thy private end?
Or were they like to sail again and waste Thy crops? Whom think'st thou to convince hereby?
That gold—hadst thou the will to tell the truth—
Murdered my son that, and thy greed of gain
For, answer why, when all went well with Troy,
When yet her ramparts girt the city round,
And Priam lived, and triumphed Hector's spear,
Why not then, if thou fain wouldst earn kings' thanks,
When in mine halls ye had my son and fostered,
Slay him, or living bring him to the Greeks?
But, soon as in the light we walked no more,
And the smoke's token proved our town the foe's,
Thou slew'st the guest that came unto thine hearth
Nay more, hear now how thou art villain proved

Thou oughtest, if thou wert the Achaeans' friend,
Have brought the gold thou dar'st not call thine own,
But for him held in trust, to these impoverished
And long time exiled from their fatherland
But thou not yet canst ope thine heart to unclose Thy grip, thy miser-clutch keeps it at home
Yet hadst thou, as behoved thee, reared my son
And saved alive, thine had been fair renown
For in adversity the good are friends
Most true: prosperity hath friends unsought
Hadst thou lacked money, and his lot been fair,
A treasury deep my son had been to thee
But now thou hast not him unto thy friend,
Gone is the gold's avail, thy sons are gone,—
And this thy plight! Now unto thee I say, Agamemnon, if thou help him, base thou showest
The godless, false to whom he owed fair faith,
The impious host unrighteous shalt thou comfort
Thou joyest in the wicked, shall we say,
So doing—but I rail not on my lords

CHORUS

Lo, how the good cause giveth evermore
To men occasion for good argument

AGAMEMNON

It likes me not to judge on others' wrongs, Yet needs I must, for shame it were to take This cause into mine hands, and then thrust by But,—wouldst thou know my thought,—not for my sake,
Nor the Achaeans', didst thou slay thy guest,
But even to keep that gold within thine halls
In this ill plight thou speak'st to serve thine ends

DAUGHTERS OF TROY

ARGUMENT

WHEN Troy was taken by the Greeks, the princesses of the House of Priam were apportioned by lot to the several chiefs of the host But Polyxena they doomed to be sacrificed on Achilles' tomb, and Astyanax, the son of Hector and Andromache, they hurled from a high tower And herein is told how all this befell, and beside there is naught else save the lamentations of these Daughters of Troy, till the city is set aflame, and the captives are driven down to the sea

HECUBA discovered sleeping on the earth in front of a tent Enter POSEIDON.

POSEIDON

I COME, Poseidon I, from briny depths
Of the Aegean Sea, where Nereids dance
In lovely-woven pacings of their feet
For, since the day when round this Trojan land Phoebus and I by line and plummet reared
Her towers of stone, from mine heart ne'er hath fled
Old lovingkindness for the Phrygians' city,
Smoke-shrouded now and wasted and brought low
By Argos' spear For that Parnassian wright, Phocian Epeius, by device of Pallas
Fashioned the horse whose womb was fraught with arms,
And sent within yon towers its sum-load,
Whence of men yet unborn shall it be named
The Wooden Horse, enfolder of ambushed spears Forsaken are the groves the shrines of Gods
With blood are dripping on the altar-steps
Of City-warder Zeus lies Priam dead
Measureless gold and Phrygian spoils pass down Unto the ships Achaean They but wait
A breeze fair-following, that in this tenth year
Children and wives with joy they may behold,
These Hellene men which marched against yon town

I, overborne by Hera, Argos' Queen,
And by Athena, leagued for Phrygia's fall,
Ilium the glorious and mine altars leave
For when grim desolation hath seized a town,
Blighted are worship and honour of the Gods.
With wails of captives multitudinous,
Marked for their lords by lot, Scamander moans
Some have Arcadians won, Thessalians some,
Some fall to Athens' chieftains, Theseus' sons.
And all Troy's daughters not by lot assigned
Are 'neath these tents, for captains of the host Set by with these the Spartan, Tyndareus' child,
Helen, accounted captive righteously
But, the utter-wretched if one craves to see,
There lieth Hecuba before the gates,
Down-raining many a tear for many woes,—
Yet knows not that her child Polyxena
Hath on Achilles' grave died piteously Priam, her sons, are gone Cassandra—whom Apollo left free virgin frenzy-driven,— Shall Agamemnon force, his leman-slave, Flouting the God's decree and righteousness
O city prosperous once, O stone-hewn towers, Farewell to you! Had Pallas, Zeus's child,
Not ruined thee, firm stablished wert thou yet!

A word from Zeus, or from some Heavenly One?

ATHENA

Nay, for Troy's sake, upon whose soil we tread,
I seek thy might, to win thee mine ally

POSEIDON

So?—hast thou cast out thine old enmity,
To pity her, now that she is burnt with fire?

Wilt thou consent in that I fain would do?

ATHENA

When homeward-bound they sail from Ilium
Then Zeus shall send forth rain unutterable,
And hail, and blackness of heaven's tempest-breath,
And to me promiseth his levin-flame
To smite the Achaeans and burn their ships with fire
But thou—the Aegean sea-pass make thou roar
With mountain-surge and whirlpits of wild brine,
And thou with corpses choke Euboea's gulf,
That Greeks may learn henceforth to reverence
My temples, and to fear all Gods beside

POSEIDON

This shall be thy boon needs not many words
The wide Aegean sea will I turmoil,
The shores of Myconos, the Delian reefs,
Scyros, and Lemnos, the Caphereian cliffs
With many dead men's corpses shall be strewn Pass thou to Olympus, from thy father's hands
Receive the levin-bolts, and watch the hour
When Argos' host shall cast the hawsers loose.
Fool, that in sack of towns lays temples waste,
And tombs, the sanctuaries of the dead!

HECUBA (Str 1)

Uplift thou thine head, O fortune-accurst, from the earth upraise thy neck bowed low
This ruin is not thy Troy, nor the lords are we now of Troy, and the fate-winds blow
Not as of old, thou must bear it, must drift with the stream, as the tides of Fortune flow Breast not with thy prow the surges of life, who on waves of disaster, alas! art tost
What remaineth to me but the misery-moan, whose country, whose children, whose husband, are lost?
O proud-swelling sail of a kingly line reefed now!—how a thing but of nought thou wast!

(Ant 1)

What shall I speak?—what leave unsaid?—woe's me for the couch of the evil-starred!
Lo, how I lie unrestfully stretched on the bed of calamity pitiless-hard!
Alas for mine head, for my throbbing brows, for mine heart in its aching prison barred!
I yearn to rock me and sway—as a bark whose bulwarks roll in the trough of the sea—
To my keening, the while I wail my chant of sorrow and weeping unceasingly,
The ruin-song never linked with the dance, the jangled music of misery

Rises to her feet, and advances to front of stage

O ship-prows rushing (Str 2)
To Ilium, brushing
The purple-flushing sea with swift oars,
Till flutes loud-ringing,
Till pipes dread-singing Proclaimed you swinging off Phrygian shores
On hawsers plaited

By Nile—ships fated
To hunt the hated, the Spartan wife, Castor's defaming,
Eurotas' shaming,
A Fury claiming King Priam's life!
Though sons he cherished
Fifty, he perished,
His murderess she and the misery-rife,
Even me, hath she wrecked on the rocks of strife
Woe for my session (Ant 2)
Mid foes' oppression!
Woe, slave-procession! Woe, grey shorn head!
Come, wife grief-laden,
Come bride, come maiden,
O hearts once stayed on the brave hearts dead!
Wail we our yearning
O'er Ilium burning!—
As o'er nestlings turning to her sheltering wing
The mother screameth,
My song-flood streameth—
Not such, meseemeth, as wont to ring
When I beat time, raising
The Gods' sweet praising,
And watched Troy's dances around me swing
As I leaned on the sceptre of Priam my king

Child, child, the Argive hands with oar and sail
Are busy by the tide

HALF-CHORUS 1

Ah me! what mean they? Will they straightway bear us
From fatherland far over sea?

HECUBA

I know not I but bode the curse drawn near us,
The doom of misery

HALF-CHORUS 1

Woe!—we shall hear the summons, "O ye daughters
Of Troy, from these pavilions come
The Argives launch their keels upon the waters,
The sails are spread for home"

HECUBA

Alas! let none call forth the frenzy-driven Cassandra, bacchant-prophetess,
For Argive lust to shame, lest there be given Distress to my distress!
Troy, Troy, unhappy! down through depths of ruin Thou sinkest!—ah, unhappy they,
Thy lost!—thy living pass to their undoing,
Thy dead have passed away

HECUBA

Woe! On what spot of earth shall I, eld-stricken,
Be thrall, a drone within the hive,
Weak as the corpse that breath no more shall quicken,
Ghost of the once-alive,

To keep with palsied hand a master's portal,
To nurse the babes of some proud foe?—
I, who was crowned with honours half-immortal

As I pace to and fro shall my shuttle thread no loom
In Troy again!
On the corpses of sons must I look my last—my last,
Whom worse ills wait,
To be thrall to the couch of a Greek—ah, ruin blast
That night, that fate!—
Or the water to draw from Peirene's hallowed spring
With bondmaid's hand —
Yet oh might I come unto where was Theseus king,
That heaven-blest land!—
But not to the swirls of Eurotas, not the bower
Of my worst foe,
Even Helen—oh not into Menelaus' power
Who brought Troy low!

(Ant 4)

But the land of Peneius, Olympus' footstool fair,
The hallowed vale— [there
I have heard of the store of its wealth, earth's increase Doth never fail
It is there I would be, if on Theseus' sacred shore
No home waits me
And the land of the Fire-god, that looks from Etna o'er Phoenicia's sea,
Even Sicily, mother of hills,—her fame I hear,
Her prowess-pride —
Or content could I dwell in the land that coucheth near Ionia's tide, [stains
Which is watered of Crathis, the lovely stream that Dark hair bright gold,
Of whose fountains most holy her hero-nursing plains
Win wealth untold

Ye have fallen each to her lord, not all together

HECUBA

Unto whom hath each been allotted?—for whom
Of Troy's dames waiteth a happy doom?

TALTHYBIUS

Now with thy rending nails be thy cheeks furrowed red!
Woe's me, whom the doom of the lots hath led
To be thrall to a foul wretch treacherous-hearted,
To the lawless monster, the foe of the right,
Whose double-tongued juggling, whose cursed sleight
Putteth light for darkness, and darkness for light,
By whose whisperings veriest friends are parted!—
Wail for me, daughters of Troy! I am ended

TALTHYBIUS

Away!—Cassandra hither must ye bring
With all speed, thralls, that to the war-king's hand Delivering her, I may thereafter lead Unto the rest the captive dames assigned
Ha!—therewithin what torch-glare leapeth high?
Fire they their lair?—or what, yon dames of Troy?
As looking to be haled from this land forth
To Argos, do they burn themselves with fire, Being fain to die? In sooth the free-born soul
In such strait chafeth fiercely against ills
Ho! open, lest a deed beseeming these,
But to Achaeans hateful, bring me blame

HECUBA

Now nay, they fire no tent My Maenad child
Cassandra cometh rushing hitherward

Enter CASSANDRA carrying burning torches

CASSANDRA

(Str)

Up with the torch!—give it me—let me render Worship to Phoebus!—lo, lo how I fling
Wide through his temple the flash of its splendour — Hymen! O Marriage-god, Hymen my king!
Happy the bridegroom who waiteth to meet me,
Happy am I for the couch that shall greet me,
Royal espousals to Argos I bring — Bridal-king, Hymen, thy glory I sing

Mother, thou lingerest long at thy weeping, Aye makest moan for my sire who hath died,
Mourn'st our dear country with sorrow unsleeping
Therefore myself for mine own marriage-tide
Kindle the firebrands, a glory outstreaming,
Toss up the torches, a radiance far-gleaming —

Hymen, to thee is their brightness upleaping.
Hekate, flash thou thy star-glitter wide,
After thy wont when a maid is a bride
(Ant)
Float, flying feet of the dancers, forth-leading Revel of bridals ring, bacchanal strain,
Ring in thanksgiving for fortune exceeding Happy, that fell to my father to gain
Holy the dance is, my duty, my glory·
Lead thou it, Phoebus, mid bay-trees before thee
Aye have I ministered, there in thy fane —
Marriage-king, Hymen!—sing loud the refrain

Up, mother, join thou the revel —with paces Woven with mine through the sweet measure flee, Hitherward, thitherward, thrid the dance-mazes
Sing ever "Marriage-king!—Hymen!" sing ye Bliss ever chime through the notes of your singing, Hail ye the bride with glad voices outringing
Daughters of Phrygia, arrayed like the Graces, Hymn ye my bridal, the bridegroom for me
Destined by fate's everlasting decree

CHORUS

Queen, wilt thou not restrain this Maenad maid, Ere speed her flying feet to Argos' host?

HECUBA

Fire-god, in spousal-rites thou light'st the torch,
But O, a piteous flame thou kindlest now,
Far from mine high hopes, far!—ah me, my child,
How little of such marriage dreamed I ever
For thee,—a captive, thrall of Argos' spear!
Give me the torch, it fits not that thou bear it

In Maenad frenzy Thy misfortunes, child,
Healed not thy mind, but still art thou distraught Daughters of Troy, bear in the torches · give Tears in exchange for these her marriage-hymns

CASSANDRA

Mother, with wreaths of triumph crown mine head
Rejoice thou o'er my marriage with a king
Escort me to him . if thou find me loth,
With violence thrust me for, if Loxias lives, Deadlier than Helen's shall my spousals be To Agamemnon, Achaea's glorious king
Death shall I deal him, havoc of his home, Avenging so my brethren and my sire —
No more of that, I will not sing the axe
That on my neck, and others' necks, shall fall,
The mother-murdering strife, my spousals' fruit,
Nor of the overthrow of Atreus' house
But I will prove this city happier
Than yon Achaeans,—yea, possessed am I,
Yet stand herein of bacchant ravings clear,—
Who for one woman, for one wanton's sake,
In quest of Helen wasted lives untold
And this wise chief—for what he hated most He hath lost what most he loved, home-joys of children
To his brother for a woman's sake resigned,—
And she a willing prey, no kidnapped victim!
And, when these came unto Scamander's banks,
Fast died they, not for marches foeman-harried,
Nor home-land stately-towered Who fell in fight Saw not their children, nor by hands of wives
In robes were shrouded but in a strange land
They lie And in their homes the like befell

[1] Paley and Tyrrell for κῦδος Nauck

Wives widowed died, sires linger in lone halls
Without sons, whom for nought they nurtured, none Remain to spill earth's blood-gift at their tombs Sooth, well the host hath earned such praise as this!
Best left untold the deeds of shame—not mine
Be voice of song to chant that evil tale!
But, for the Trojans, first for fatherland
They died—a glorious death! Whom foemen slew,
By friends their corpses to their homes were borne,
And in the home-land earth's arms cradled them
Compassed with duteous hands' observances
And whatso Phrygians not in battle died
Ever with wife and children day by day
Dwelt, joys whereof the Achaeans tasted none
For Hector's woeful fate—hear thou the truth:
He proved himself a hero ere he died,
And this the Achaeans' coming brought to pass:
Had they in Greece stayed, none had seen his prowess
And Paris wedded Zeus' child had he not,
His halls had hailed affiance unrenowned
Sooth, he were best shun war, whoso is wise
If war must be, his country's crown of pride
Is death heroic, craven death her shame
Then make not moan, O mother, for thy land,
Nor for my couch, for my most bitter foes
And thine shall I destroy by mine espousals

CHORUS

How blithely laughest thou at thine own ills,
And bodest things thou scarce shalt show fulfilled!

TALTHYBIUS

Had Phoebus not with frenzy thrilled thy soul,
Thou with such bodings shouldst not unchastised
Speed from thy land my lords, the battle-chiefs
Lo, how these lofty ones, wise in repute,
Are no whit better than the nothing-worth!
For this most mighty king of allied Hellas,
This Atreus' son, hath stooped him 'neath love's yoke
For yon mad girl, of all maids! Poor am I,
Yet would I ne'er have gotten me her couch
Now, seeing thou hast not unshattered wit,
Thy mocks at Argos and thy praise of Phrygia
I fling to the winds to scatter Follow me
Unto the ships, our captain's goodly bride!
But thou (to Hecuba) whenso Laertes' seed desires
To take thee, follow A virtuous woman's thrall[1] Shalt thou be, as say all that came to Troy

CASSANDRA

Keen-witted varlet this! Why such fair name
Have heralds, common loathing of mankind,
Who are but menials of kings and cities?
Say'st thou my mother to Odysseus' halls
Shall come? Where be Apollo's bodings then,
Which say—to me no mystery—that she Shall here die?—other shame I will not speak[2]
Wretch!—he knows not what sufferings wait for him, Such, that my woes and Phrygia's yet shall seem As gold to him Ten years to these past ten Accomplished, shall he reach his land—alone,
Shall see where in the rock-gorge fell Charybdis

Hath made her lair,—where mountain-haunting Cyclops Ravins,—see her that turneth men to swine, Ligurian Circe,—shipwreck in salt seas,—
The lotus-cravings, the Sun's sacred kine,
Whose dead flesh with a human voice shall moan,
A dire voice for Odysseus! To make end,
He shall see Hades living, 'scape the sea,
Yet, when he winneth home, find ills untold
Yet—Odysseus' troubles, wherefore should I loose their javelin-flight?
On, that I may haste to wed my bridegroom, Hades' spousal-plight
Vile one, vile shall be thy burial, darkling, not in light of day, Thou that dream'st of high achievement, chief of Danaus' sons' array!
Yea, and me, flung out a naked corse, the mountain's chasm-rift, a ravin-gift, Foaming with the wintry floods, shall give to beasts,
Hard beside my bridegroom's grave—Apollo's priestess-handmaid me!
Garlands of the God most dear unto me, mystic bravery, Farewell I have left the temple-feasts, my joy in days o'erpast
Hence, in rendings from my body, that, while yet my blood is chaste, lord!
I may give them to the blasts to waft to thee, O Prophet-Where is Agamemnon's galley?—whither go to pass aboard? the sail!
Loiter not from eager watching for the breeze to fill
One of the Avengers Three am I whom thou from Troy shalt hale Fare-thee-well, my mother, weep not,—fatherland, beloved name,—

CHORUS

Grey Hecuba's attendants, mark ye not Your mistress sinking speechless to the earth?
Will ye not help her, heartless ones, but leave Her grey hairs prostrate? Bear ye up her frame

HECUBA

Leave me—false kindness were unkindness, girls,—
So fallen to lie Well may I sink 'neath all
I suffer, and have suffered, and shall suffer
O Gods!—to sorry helpers I appeal,
Yet to invoke the Gods hath some fair show
When child of man on evil fortune lights
Fain am I first to chant mine olden bliss,
So shall I wake more ruth for these my woes
I was a princess wedded to a king,
And mother I became of princely sons,
Nor ciphers these, but Phrygia's mightiest chiefs:
Trojan nor Greek dame, nor barbarian, Might ever boast her mother of such as these Yet these I saw by Hellene spears laid low,
And shore these tresses at my dead sons' graves
Their father Priam—not from other lips
I heard and wept his doom, but these mine eyes
Beheld him butchered on the altar-stone,
Troy sacked, the maiden daughters I had nursed
For pride of princely spousals without peer,
Torn from mine arms—for aliens reared I them!

No hope have I of being seen of them,
No, nor of seeing them for evermore
And last, the topstone of my misery,
Old, and a slave, to Hellas shall I come,
And what tasks for mine eld are most unmeet,
To these will they appoint me, to keep keys,
A portress,—me, who gave to Hector birth!—
Or knead their bread, and couch upon the ground
The wasted form that knew a royal bed,
With tattered rags to clothe my shrunken frame, Vesture unmeet for those once throned in bliss
Woe!—for one lover of one adulteress
What have I borne?—what am I yet to bear?
O child Cassandra, bacchant-fellow of Gods,
Mid what disaster ends thy virgin state!
And thou, ill-starred Polyxena, where art thou?
Nor son nor daughter, none remains to help
The wretched mother, of all born to her
Wherefore then raise me up?—by what hopes cheered?
Guide me,—who once in Troy trod delicately,
Who am a slave now,—to some earth-strown bed,
Some rocky brow, to weep mine heart away,
And hurl me then to death Of all that prosper Account ye no one happy ere he die

CHORUS

O Song-goddess, chant in mine ear (Str 1)

How the Argives' four-foot wain
Brought me ruin with spear and with chain,
When clashed to the sky death's armoury [1]
That they left at our gates for our bane—
That gold-decked thing!
And afar from the rock's sheer crest
A shout did the Troy-folk fling—
"Come, ye that from troubles have now found rest,
And the sacred image bring To the Ilian Maid [2] Zeus bare!"
Who then of the youths but was there?
What hoary head but from home forth sped,
With songs that ruin-snare Encompassing?

Swift streamed they all to the gate, (Ant 1)
The children of Dardanus' line,
With the Argives' gift to propitiate
The Maid supreme of the deathless team [3]
And to Phrygia's curse, to the ambushed fate
That was pent in the mountain-pine,
The coils of the flax have they tied Like a dark ship on did it glide
To the marble-gleam of the fane, with the stream
Of our fatherland's blood to be dyed,
Even Pallas' shrine

Now over their toil and their glee
Spread black night's wings divine;

In that hour to the mountain Maiden, (Epode)
Unto Artemis, Zeus's Daughter, Around mine halls was I singing
In the dance, but a fierce shout murder-laden Thrilled with foreboding of slaughter
Pergamus' homes, and scared babes flying Round the skirts of their mothers their hands were flinging
At that awful outcrying

Then burst forth War from the place of his hiding,
From the lair that Pallas had framed forthspringing, [streaming Troy's altar-pavements with slaughter were
To her couches a ghastly guest came gliding—
A spectre of headless men, Desolation—
To the foster-mother of warriors bringing,
Unto Hellas, a coronal triumph-gleaming,
And a crown of grief to the Phrygian nation ἐμῶν τ' εὐγένεια παίδων

HECUBA

Whither on yon car's height dost thou ride,
O hapless wife, with the arms at thy side
Of Hector, and Phrygian battle-gear,
The spoil of the spear,
Wherewith that son of Achilles shall deck
The shrines of Phthia from Phrygia's wreck?

ANDROMACHE

(Str 2)

Achaeans our masters to bondage are haling me

HECUBA

Woe!

ANDROMACHE

Why dost thou chant my paean of misery—

HECUBA

Alas!—

ANDROMACHE

For my burden of woe,—

HECUBA

O Zeus!—

ANDROMACHE

For the anguish I know? 580

HECUBA

Ah children

ANDROMACHE

No more are we!

For that is naught, in this is space for hope

ANDROMACHE

Mother, O mother, a fairer, truer word
Hear, that I may with solace touch thine heart—
To have been unborn I count as one with death,
But better death than life in bitterness
No pain feels death, which hath no sense of ills·
But who hath prospered, and hath fallen on woe,

Forlorn of soul strays far from olden bliss
Thy child, as though she ne'er had looked on light,
Is dead, and nothing knoweth of her ills
But I, who drew my bow at fair repute,
Won overmeasure, yet fair fortune missed
All virtuous fame that women e'er have found,
This was my quest, my gain, 'neath Hector's roof
First—be the woman smirched with other stain,
Or be she not—this very thing shall bring Ill fame, if one abide not in the home .
So banished I such craving, kept the house Within my bowels I suffered not to come
The tinsel-talk of women, lived content
To be in virtue schooled by mine own heart,
With silent tongue, with quiet eye, still met
My lord knew in what matters I should rule,
And where 'twas meet to yield him victory
Whereof the fame to the Achaean host Reached, for my ruin, for, when I was ta'en, Achilles' son would have me for his wife—
His slave in mine own husband's murderers' halls!
If from mine heart I thrust my love, mine Hector,
And to this new lord ope the doors thereof,
I shall be traitress to the dead but if I loathe this prince, shall win my masters' hate
And yet one night, say they, unknits the knot
Of woman's hate of any husband's couch!
I scorn the wife who flings her sometime lord
Away, and on a new couch loves another!
Not even the steed, from her stall-mate disyoked,
Will with a willing spirit draw the yoke,
Yet speech nor understanding in the brute

Is found, whose nature lags behind the man
Thou, O mine Hector, wast my fitting mate
In birth and wisdom, mighty in wealth and valour
Stainless from my sire's halls thou tookest me,
And first didst yoke with thine my maiden couch
Now hast thou perished sea-borne I shall be,
Spear-won, to Hellas, unto thraldom's yoke
Hath not the doom then of Polyxena,
Whom thou lamentest, lesser ills than mine ?

With all, nor with far vision of good I cheat

Thy wail doth teach me all my depth of woes

HECUBA

Though never yet I stepped aboard a ship,
From pictures seen and hearsay know I this,
That, if there lie a storm not passing great
On mariners, for deliverance all bestir them
This standeth by the helm, that by the sail,
That baleth ship but if the sea's full flood
In turmoil overwhelm them, cowed by fate
To the waves' driving they commit themselves
So I withal, though many a woe is mine,
Am dumb, and I refrain my lips from speech,
For the Gods' misery-surge o'ermastereth me
But, dear my daughter, let be Hector's fate,
Seeing no tears of thine shall ransom him,
But honour him that is to-day thy lord,
Tendering the sweet-lure of thy winsomeness
If this thou do, thy friends shall share thy joy,

He must be hurled from battlements of Troy
Nay, let this be, so wiser shalt thou show,
Nor cling to him, but queenlike bear thy pain,
Nor, being strengthless, dream that thou art strong
For nowhere hast thou help needs must thou mark—
City and lord are gone , thou art held in thrall ,
How can one woman fight against our host ?
Wherefore I would not see thee set on strife,
Nor doing aught should breed thee shame or spite,
Nor on the Achaeans hurling malisons
For, if to wrath thy words shall rouse the host,
This child shall find no burial, no, nor ruth Nay, hold thy peace, and meekly bow to fate ;
So not unburied shalt thou leave his corse,
And kindlier the Achaeans shalt thou find

ANDROMACHE

O darling child, O prized above all price,
Thou must leave thy poor mother, die by foes '
Thy father's heroism ruineth thee,
Which unto others was deliverance
Ill-timed thy father's prowess was for thee '

O bridal mine and union evil-starred,
Whereby I came, time was, to Hector's hall,
Not as to bear a babe for Greeks to slay,
Nay, but a king for Asia's fruitful land!
Child, dost thou weep?—dost comprehend thy doom?
Why with thine hands clutch, clinging to my robe,
Like fledgling fleeing to nestle 'neath my wings?
No Hector, glorious spear in grip, shall rise
From earth, and bringing thee deliverance come,
No kinsman of thy sire, no might of Phrygians,
But, falling from on high with horrible plunge, Unpitied shalt thou dash away thy breath
O tender nursling, sweet to mother, sweet!
O balmy breath!—in vain and all in vain
This breast in swaddling-bands hath nurtured thee
Vainly I travailed and was spent with toils!
Now, and no more for ever, kiss thy mother,
Fling thee on her that bare thee, twine thine arms
About my waist, and lay thy lips to mine
O Greeks who have found out cruelties un-Greek,
Why slay this child who is guiltless wholly of wrong?
O Tyndareus' child, no child of Zeus art thou!
Nay, but of many sires I name thee born
Child of the Haunting Curse, of Envy child,
Of Murder, Death, of all earth-nurtured plagues!
Thee never Zeus begat, I dare avouch,
A curse to many a Greek, barbarians many!
Now ruin seize thee, who by thy bright eyes
Foully hast wasted Phrygia's glorious plains!
Take him—bear hence, and hurl, if hurl ye will,— Then on his flesh feast! For we perish now
By the Gods' doom, and cannot shield one child μελισσοτρόφου Σαλαμῖνος, ὦ βασιλεῦ Τελαμών, νάσου περικύμονος οἰκήσας ἕδραν

From death O hide this wretched body of mine,
Yea, cast into a ship To a bridal fair
Have I attained—I, who have lost my son!

CHORUS

O hapless Troy, who hast lost unnumbered sons
All for one woman's sake, one couch abhorred!

TALTHYBIUS

Come, child, from thy woeful mother's clasp
Break away to the height of the coronal fare
Of thy towers ancestral, for thy last gasp,
As the doom hath decreed, must be rendered there
Lay hold on him —his should such heralding be
Who is made without pity, whose breast doth bear
A spirit more ruthless, that hateth to spare,
More than the spirit that dwelleth in me!

[Exeunt ANDROMACHE, and TALTHYBIUS

HECUBA

O child, O son of mine ill-starred son, Unrighteously reft thy life is gone
From thy mother and me! What life shall I live?
What do for thee, hapless one? All we can give Are smitings of heads, and on breasts blows rained
These only be ours! Woe's me for our town
And for thee! What scathe is of us unattained?
What lack we to hold us from fell destruction's nethermost hell—
From the swift plunge down?

CHORUS

O Telamon, king of the land where the wing of the bee flits aye round Salamis' shore,— (Str 1)
Who didst make thee a home in the isle with the foam of the sea ringed round and the surges' roar,

When the flower of the land from Hellas' strand he led, whose wrath was enkindled sore
For the steeds denied, and he stayed beside fair-rippling Simois' flood the oar Through the paths that had plashed of the sea, and lashed the great stern-hawsers to earth's firm floor, [unerring aye,
And bare from the ship the bow in his grip
A deadly thing to the traitor king, and the walls plummet-levelled of Phoebus in vain
With the fierce red blast of the fire he cast to earth, and he harried the Trojan plain Yea, twice did it fall that the coronal of Dardanus' towers, by spear-strokes twain [lay Shattered and rent, all blood-besprent in ruin

[1] Zeus gave to Laomedon, father of Ganymede, a team of immortal chariot-steeds When the land was wasted by a dragon, the king promised these horses to Hercules, if he would slay it, but afterwards withheld the reward So Hercules sailed against Troy with a Hellene host and destroyed it feet where the chalices shine (Str 2)

All-golden, O Laomedon's heir,
Is the office thine to bim with the wine
The goblets of Zeus, a service fair,—
And the land of thy birth in devouring flame is rolled!
From her brine-dashed beaches a crying is heard,
Where wail her daughters,—as shrieketh the bird
O'er the nest of her brood left cold,—
For their lost lords some, for their children's doom
These, those for their mothers old
Gone are the cool baths dewy-plashing,
And the courses where raced thy feet white-flashing —
But thou, with thy young face glory-litten
With the beauty of peace, by the throne dost stand
Of Zeus,—and the Hellene spear hath smitten Priam's land!

O Love, O Love, who didst brood above Dardanian

Thrilling the hearts of abiders in heaven,
Unto what high place didst thou then upraise
Troy, when to her was affinity given With the Gods by thee!—But the dealings of Zeus shall my tongue
Attaint no more with the breath of blame
But the light of Aurora, the white-winged flame Held dear all mortals among,
With baleful beam did on Troyland gleam,
And her towers saw ruinward flung,

Albeit in bridal bower she cherished
A son of the land in her sight that hath perished,
A spouse whom a chariot of gold star-splendid Ravished from earth, that this land might joy
In hope—nay, all lovingkindness is ended
Of Gods for Troy!

Enter MENELAUS with attendants

MENELAUS

Hail, thou fair-shining splendour of yon sun,
Whereby I shall make capture of my wife
Helen,—for I am he that travailed sore,
I Menelaus, with the Achaean host
Nor so much came I, as men deem, to Troy
For her, but to avenge me on the man,
The traitor guest who stole my wife from me
He by Heaven's help hath paid the penalty,
He and his land, by Hellene spears laid low
I come to hale the accursèd,—loth am I
To name her wife, who in days past was mine,—
For in these mansions of captivity
Numbered she is with others, Trojan dames
For they, by travail of the spear who won,
Gave her to me, to slay, or, an I would,
To slay not, but to take to Argos back
And I was minded to reprieve from doom
Helen in Troy, but with keel-speeding oar
To bear to Greece, to yield her there to death, Avenging all my friends in Ilium slain
On, march to the pavilions, henchmen mine,
Bring her, and by her murder-reeking hair
Hale forth to me then, soon as favouring winds Shall blow, to Hellas will we speed her on

O Earth's Upbearer, thou whose throne is Earth, Whoe'er thou be, O past our finding out,
Zeus, be thou Nature's Law, or Mind of Man,
Thee I invoke, for, treading soundless paths,
To Justice' goal thou bring'st all mortal things!

MENELAUS

How now?—what strange prayer this unto the Gods?

HECUBA

Thanks, Menelaus, if thou slay thy wife! 890
Yet, seeing, beware her soul-enthralling spells
She snareth men's eyes, she destroyeth towns,
She burneth homes, such her enchantments are
I and thou know her—all who have suffered know

Enter HELEN, haled forth by attendants

HELEN

O Menelaus, terror-fraught to me
This prelude is, for by thy servants' hands
Forth of these tents with violence am I haled
But, though well-nigh I know me abhorred of thee, Fain would I ask what the decision is,
Touching my life, of thee and of the Greeks 900

MENELAUS

No nicely-balanced vote—with one accord
Thee the host gave to me, the wronged, to slay

HELEN

May I then plead in answer hereunto,
That, if I die, unjustly I shall die?

MENELAUS

Not for debate, for slaying am I come.

HECUBA

Hear her, that lacking not this boon she die, Menelaus, and to me vouchsafe to plead

Against her Of her evil work in Troy
Nought know'st thou the whole tale, set forth by me, Shall to death doom her, past all hope to escape

MENELAUS

This asks delay. yet, if she fain would speak,
Let her For thy words' sake I grant her this,
But not for her sake, let her be assured

HELEN

Perchance, or speak I well, or speak I ill,
Thou wilt not answer, counting me a foe
Yet will I meet such charges as I deem,
If thou wouldst reason with me, thou wouldst bring,
And will confront with thine indictment mine
First, she brought forth the source of all these ills,
Who brought forth Paris then, both Troy and me
The old king ruined, slaying not the babe
Alexander, baleful semblance of a torch
Thereafter, how befell the sequel, hear —
Judge he became of those three Goddesses
This guerdon Pallas offered unto him—
"Troy's hosts to vanquish Hellas shalt thou lead" Lordship o'er Asia, and o'er Europe's bounds,
If Paris judged her fairest, Hera proffered Cypris, with rapturous praising of my beauty, Cried, "Thine she shall be if I stand preferred
As fairest" Mark what followeth therefrom — Cypris prevails this boon my bridal brought To Greece—ye are not to foreign foes enthralled, Nor battle-crushed, nor 'neath a despot bowed
But I by Hellas' good-hap was undone,
Sold for my beauty, and I am reproached
For that for which I should have earned a crown!

But, thou wilt say, I shun the issue still—
For what cause I by stealth forsook thine home
He came, with no mean Goddess at his side,
This Hecuba's Evil Genius,—be his name
Paris or Alexander, which thou wilt,— Whom, wittol thou, thou leftest in thine halls, Sailing from Sparta to the Cretan land!
Not thee, but mine own heart, I question next—
What impulse stirred me from thine halls to follow
That guest, forsaking father-land and home?
That Goddess Punish her!—be mightier Than Zeus, who ruleth all the Gods beside,
Yet is her slave!—so, pardon is my due
But,—since thou mightest here find specious plea,—
When Alexander dead to Hades passed,
I, of whose couch the Gods were careless now,
Ought from his halls to have fled to the Argive ships
Even this did I essay my witnesses
Gate-wardens are, and watchmen of the walls,
Who found me ofttimes from the battlements
By cords to earth down-climbing privily
Yea, my new lord—yon corpse Deiphobus,— Kept in the Phrygians' despite his bride
How then, O husband, should I justly die
By thine hand, since by force he wedded me,
And my life there no victor's triumph was,
But bitter thrall? If thou wouldst overbear Gods, this thy wish is folly unto thee

CHORUS

Stand up for children and for country, Queen!
Shatter her specious pleading; for her words

Ring fair—a wanton's words, foul shame is this

HECUBA

First, champion will I be of Goddesses,
And will convict her of a slanderous tongue
Never, I ween, would Hera, or the Maid,
Pallas, have stooped unto such folly's depth,
That Hera would to aliens Argos sell,
Or Pallas bow 'neath Phrygians Athens' neck
For sport they came and mirth in beauty's strife
To Ida Why should Goddess Hera yearn
So hotly for the prize of loveliness?
That she might win a mightier lord than Zeus?
Or sought Athena mid the Gods a spouse,
Who of her sire, for hate of marriage, craved Maidenhood? Charge not Goddesses with folly,
To gloze thy sin thou cozenest not the wise
And Cypris, say'st thou—who but laughs to hear?—
Came with my son to Menelaus' halls!
How? could she not in peace have stayed in heaven,
And thee—Amyclae too—to Ilium brought?
Nay, my son's peerless beauty didst thou see,
And thine own lust was made thy Cyprian Queen!
Ever men's folly is their Aphrodite
Sensual—senseless—consonant they ring!
Him in barbaric bravery sawest thou
Gold-glittering, and thy senses were distraught
For with scant state in Argos didst thou dwell,
But, Sparta left afar, the Phrygians' town,
That seemed a river of gold, thou thought'st to flood
With torrent waste Menelaus' halls sufficed
Not thee for all thine insolence of pomp
And my son, say'st thou, haled thee thence by force!

What son of Sparta heard? What rescue-cry
Didst thou upraise, though Castor, yet a youth, Lived, and his brother, starward rapt not yet?
And when to Troy thou cam'st, and on thy track
The Argives, and the strife of raining spears,
If tidings of his prowess came to thee,
Menelaus wouldst thou praise, to vex my son Who in his love such mighty rival had But, if the Trojans prospered, naught was he Still watching fortune's flight, 'twas aye thy wont
To follow her—not virtue's path for thee!
And thou forsooth wouldst steal thy liberty,
By cords let down from towers, as loth to stay!
Where wast thou found with noose about thy neck,
Or whetting steel, as a true-hearted wife
Had done for yearning for her spouse of old?
Yet many a time and oft I counselled thee —
"Daughter, go forth from Troy. my sons shall wed
New brides, and thee to the Achaean ships
Will I send secretly so stay the war
'Twixt Greece and us" But this was gall to thee
For thou didst flaunt in Alexander's halls, Didst covet Asia's reverent courtesies—
Proud state for thee! And yet hast thou come forth Costly arrayed, looked on the selfsame sky
As thy wronged spouse O wanton all-abhorred,
Who oughtest, abject, and with garments rent,
Quaking with fear, with shaven head to have come,
Having regard to modesty, above
Bold shamelessness, for thy transgressions past!
Menelaus,—so to sum my mine argument,— Crown Greece, by slaying, as beseemeth thee, σαυτοῦ, νόμον δὲ τόνδε ταῖς ἄλλαισι θὲς

CHORUS

So then thy temple in Troy fair-gleaming, (Str 1)
And thine altar of incense heavenward steaming
Hast thou rendered up to our foes Achaean,
O Zeus, and the flame of our sacrificing,
And the holy burg with its myrrh-smoke rising,
And the ivy-mantled glens Idaean
Overstreamed with the wan snow riverward-rushing,
And the haunted bowers of the World's Wall,[1] flushing
With the first shafts flashed through the empyrean
(Ant 1)
Thine altars are cold, and the blithesome calling
Of the dancers is hushed, nor at twilight's falling
To the nightlong vigils of Gods cometh waking
They are vanished, thy carven images golden,
And the twelve moon-feasts of the Phrygians holden Dost thou care, O King, I muse, heart-aching,— Thou who sittest on high in the far blue heaven
Enthroned,—that my city to ruin is given,
That the bands of her strength is the fire-blast breaking?

Unwashen!—but me shall the keel thro' the brine
Waft, onward sped by its pinions of pine,
To the horse-land Argos, where that stone wonder
Of Cyclop walls cleaves clouds asunder
And our babes at the gates, in a long, long line, Cling to their mothers with wail and with weeping that cannot avail— [the Achaeans hale
"O mother," they moan, "alone, alone, woe's me!
Me from thy sight—from thine—

Nevermore may he come to Laconia, home of his sires, be his hearth aye cold!
Never Pitane's streets may he tread,
Nor the Goddess's temple brazen-gated,
With the evil-fated
For his prize, who for shame
Unto all wide Hellas' sons and daughters,
And for woe to the waters
Of Simois, came!

TALTHYBIUS

One galley's oars yet linger, Hecuba,
Ready to waft unto the Phthian shores
The remnant of the spoil of Achilles' son
But Neoptolemus' self hath sailed, who heard Tidings of wrong to Peleus, how the seed
Of Pelias, even Acastus, exiles him
Wherefore, too hasty to vouchsafe delay,
He went, Andromache with him, who hath drawn
At her departing many a tear from me,
Wailing her country, crying her farewell
To Hector's tomb And she besought the prince
To grant his corpse a grave who from the walls Hurled down, thine Hector's child, gave up the ghost.
And the Achaeans' dread, this brass-lapped shield,
Wherewith his father fenced his body round,
She prayed him not to Peleus' hearth to bear,
Nor to Andromache's new bridal bower,
A grief to see for her that bare the dead,
But that, instead of cedar chest or stone,
This might entomb her child, unto thine arms
Given, that thou mightst shroud the corpse, and crown
With wreaths, as best thou canst of these thy means,
Since she hath gone, and since her master's haste
Withheld herself from burying her child

I therefore, when thou hast arrayed the corpse,
Will heap his mound, and set thereon a spear
Thou then with speed perform the task assigned Sooth, I have lightened of one toil thine hands,
For, as I passed o'er yon Scamander's streams,
I bathed the corpse, and cleansed the wounds thereof
Now will I go, and dig for him a grave,
That, shortened so, thy work and mine withal,
To one end wrought, may homeward speed the oar

HECUBA

Set Hector's shield fair-rounded on the earth,
A woeful sight unsweet for me to see
O ye who more in spears than wisdom boast,
Fearing this child, Achaeans, why have ye wrought Murder unheard-of?—lest he raise again [naught
Our fallen Troy? How? was your strength but When we died daily, even while Hector's spear Triumphed, and while beside him thousands fought,
But now, Troy taken, all the Phrygians slain,
Ye dread this little child? Out on the fear
Which feareth, having never reasoned why!
Ah darling, what ill death is come on thee! [known Hadst thou for Troy been slain, when thou hadst Youth, wedlock's bliss, and godlike sovereignty, Blest wert thou—if herein may aught be blest
But now, once seen and sipped by thy child-soul, Thine home-bliss fleets forgotten, unenjoyed!
Poor child, how sadly thine ancestral walls,
Upreared by Loxias, from thine head have shorn
The curls that oft thy mother softly smoothed
And kissed, wherefrom through shattered bones forth grins Murder—a ghastliness I cannot speak!

[1] So the MSS Nauck reads πόνοι Tyrrell ἄϋπνοί τε κλῖναι. Paley suggests ὕπνοι τ' ἄϋπνοι

O hands, how sweet the likeness to your sire
Ye keep!—limp in your sockets now ye lie
Dear lips, that babbled many a child-boast once, Ye are dead! 'Twas false, when, bounding to my bed,
"Mother," thou saidst, "full many a curl I'll shear
For thee, and troops of friends unto thy tomb
Will lead, to cry the loving last farewell"
Not I of thee, but thou, the young, of me,— Old, homeless, childless,—wretched corpse, art buried
Ah me, the kisses, and my nursing-cares, Thy love-watched slumbers,—gone! What word, ah what, Shall bard inscribe of thee upon thy tomb?
"This child the Argives murdered in time past, Dreading him"—an inscription shaming Greece!
Yet thou, of thy sire's wealth though nought thou hast,
Shalt in thy burial have his brazen targe
Ah shield that keptest Hector's goodly arm
Safe, thine heroic warder hast thou lost!
How dear his imprint on thine handle lies
Dear stains of sweat upon thy shapely rim,
Which oft mid battle's toil would Hector drip Down from his brow, as to his beard he pressed thee!
Come, bring ye adorning for the hapless corse
Of that ye have: our fortune gives no place
For rich array mine all shalt thou receive
A fool is he, who, in prosperity
Secure, rejoices fortune, in her moods,
Like some wild maniac, hither now, now thither,
Leaps, and none prospers ever without change

Splendour of Phrygian robes, I swathe thee now
And thou, who wast the glorious mother once
Of countless triumphs, Hector's shield beloved,
Receive thy wreath thou with the dead shalt die
Undying, worthy of honour, far beyond
The arms Odysseus, crafty villain, won

We had faded fameless, never had been hymned
In lays, nor given song-themes to the after-time
Pass on, lay ye in a wretched tomb the corpse,
For now it hath the garlands, dues of death
Yet little profit have the dead, I trow,
That gain magnificence of obsequies
'Tis but the living friends' vaingloriousness

HELEN

ARGUMENT

It is told that one of the old bards, named Stesichorus, who lived six generations before Euripides, did in a certain poem revile Helen, for that her sin was the cause of misery to Hellas and to Troy Thereupon was he struck blind for railing on her who had after death become a goddess But the man repented of his presumption, and made a new song wherein he unsaid all the evil he had sung of Queen Helen, and wove into his lay an ancient legend, telling how that not she, but her wraith only, had passed to Troy, while she was borne by the Gods to the land of Egypt, and there remained until the day when her lord, turning aside on the homeward voyage, should find her there

When he had done this, his sight was straightway restored to him

In this play is Helen's story told according to the "Recantation of Stesichorus"

HELEN

THESE be the Nile's fair-flowing virgin-streams,
Who, fed with white snow melting, not with rain
From heaven, waters Egypt's lowland fields
Lord of this land was Proteus, while he lived, Dweller in Pharos' isle, and Egypt's king,
Who of the Maids sea-haunting wedded one,
Psamathe, widowed wife of Aeacus.
And to this house she brought forth children twain,
A son, Theoclymenus,—for that honouring
The Gods his father lived,—a noble daughter,
Named Eido, "mother's pride," while yet a babe,
But, since she grew to bloom of spousal-tide, Theonoe[1] they called her, for she knew Heaven's will for things that are and things to be,
Inheriting from her grandsire Nereus this
For me, not fameless is my fatherland

And, fleeing from a chasing eagle, wrought

By guile his pleasure,—if the tale be true
Helen my name, and these my sufferings
In strife for beauty came three Goddesses
To Paris in a deep Idaean dell—
Hera, and Cypris, and Zeus' child, the Maid, Fain to bring beauty's judgment unto issue
And Cypris tempting Paris—he should wed
My fairness, if misfortune can be fair,— Prevailed: Idaean Paris left the herds,
And for his bride, for me, to Sparta came

But Hera, wroth that she should not prevail,
Turned into air Alexander's joy of me,
Gave him not me, but fashioned like to me
A breathing phantom, out of cloudland wrought,
For Priam's princely son: he deemed me his,
Who was not, a vain phantasy Withal
Zeus' counsels to these evils added more,
For war he brought upon the Hellenes' land
And hapless Phrygians, to disburden so
Earth-mother of her straitened throngs of men,
And to make Hellas' mightiest son renowned
I lay 'twixt Phrygians' prowess—yet not I,
My name alone—and Hellene spears, the prize

Me Hermes caught away in folds of air,
And veiled in cloud,—for Zeus forgat me not,—
And in these halls of Proteus set me down,
Of all men holding him most continent,
That I might keep me pure for Menelaus
So am I here mine hapless lord the while Gathered a host, set forth for Ilium's towers, Questing the track of me his ravished bride
And many a life beside Scamander's streams

When the might of Pan is prevailing,
And the gorges where cataracts stream

HELEN

Ah, who of the Phrygians dared that felling (Str 3)
Of the pines, for the mourning of Ilium fated,
And for tears unto them that in Hellas were dwelling,
Of whose beams was the galley, with evil freighted,
Builded of Priam's offspring, the hated,
Whom oars barbaric sped over the tide,
Till he came to the hearth of my Spartan palace
In quest of my beauty, foredoomed the occasion
Of mischief beside him in treacherous malice
Came Cypris, the bringer of death's desolation Unto Danaus' sons, unto Priam's nation
Woe's me for my lot, who am misery's bride

(Ant 3)
From the gold of the throne of her glory bending, Dread Hera, Zeus' bride jealousy-glowing,
Sped the fleetfoot scion of Maia descending,
Who came on me plucking the roses, and throwing Into my gown-lap their buds fresh-blowing,
To bear to the Brazen Fane their pride
And he soared with his prey through the clouds of heaven,
And to this land all unblest he brought her,
And he made her a strife, for calamity striven,
For Hellas, of Priam's people who sought her
But Helen, by Simois' crimsoned water,
Was a breath, was a battle-cry—nought beside.

HELEN

Friends, 'neath the yoke of what doom am I bowed?
Bore not my mother a portent unto men?
For never Hellene nor barbarian dame
Brought forth white vial of a fledgling brood,[1]
Wherein to Zeus men say that Leda bare me
A portent are my life and all my fortunes,
In part through Hera, through my beauty in part
Oh could I, like a picture blotted out,
Have changed that beauty for uncomeliness!
Oh might the Greeks forget the lot accurst
That now is mine, and treasure memories
Of honour touching me, as now of shame!
Whoso, on one chance centring all his hopes,
Is stricken of God, hard though it be, may bear it,
But I—I am whelmed in many miseries
First, an ill name, though I am clean of sin,
And worse is this than suffering for just cause,
To bear the burden of sins that are not ours
Then, from my homeland the Gods banished me
To alien customs, and, bereft of friends,
A slave am I, the daughter of free sires,
For midst barbarians slaves are all save one
And—the one anchor that stayed up my fortunes,
That yet my lord would come, and end my woes—
He hath died who was mine anchor is no more Dead is my mother, and her murderer I,— Innocently, yet cleaves the wrong to me
And she, erewhile mine house's pride and mine,
My child, is growing grey, a spouseless maid,

For whom to Ilium Menelaus went For, if mine husband lived, by tokens known To none beside, might recognition be
This cannot now be no, he cannot 'scape
Why then do I live on?—what fortune waits me?
Shall I choose marriage for escape from ills,
Dwell with a lord barbarian, at his board
Seated mid pomp? Nay, if a husband loathed Dwell with a woman, her own self she loathes
To die were best How then with honour die?

HELEN

(Ant)
To what doom hath mine husband been given?
Doth he yet see the light of the day,
See the Sun's wheels flash through the heaven,
See the gleams of the star-trodden way?

Or to him have the dead done obeisance?
Doth the nether gloom hide?

CHORUS

Nay, look for a fate of fair presence,
Whatsoe'er shall betide

That my lord on the earth is no more seen,—

CHORUS

Wild words and whirling—ah, what should they mean?

HELEN

The death-dealing cord
Round my neck will I twine,
Or the thirst of the sword
In this heart's blood of mine
Shall be quenched, through the flesh of my neck as I Plunge it to life's deep shrine,
For a sacrifice to the Goddesses three,
And to Paris, whose pipe's wild melody
Floated afar over Ida, and round still steadings of kine

CHORUS

Far hence averted may mischief flee,
And fortune fair abide upon thee!

HELEN

Woe, hapless Troy, for thee, woe!
Thou hast perished for sins not thine own, under misery's load brought low!
And the gifts of Cypris to me for then fruit have borne Rivers of blood and of tears, and to them that mourn
Anguish is added, and grief to the grief-forlorn
There are mothers for dead sons weeping,
There are maids that have cast shorn hair
Where seaward Scamander on-sweeping
The limbs of their brothers bare.
And from Hellas a cry, a cry,
Ringeth heavenward wild and high,
And with frenzied hands on her head
She smiteth her fingers are red
From the cheeks that the blood-furrows dye

[2] The reference to the legend of Pelops being served up to the Gods at a feast by Tantalus requires some such word as σφαγείς

Ah, maiden of Arcady, happy, Callisto,[1] art thou,
O fourfoot-pacing thing who wast Zeus' bride,
Better by far than my mother's is thy lot now,
Who hast cast the burden of human sorrow aside,
And only now for the shaggy limb
Of the brute with tears are thy fierce eyes dim.
Yea, happier she whom Artemis drave from her choir,
A stag gold-antlered, Merops' Titanian daughter,
Because of her beauty, but mine with the brands of desire Hath enkindled Dardanian Pergamus' ruin-pyre,
And hath given the Achaeans to slaughter

MENELAUS

Ah, Pelops, thou at Pisa victor once
Over Oenomaus in chariot-strife,
Oh that, what time thou mad'st the Gods a feast,
Thou hadst left in presence of the Gods thy life,
Ere thou begattest Atreus, sire to me,
Him to whom Aerope bare Agamemnon,
And me, Menelaus, chariot-team renowned
The mightiest host on earth—no mere vaunt this—Did I speed overseas to Troy, their chief;
Nor by compulsion captained them to war,
But led with Hellas' heroes' glad consent
Some must we count mid them that are no more;
Gladly have other some escaped the sea,
And bring back home the names of men deemed dead.
But I far o'er the grey sea's shoreless surge

Wander in pain, long as the leaguer-years
Of Troy, and though I yearn to reach my land,
Of this I am not held worthy by the Gods,
But to all Libya's beaches lone and wild
Have sailed yea, whenso I am nigh my land,
Back the blast drives me; never following breeze
Hath swelled my sail to waft me to mine home
And now, a shipwrecked wretch, my comrades lost,
On this land am I cast against the rocks
My ship is shattered all in countless shards
Wrenched from its cunning fastenings was the keel, Whereon past hope and hardly was I saved
With Helen, whom I had snatched from Ilium's wreck
But this land's name, and who her people be,
I know not, being abashed to yonder throngs
To join me, there to ask: in mine ill plight
I hide for shame my misery, for a man
Low-fallen from high estate more sharply feels
The strangeness of it than the long unblest Want wasteth me, for neither food have I Nor raiment for my body,—judge by these That gird me, rags washed shoreward from the ship
The robes once mine, bright vest and bravery,
The sea hath swallowed In a cave's deep cleft
My wife I hid, first cause of all my woes,
And hither come, for I have straitly charged
My friends yet living to watch over her Alone I come, seeking for loved ones there
What shall avail their need, if search may find
And, marking yonder mansion battlement-girt,
And stately portals of a prosperous man,
I drew nigh from a wealthy house is hope

Away, stand not before the courtyard gate
Troubling my lords, else shalt thou die, who art

Even so—I will obey—refrain thy wrath—

MENELAUS

How say'st thou?—what thy tale?—speak yet again

PORTRESS

Tyndarus' child, who erst in Sparta dwelt

MENELAUS

Whence did she come? What may this matter mean?

PORTRESS

From Lacedaemon hither journeyed she

MENELAUS

When? (aside) Never stolen from the cave—my wife!

PORTRESS

But thou, begone · somewhat hath chanced within

Of imminent ills hard-following on the old,
If I have brought the wife I won from Troy
Hither, and safe within the cave she lies,
Yet in these halls another woman dwells
Who bears the selfsame name as mine own wife
Yon woman named her born of Zeus, his daughter

Can any man that bears this name of Zeus
By Nile's banks dwell? One is there, he in heaven
And where hath earth a Sparta, save alone
There where Eurotas' streams are fair with reeds?
Do two men bear the name of Tyndarus?
Is there a land twin-named with Lacedaemon
Or Troy? I know not what to say hereof
For on the wide earth many, as men grant,
Bear like names, city bearing city's name,
And woman woman's marvel none is here
Nor from a handmaid's terrors will I flee,
For there is none so barbarous of soul
As to deny me food, my name once heard
Famed is Troy's burning I who kindled it, Menelaus, am renowned in every land
I will await the king, and for two things
Must I take heed —if he be ruthless-souled,
Then will I flee, and hide me by the wreck,
But if he show relenting, I will ask
Help for my need in this mine evil plight
This in my misery is the deepest depth,
That I, who am a king, should beg my bread
Of other princes yet it needs must be Not mine the saying is, but wisdom's saw—
"Stronger is nought than dread Necessity"

HELEN

Lo, to my session at the tomb again
I come, who have heard Theonoe's glad words,
Who knoweth all things truly. Yet alive,
Saith she, my lord beholds the light of day,
But roameth sailing sea-tracks numberless Hither and thither, and with wanderings spent Shall come, when he hath reached his sufferings' goal,— Yet said not if at last he shall escape,
For I refrained from closely questioning this
For gladness, when she spake him yet alive
And somewhere nigh this land is he, she said,
From shipwreck cast ashore with friends but few.
When wilt thou come to me?—how long-desired!

MENELAUS advances from back of stage

Ha! who is this?—and am I haply snared
By plots of Proteus' god-contemning son?
Swift as a racing steed or bacchanal
Shall I not seek yon tomb? Of ruffian mien

Yet wild attire about thy form thou hast

MENELAUS

Put fears away, and stay thy hurrying foot!

HELEN (grasping the altar)

I stay it, now that to this tomb I cling

MENELAUS

Who art thou, lady? Whose the face I see?

HELEN

Who thou? The selfsame cause have I to ask

MENELAUS

Never yet saw I form more like to hers!

HELEN

Gods!—for God moves in recognition of friends

MENELAUS

A Greek art thou, or daughter of the land?

HELEN

A Greek, thy nation too I fain would learn

MENELAUS

Thou art very Helen, lady, to mine eyes

HELEN

And thou Menelaus!—I know not what to say

HELEN (clasping him)

O thou to thy wife's arms returned at last!

MENELAUS

Wife?—thou my wife! Touch not my vesture thou!

HELEN

Wife—whom my father Tyndarus gave to thee

MENELAUS

Light-bearer Hecate, send gracious visions![1]

HELEN

No phantom handmaid I of the Highway Queen

MENELAUS

I am but one—no lord of two wives, I!

HELEN

And of what wife beside me art thou lord?

MENELAUS

Whom the cave hides, whom I from Phrygia brought

HELEN

None other wife is thine save only me

MENELAUS

What, is my wit sound, but mine eye diseased?

HELEN

Behold me—feel'st thou not thou seest thy wife?

MENELAUS

The form is hers, but plain truth bars the claim

HELEN

Look!—what more clear assurance needest thou?

MENELAUS

Like her thou art this will I not deny

Who then shall better teach thee than thine eyes?

MENELAUS

At this I stumble, another wife I have

HELEN

To Troy I went not that a phantom was

MENELAUS

But who can fashion living phantom-forms?

HELEN

Aether, whereof thou hast a wife god-shapen

MENELAUS

Shapen of what God? Passing strange thy tale!

HELEN

Hera, to baffle Paris with my wraith

MENELAUS

How wast thou here then, and in Troy withal?

HELEN

My name might be in many lands, not I

MENELAUS

Unhand me!—hither I came with griefs enough!

HELEN

How?—leave me, and lead hence thy phantom-bride?

MENELAUS

Yea—since thou art like to Helen, fare thee well

HELEN

Undone!—I have found my spouse, and may not keep!

Enter MESSENGER

MESSENGER

Menelaus, at last I find thee, searching long,
Through all this land barbaric wandering,
Being sent of those thy comrades left behind—

MENELAUS

How?—by barbarian robbers are ye spoiled?

MESSENGER

Bearing a tale less marvellous than the truth!

MENELAUS

Speak!—by this eagerness, thou bring'st strange news

MESSENGER

I say thou barest toils untold for nought

MENELAUS

Herein thou mourn'st old woes what news dost bring?

MESSENGER

Gone is thy wife—into the folds of air
Wafted and vanished! Hid in heaven's depths,
The hallowed cave wherein we warded her
She hath left, with this cry, "Hapless Phrygian folk,
And all Achaeans, who by Hera's wiles
Upon Scamander's banks still died for me, Deeming that Paris had, who had not, Helen!
I, having tarried all the time foredoomed,
My destiny fulfilled, to heaven return,
My parent Tyndarus' sad daughter bears
An ill name all for nought, who is innocent"

He suddenly perceives HELEN

Hail, child of Leda! So then thou wast here!
Even now I announced thee passed to viewless heights
Of star-land, knowing not thou bar'st a form
Wing-clad Thou shalt not mock us with a tale Again of troubles heaped upon thy lord
And his allies, for nought, in Ilium

MENELAUS

This is it that she said —this woman's words
Agree—they are true! O day, long, long desired,
Which giveth thee into mine arms to clasp!

HELEN

O Menelaus, best beloved, the time
Was long, but even now the joy is here!
Friends, friends, with rapture my lord have I found,
And with arms of love have I clasped him round,
And the goal of the sun's long race is with brightness crowned!

MENELAUS

And I thee the long tale of all these years,
Where to begin it first I know not now

HELEN

I exult—yea, my tingling tresses uprise
On mine head, and the tears well forth from mine eyes,
And about thy body mine arms I fling,
O husband mine, to my joy to cling!

MENELAUS

O sweetest presence thou!—no more I chide
I clasp Zeus' child and Leda's, clasp my bride,
Her to whose happy bridal, tossing flame
Of torch, thy brethren of the white steeds came Erstwhile, and Gods removed her from mine home
But now God speeds us on to newer, happier doom

HELEN

And the evil made good hath united us, though it be late, [new fate!
Yet may blessing be on me, mine husband, in this

MENELAUS

Blessing on thee! I pray the selfsame prayer,
For grief and joy the twain made one must share.

Friends, friends, for the ills gone by
I sorrow no more nor sigh
My beloved is mine, is mine! Through year on year
I have waited, have waited my lord, till from Troy he appear

MENELAUS

Thine am I and thou mine O weary while
Of sore strife, ere I knew the Goddess' guile!
Yet have my tears, through rapture of relief,
More thankfulness than grief

HELEN

What can I say?—what mortal had looked for this?
I am clasping thee unto my breast, an undreamed-of bliss!

MENELAUS

And I thee, who to Ida's town, men thought, Wentest, and Ilium's towers misery-fraught

HELEN

Woe's me! to the bitter beginning of all dost thou go!

MENELAUS

'Fore heaven, how wast thou ravished from mine home?

HELEN

Woe's me for the bitter tale that thou seekest to know!

MENELAUS

Tell, I must hear From God's hand all things come

HELEN

Yet oh, I abhor to unfold it, the story of woe.

MENELAUS

Yet tell: woes overpast are sweet to hear

HELEN

Never to alien prince's bed
Wafted by wings of the oars I fled,
Nor by wings of a lawless love on-sped.

HELEN

Zeus' Son, O mine husband, 'twas Zeus' Son caught Me away, it was Hermes to Nile that brought

MENELAUS

Ah strange! Who sent him? Ah, the awesome tale!

HELEN

I wept, and the tears from mine eyes yet run·
By the bride of Zeus was I then undone

MENELAUS

Hera?—What would she, heaping on us bale?

HELEN

Woe for my curse—for the baths from the hill-springs flowing Where flushed the Goddesses' loveliness lovelier-glowing, Whereof that Judgment came for a land's overthrowing!

MENELAUS

Did Hera turn this judgment to thy bane?

HELEN

From Cypris to take the prey,—

MENELAUS

Say on, tell how

HELEN

MENELAUS

What is this thou wouldst tell me?

HELEN

No mother have I! She knit up her neck for shame
In the strangling noose, for my bridal of evil fame!

MENELAUS

Woe's me! Our child Hermione, liveth she?

HELEN

Spouseless and childless, she maketh moan,
My lord, for my marriage that marriage was none.

MENELAUS

O thou who ruinedst mine house utterly,
Ruin for thee too, Paris, this was made,
Ruin for hosts of Danaans brass-arrayed

HELEN

And me from my country, my city, from thee, God took, Casting me forth accurst to an evil lot, [I forsook—
For that husband and home for a marriage of shame
Who forsook them not!

MENELAUS

Not she, but by the Gods was I beguiled,
Who grasped a sorry cloud-wraith in mine arms.

MESSENGER

How say'st thou?
For a cloud then all vainly did we strive?

MENELAUS

This Hera wrought, and those three Goddesses' strife

MESSENGER

Is this, who is very woman, this thy wife?

MENELAUS

Even she trust thou my word as touching this

MESSENGER

Daughter, how manifold God's counsels are,
His ways past finding out! Lightly he turns
And sways us to and fro sore travaileth one;
One long unvexed is wretchedly destroyed,
Having no surety still of each day's lot
Thou and thy lord in sorrow have had your part,
In ill-fame thou, in fury of battle he Then, all his striving nought availed, but now Effortless he hath won the crown of bliss
Thy grey sire, then, and those Twin-brethren ne'er Thou shamedst, nor the deeds far-told hast done!
Now I recall afresh thy spousal-tide,
And how I waved the torch, in four-horsed car Racing beside thee, and thou, chariot-borne
With him, a bride, didst leave thine happy home.
He is base, who recks not of his master's weal,
Rejoicing with him, sorrowing in his pain
Still may I be, though I be bondman born,
Numbered among bondservants noble-souled;

So may I have, if not the name of free,
The heart for better this is than to bear
On my one head two ills—to nurse base thoughts
Within, and do in bondage others' hests

MENELAUS

Come, ancient, oftimes toiling at my side
Hast thou achieved the travail of the shield,
And now, partaker in my happy lot,
Go, tidings to our friends left yonder bear
In what plight thou hast found us, and our bliss
Bid them await, abiding by the strand,
The issue of strife that waits me, as I deem,
Bid them, if we by stealth may take her hence,
To watch, that we, in one good fortune joined,
May 'scape from these barbarians, if we may

MESSENGER

This will I do, king But the lore of seers,
How vain it is I see, how full of lies
Utterly naught then were the altar-flames,
The voices of winged things! Sheer folly this Even to dream that birds may help mankind
Calchas told not, nor gave sign to the host,
Yet saw, when for a cloud's sake died his friends:
Nor Helenus told, but Troy for nought was stormed!
"Yea, for the God forbade," thou mightest say Why seek we then to seers? With sacrifice
To Gods, ask blessings let soothsayings be.
They were but as a bait for greed devised.
No sluggard getteth wealth through divination
Sound wit, with prudence, is the seer of seers

CHORUS

My mind as touching seers is even at one τὰ Ναυπλίου τ' Εὐβοϊκὰ πυρπολήματα Κρήτην τε Λιβύης θ' ἃς ἐπεστράφην πόλεις, σκοπιάς τε Περσέως, οὔτ' ἂν ἐμπλήσαιμί σε μύθῳ, λέγων τ' ἄν σοι κάκ' ἀλγοίην ἔτι, πάσχων τ' ἔκαμνον· δὶς δὲ λυπηθεῖμεν ἄν.

ΕΛΕΝΗ

κάλλιον εἶπας ἢ σ' ἀνηρόμην ἐγώ.
ἓν δ' εἰπὲ πάντα παραλιπών, πόσον χρόνον πόντου 'πὶ νώτοις ἅλιον ἐφθείρου πλάνον

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

ἐνιαυσίων πρὸς τοῖσιν ἐν Τροίᾳ δέκα ἔτεσι διῆλθον ἑπτὰ περιδρομὰς ἐτῶν.

ΕΛΕΝΗ

φεῦ φεῦ μακρόν γ' ἔλεξας, ὦ τάλας, χρόνον.
σωθεὶς δ' ἐκεῖθεν ἐνθάδ' ἦλθες εἰς σφαγάς.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

πῶς φής; τί λέξεις, ὥς μ' ἀπώλεσας, γύναι.

ΕΛΕΝΗ

θανεῖ πρὸς ἀνδρὸς οὗ τάδ' ἐστὶ δώματα.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

τί χρῆμα δράσας ἄξιον τῆς συμφορᾶς,

[1] The ordinary l 780 (φεῦγ' ὡς τάχιστα τῆσδ' ἀπαλλαχθεὶς χθονός) is omitted

With yonder ancient Who hath Gods for friends Hath the best divination in his home

HELEN

Enough unto this present all is well
But, toil-tried, how thou camest safe from Troy,
To know were profitless; yet friends must needs
Yearn to be told the afflictions of their friends

MENELAUS

One question—of one voyage—thou askest much!
Why tell of those in the Aegean lost,
Of Nauplius' false lights on Euboea's cliffs,
Of Crete, of Libyan cities visited,
Of Perseus' heights? I should not with the tale Sate thee, and telling should renew my pain,— Toil-worn with suffering, should but grieve twice o'er

HELEN

Wiser thine answer than my questioning is.
Yet—let the rest pass—tell but this, how long O'er the sea-ridges vainly wanderedst thou

MENELAUS

Through courses seven of circling years I passed, Besides those ten years in the land of Troy

HELEN

Alas, toil-tried, thou nam'st a weary space!
Yet, thence escaped, thou meetest murder here.

MENELAUS

How mean'st thou?—what say'st thou?—thy words are death!

HELEN

Thou shalt be slain by him whose are these halls

MENELAUS

What have I done that merriteth such doom?

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ἥκεις ἄελπτος ἐμποδών τ' ἐμοῖς γάμοις

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

ἦ γὰρ γαμεῖν τις τἄμ' ἐβουλήθη λέχη , ὕβριν θ' ὑβρίζειν εἰς ἔμ' ἦν ἔτλην ἐγώ.

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

ἰδίᾳ σθένων τις ἢ τυραννεύων χθονός ;

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ὃς γῆς ἀνάσσει τῆσδε Πρωτέως γόνος

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

τόδ' ἔστ' ἐκεῖν' αἴνιγμ' ὃ προσπόλου κλύω

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ποίοις ἐπιστὰς βαρβάροις πυλώμασιν ,

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

790 τοῖσδ', ἔνθεν ὥσπερ πτωχὸς ἐξηλαυνόμην

ΕΛΕΝΗ

οὔ που προσῄτεις βίοτον , ὦ τάλαιν' ἐγώ.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

τοὔργον μὲν ἦν τοῦτ', ὄνομα δ' οὐκ εἶχον τόδε

ΕΛΕΝΗ

πάντ' οἶσθ' ἄρ,' ὡς ἔοικας, ἀμφ' ἐμῶν γάμων.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

οἶδ'· εἰ δὲ λέκτρα διέφυγες τάδ' οὐκ ἔχω.

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ἄθικτον εὐνὴν ἴσθι σοι σεσωσμένην.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

τίς τοῦδε πειθώ , φίλα γάρ, εἰ σαφῆ, λέγεις

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ὁρᾷς τάφου τοῦδ' ἀθλίους ἕδρας ἐμάς ,

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

ὁρῶ, τάλαινα, στιβάδας, ὧν τί σοὶ μέτα ,

HELEN

Coming unlooked-for thou dost thwart my marriage

MENELAUS

How?—purposeth some man to wed my wife?

HELEN

Yea, to repeat all tyrannous wrong I have borne

MENELAUS

In his own might, or as this country's king?

HELEN

He is ruler of the land, king Proteus' son

MENELAUS

This was the riddle that the portress spake!

HELEN

At which of the alien portals didst thou stand?

MENELAUS

At these, whence like a beggar I was driven

HELEN

Not surely begging bread?—ah, woe is me!

MENELAUS

Such was my plight beggar I named me not

HELEN

Touching my bridal, then, shouldst thou know all

MENELAUS

Yea, but know not if thou hast 'scaped his arms

HELEN

Rest sure, unsullied hath my couch been kept

MENELAUS

Of this what proof?—Glad tidings this, if true

HELEN

Seest thou my wretched session at this tomb?

MENELAUS

A straw couch—hapless, what is this to thee?

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ἐνταῦθα λέκτρων ἱκετεύομεν φυγάς

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

βωμοῦ σπανίζουσ' ἢ νόμοισι βαρβάροις,

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ἐρρύεθ' ἡμᾶς τοῦτ' ἴσον ναοῖς θεῶν

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

οὐδ' ἄρα πρὸς οἴκους ναυστολεῖν σ' ἔξεστί μοι,

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ξίφος μένει σε μᾶλλον ἢ τοὐμὸν λέχος

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

οὕτως ἂν εἴην ἀθλιώτατος βροτῶν.

ΕΛΕΝΗ

μή νυν καταιδοῦ· φεῦγε δ' ἐκ τῆσδε χθονός.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

λιπών σε, Τροίαν ἐξέπερσα σὴν χάριν κρεῖσσον γὰρ ἦ σε τἄμ' ἀποκτεῖναι λέχη.

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

ἄνανδρά γ' εἶπας Ἰλίου τ' οὐκ ἄξια.

ΕΛΕΝΗ

οὐκ ἂν κτάνοις τύραννον, ὃ σπεύδεις ἴσως.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

οὕτω σιδήρῳ τρωτὸν οὐκ ἔχει δέμας;

ΕΛΕΝΗ

εἴσει. τὸ τολμᾶν δ' ἀδύνατ' ἀνδρὸς οὐ σοφοῦ.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

σιγῇ παράσχω δῆτ' ἐμὰς δῆσαι χέρας;

ΕΛΕΝΗ

εἰς ἄπορον ἥκεις· δεῖ δὲ μηχανῆς τινος,

HELEN

Fleeing this marriage I am suppliant here

MENELAUS

No altar nigh?—or this the alien's wont?

HELEN

As well this warded me as fanes of Gods.

MENELAUS

May I not bear thee home, then, overseas?

HELEN

The sword awaits thee rather than mine arms

MENELAUS

Then were I of all men unhappiest

HELEN

Now think not shame to flee from this land forth

MENELAUS

And leave thee?—I, who sacked Troy for thy sake!

HELEN

Better than that my couch should be thy death

MENELAUS

Tush—craven promptings these, unworthy Troy!

HELEN

Thou canst not slay the king—perchance thy purpose

MENELAUS

How?—hath he flesh invulnerable of steel?

HELEN

That shalt thou prove None wise dares hopeless venture

MENELAUS

How? shall I tamely let them bind mine hands?

HELEN

Thou art in a strait there needs some shrewd device

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

δρῶντας γὰρ ἢ μὴ δρῶντας ἥδιον θανεῖν

ΕΛΕΝΗ

μί' ἔστιν ἐλπίς, ἦ μόνῃ σωθεῖμεν ἄν

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

ὠνητὸς ἢ τολμητὸς ἢ λόγων ὕπο ;

ΕΛΕΝΗ

εἰ μὴ τύραννός σ' ἐκπύθοιτ' ἀφιγμένον.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

ἐρεῖ δὲ τίς μ' , οὐ γνώσεταί γ' ὅς εἰμ' ἐγώ

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ἔστ' ἔνδον αὐτῷ ξύμμαχος θεοῖς ἴση

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

φήμη τις οἴκων ἐν μυχοῖς ἱδρυμένη ,

ΕΛΕΝΗ

οὔκ, ἀλλ' ἀδελφή Θεονόην καλοῦσί νιν χρηστήριον μὲν τοὔνομ'· ὅ τι δὲ δρᾷ φράσον.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

ΕΛΕΝΗ

πάντ' οἶδ', ἐρεῖ τε συγγόνῳ παρόντα σε

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

θνήσκοιμεν ἄν λαθεῖν γὰρ οὐχ οἷόν τέ μοι

ΕΛΕΝΗ

εἴ πως ἂν ἀναπείσαιμεν ἱκετεύοντέ νιν—

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

τί χρῆμα δρᾶσαι , τίν' ὑπάγεις μ' ἐς ἐλπίδα ;

ΕΛΕΝΗ

παρόντα γαίᾳ μὴ φράσαι σε συγγόνῳ

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

πείσαντε δ' ἐκ γῆς διορίσαιμεν ἂν πόδα , κοινῇ γ' ἐκείνῃ ῥᾳδίως, λάθρᾳ δ' ἂν οὔ.

ΕΛΕΝΗ

MENELAUS
Best die in action, not with folded hands

HELEN
One hope there is whereby we might be saved—

MENELAUS
By bribes, by daring, or by cunning speech?

HELEN
If but the king may know not of thy coming

MENELAUS
Who will betray me? He shall know me not

HELEN
An ally wise as Gods he hath within.

MENELAUS
A Voice that haunts dark crypts within his halls? 820

HELEN
Nay, but his sister. Theonoe her name

MENELAUS
Oracular the name.—what doth she?—say

HELEN
All things she knows,—shall tell him thou art here

MENELAUS
Then must I die, for hid I cannot be.

HELEN
What if by prayers we might prevail with her—

MENELAUS
To do what?—to what hope wouldst lead me on?

HELEN
To tell her brother of thy presence nought?

MENELAUS
Prevailing so, our feet might flee the land?

HELEN
Lightly, if she connive in secret, no.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

σὸν ἔργον, ὡς γυναικὶ πρόσφορον γυνή

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ὡς οὐκ ἄχρωστα γόνατ' ἐμῶν ἕξει χερῶν.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

φέρ,' ἢν δὲ δὴ νῷν μὴ ἀποδέξηται λόγους ;

ΕΛΕΝΗ

θανεῖ· γαμοῦμαι δ' ἡ τάλαιν' ἐγὼ βίᾳ

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

προδότις ἂν εἴης τὴν βίαν σκήψασ' ἔχεις.

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ἀλλ' ἁγνὸν ὅρκον σὸν κάρα κατώμοσα—

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

τί φής , θανεῖσθαι κοὔποτ' ἀλλάξειν λέχη ;

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ταὐτῷ ξίφει γε· κείσομαι δὲ σοῦ πέλας

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

ἐπὶ τοῖσδε τοίνυν δεξιᾶς ἐμῆς θίγε

ΕΛΕΝΗ

ψαύω, θανόντος σοῦ τόδ' ἐκλείψειν φάος.

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

κἀγὼ στερηθεὶς σοῦ τελευτήσω βίον

ΕΛΕΝΗ

πῶς οὖν θανούμεθ' ὥστε καὶ δόξαν λαβεῖν ;

ΜΕΝΕΛΑΟΣ

τύμβου 'πὶ νώτῳ σὲ κτανὼν ἐμὲ κτενῶ πρῶτον δ' ἀγῶνα μέγαν ἀγωνιούμεθα λέκτρων ὑπὲρ σῶν· ὁ δὲ θέλων ἴτω πέλας τὸ Τρωικὸν γὰρ οὐ καταισχυνῶ κλέος οὐδ' Ἑλλάδ' ἐλθὼν λήψομαι πολὺν ψόγον, ὅστις Θέτιν μὲν ἐστέρησ' Ἀχιλλέως, Τελαμωνίου δ' Αἴαντος εἰσεῖδον σφαγάς,

MENELAUS
Essay thou woman toucheth woman's heart

HELEN
Surely mine hands about her knees shall cling

MENELAUS
Hold—what if she will none of our appeal?

HELEN
Thou diest · and I, woe's me, shall wed perforce

MENELAUS
Then wert thou traitress—false the plea of force!

HELEN
Nay, by thine head I swear a solemn oath—

MENELAUS
How?—wilt thou die ere thou desert thy lord?

HELEN
Yea, by thy sword beside thee will I lie

MENELAUS
Then, for this pledge, lay thou thine hand in mine

HELEN
I clasp—I swear to perish if thou fall

MENELAUS
And I, of thee bereft, to end my life.

HELEN
How, dying, shall we then with honour die?

MENELAUS
On the tomb's crest thy life I'll spill, then mine
But first in strife heroic will I strive For thee, belovèd let who dare draw nigh
I will not shame the glory achieved at Troy,
Nor flee to Greece, to meet a nation's scoff
I!—who robbed Thetis of her hero-son,
Who saw Telamonian Aias slaughtered lie,

All hail ! for Helen's noble spirit's sake--
Which thing is not in many women found !

CHORUS

O the works of the Gods—in manifold wise they reveal them [plishment bring Manifold things unhoped-for the Gods to accom-
And the things that we looked for, the Gods deign 1690 not to fulfil them, [unseal them
And the paths undiscerned of our eyes, the Gods
So fell this marvellous thing.
